THREE PITCHED BATTLES

Bulgarians Driven Back by Servians Near Monastir, Repulsed by Greeks Near Salonika.

DANILO LEAVES SCUTARI

Montenegrin Crown Prince Marches North to Defend Cettinje Against Austrians.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Tuesday, April 29.—The Daily Telegraph's Bucharest correspondent says that at least three important battles have been fought by the Balkan allies within the last week without anybody in the outside world being aware of the fact, with the exception of the General Staffs, monarchs, and War Ministers of the nations concerned.

The position could hardly be more serious. It is firmly believed that the moment a peace treaty is signed between the allies and Turkey a fresh war will begin, with Servia and Greece conducting simultaneous campaigns against Bulgaria.

On April 10 a Bulgarian division attacked the Servian infantry brigade garrisoning two villages twenty miles northeast of Monastir. After several hours' fighting the Servians retired from one village, but during the night they were reinforced and took the offensive for two days. They pushed the Bulgarians back and pursued them twenty-five miles. The losses on both sides were heavy.

All last week, also, in the vicinity of Nigrita, Seres, and Salonika fighting was in progress between the Bulgarians and a Greek division. The former were repulsed, several hundred casualties resulting.

The Bulgarians are known to have concentrated from 140,000 to 150,000 men in the district around Seres (forty-five miles northeast of Salonika) and Kavalla. The Greeks have concentrated almost as many troops between Salonika and Seres. The Servians are assembling an army of nearly 200,000 around Velestino, to the northeast and east of Monastir, to deal with the first Bulgarian Army, which is now marching toward Monastir.

The opinion of the few people who are well informed as to the situation is that war is absolutely inevitable. There will be no declaration of hostilities, but the armies will just begin to fight.

King Constantine will go to Salonika the moment the conflagration breaks out. All his kit is packed, and those members of his staff who have not preceded him keep in hourly touch with him. Every effort is being made to patch up a treaty between Greece and Turkey before the outbreak.

The suppression of the news of the fighting has been possible up to the present because of the rigid censorship and the absence of correspondents from the disturbed regions. Whenever any reference to them has appeared in the press an official denial has promptly followed.

The Ambassadors at their meeting to-day discussed the new situation arising from the fall of Scutari. As far as can be learned no definite decision was reached, and the position remains much the same as yesterday.

The result of the Ambassadors' deliberations is now in the hands of their respective Governments, whose replies are expected on Thursday, when the Ambassadors will reassemble and probably make a decisive pronouncement.

Diplomatists are by no means pessimistic, and, although the position is undoubtedly serious, it is not so immediately critical as might be gathered from the tone of the Vienna papers. A crisis is not likely to arise unless Montenegro refuses the powers' summons to evacuate Scutari.

In the meantime Austria is pressing the other powers to decide what action to take in the event of Montenegro remaining obdurate. It is freely stated in Austro-Hungarian quarters that if no satisfactory decision is reached Austria is likely to take action alone or in co-operation with Italy.

MRS. BELMONT'S "STRIKE."

She Won't Say How She Will Avoid Spending a Cent in England.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 28.—Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, wearing a dress of heliotrope and black brocade trimmed with brown fur, landed at Fishguard this afternoon from the Mauretania.

Reporters wanted to learn from her how she purposed to carry out her reported pledge not to spend a cent in England, but Mrs. Belmont refused to discuss the matter. She said she would spend the night in London and start for the Continent at the earliest possible moment.

"I shall get out as quickly as I can," she said. She then ordered a boy to summon the guard of the Fishguard Express, as she wanted the reporters sent away from the compartment, which, she said, she had reserved.

Asked how she would avoid spending any money, even during a one-night stay, Mrs. Belmont repeated her demand for the guard. "I will say nothing now," she declared. "Nobody here is in sympathy with me or with my policy."

Suffragist sympathizers had been expected to meet the Mauretania at Fishguard, but none appeared.

KRUPP MONOPOLY ABSOLUTE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, April 28.—The weekly paper, Die Standarte, will to-morrow publish sensational information regarding the Krupp Works.

In to-day's discussion by the Budget Commission of the Reichstag the Socialists and Radicals expressed a wish, supported by other sections, that the Government break the Krupp monopoly by giving orders to the Rhenish Metal Works, whose patents for inventions, mostly due to the well-known gun inventor, Ehrhardt, were steadily fought by the Krupps up to the highest imperial courts.

The Standarte will to-morrow announce that in recent months the Krupps bought the greater part of the Rhenish Metal Works' shares through the Berlin private banker, Hugo Graebinitz, who recently committed suicide after his bankruptcy, and through the Kaiser's banker, Ludwig Delbruck, who also recently died and concerning whose death strange rumors were circulated. Delbruck was a member of the Krupp Board of Directors.

Obviously, therefore, the Krupps no longer care whether the Ehrhardt or the Krupp concern gets the orders, for the purchase of the Rhenish Metal Works' shares makes the Krupps' artillery monopoly absolute.

WILSON'S VIEWS OF LIFE.

Get Your Second Wind and Don't Stop Until Grave Is Reached.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—President Wilson, in presenting an American flag to-day to a delegation of forty-seven school boys from San Francisco, made a little speech in which he said:

"I dare say you think that schoolmasters are often a bit hard on you in requiring you to do things in order that you may pass the tests of the school, but I want to warn you that when you get out of the school you are going to have harder schoolmasters than you had before.

"The world requires that we make good, no matter what happens, and the man who does things amounts to a great deal more than the man who wishes he had done things and who promises he will do things. The men I am sorry for are the men who stop and think that they have accomplished something before they stop at the grave itself. You have got to have your second wind in this world and keep it up until the last minute."

GIRL ACCUSES DENTIST.

Dr. A. C. Roy Arrested on Charge of Attacking Patient.

Dr. Albert C. Roy, 32 years old, a dentist of 159 Sixth Avenue, was arrested last night by Detective Vitsch of the East Fifty-first Street Station, on a charge of attempted assault preferred by Miss Martha Pourlaillon, 21 years old, of 228 West Eleventh Street.

Miss Pourlaillon told the police that she went to the dentist's office yesterday to have some teeth treated, and that, while she was in the operating chair, the dentist attacked her. She struggled with him for several minutes and freed herself.

From the dentist's office she went to the home of Judge Edward Swann, 317 West Fourteenth Street, who owns the house in which she lives. She told the Judge her story, and he immediately communicated with Police Headquarters, with the result that Detective Vitsch made the arrest. The dentist refused to discuss his arrest.

NEW YORK DRAFTS FLEMING.

Indiana State Senator to Manage $33,000,000 Corporation Here.

Special to The New York Times.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., April 28.—State Senator Stephen B. Fleming, long a power in Democratic politics in Indiana, is to move from Fort Wayne to New York City within the next sixty days, and consequently will have to resign from the Legislature and drop out as a political leader in Indiana.

Mr. Fleming said to-day that he was to become manager of a thirty-three-million-dollar corporation that is a part of the Morgan interests. The property consists of land near Nashville, Atlanta, and other Southern cities. Connected with the concern is a big fertilizer company. Said Mr. Fleming:

"I am going south on a tour of inspection within a short time, and I'll then go to New York City to close up the contract for taking over the management of the concern."

Mr. Fleming said that had it not been that he is to leave Fort Wayne he assuredly would have been a candidate for Mayor. It is understood that Mr. Fleming has disposed of his interests in the Berhoff Brewing Association of this city, of which he has been president and general manager for years.

SULZER WILL STUMP STATE FOR HIS BILL

Foreseeing Defeat of Primary Measure, He Plans Direct Appeal to the People.

TO CALL A SPECIAL SESSION

Bill Reaches Senate, but the Democratic Caucus Votes to Oppose It.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 28.—Carrying out their plan to kill Gov. Sulzer's Statewide primary bill the caucus of Democratic Senators held to-night voted to oppose the measure.

How the vote stood in caucus none of the leaders would disclose. Senators O'Keefe of Nassau, Wende of Erie, and Duhamel (Independent) of Kings did not attend the caucus. Senators Stilwell of New York and Sanner of Kings were absent, but sent word that they would abide by any action the caucus took. Senator McKnight of Rensselaer, who introduced the Governor's bill, was excused from attending the caucus.

The Democratic members of the Assembly did not reach a vote in their caucus, but decided to meet again after the members had read the Governor's bill. Mr. Levy, the majority leader, said after the adjournment that Mr Eisner of New York, who introduced the bill, was the only one to speak in favor of it. Members who attended the caucus expressed the belief that the Governor's bill had no chance in the lower house.

Final adjournment of the Legislature will be taken on Saturday next, and it is fully expected that the Governor will call the members back for a special session in August or September.

In the intervening months Gov. Sulzer intends to stump the State. He will visit the district of every man who opposes his bill and lay the matter before th elegislator's constitutents.

Then when the Legislature reconvenes the State-wide direct primary bill will be reintroduced and it is the Governor's belief that he will have stirred public sentiment in the meantime so that the Legislature will pass his bill.

The McKnight bill, which embodies Gov. Sulzer's direct primary views, was reported in the Senate to-night, after the veto of the Blauvelt Primary bill had been read. The McKnight bill was made a special order for Wednesday.

In his veto message, Gov. Sulzer called the Blauvelt bill a "fraud."

The only comment was by Senator Blauvelt.

"My first impulse," he said, "was to dignify the message with a reply in an attempt to justify my position and the work I have done on this bill. On second thought I have decided not to do so. The message in thought and word is unworthy of reply. You know my work here, and that I have sought earnestly and conscientiously to carry out the platform and to meet conditions in all counties. I have consulted Republicans, Progressives and Democrats with a view of meeting all complaints. I decline to refer further to the message."

The message was laid on the table.

Sulzer Burns His Bridges.

It was the general opinion at the Capitol to-night that Gov. Sulzer had burned all his bridges behind him, and that from now on there would be open warfare between him and the Democratic State organization. Gov. Sulzer already has made it plain that he will fight the bosses with their own weapons and use all the patronage power his office gives him to drive his enemies out of public life. The legislative leaders are not overlooking the gravity of the situation, and realize that the Governor, if he makes good his threat, can crush scores of men whose influence in the organization up to the present time never has been disputed.

No exact date for the extraordinary session of the Legislature has been set by Gov. Sulzer, but it is thought that the legislators will not be called back to Albany before August or September.

By that time, the Governor's friends say, he will have had time to put into operation his plan of "eliminating" the undesirables from power in the councils of the party by a discriminating dispensation of patronage.

Gov. Sulzer thinks that the passage of his bill would sound "the death knell of boss power" in this State, and for that reason he says that he will stake his own political future in the attempt to put the bill through. Some lawmakers heard with alarm to-day that when Gov. Sulzer starts out to stump the State he will be provided with campaign material of a peculiarly personal nature, the like of which no one ever dared to use in a campaign before. It is likely that as a result many politicians will be uneasy until the Sulzer direct nominations campaign is over.

Gov. Sulzer to-day made public letters and telegrams he had received from leaders throughout the State in support of his bill. One of the notable recruits is Joseph Cassidy, the former Democratic boss of Queens. Mr. Cassidy, who was shorn of power because he was looked upon as a boss of the old school, now is a strong advocate of direct primaries.

Anger in the Legislature.

The legislative leaders continued today to express their resentment against Gov. Sulzer. Senator Blauvelt said that the Governor's intimidation of the County Chairmen at the Capitol on Saturday was a mere trifle in comparison with the letters which had been sent to office holders directing them to appear at the demonstration in favor of the Governor's bill.

"I have personally seen a letter to an office holder," said Senator Blauvelt, "which contained the most peremptory direction for that man to attend the hearing. The letter in effect said:

"'You are an office holder holding a most lucrative position under the present administration. As such you will be expected to attend the hearing.' I think the people when they understand the nature of the Governor's appeal will resent what he is doing as entirely out of accord with his anti-boss declarations. No boss ever resorted to such unscrupulous methods to attain his purposes."

FIREMEN AGAINST NEW PENSION BILLS

Chief Kenlon to Head Delegation That Will Ask the Mayor to Veto Them.

Alarmed at the apparently successful progress through the Legislature of mesaures calculated to throw open the promotion and pension system of the Fire Department to certain of its civil employes, Fire Chief Kenlon, accompanied by eight Deputy Chiefs, called on Fire Commissioner Johnson yesterday to protest in behalf of the uniformed force against these measures or any like them, and to get his assent to their plan of sending a delegation to the Mayor.

One bill is already before the Mayor awaiting his approval or his veto, and, unless all signs fail, two more bills soon will have reached the same stage. Their enactment into law, in the opinion not only of the rank and file of the department, but of the Chiefs, will impair the integrity of the uniformed force to an extent discouraging to the men themselves and of serious consequence to the citizens of New York.

Two bills already in the Legislature, one of them fathered by Christy Sullivan, refer to something more than 100 members of the fire alarm and telegraph division. The Fire Chiefs say that these two bills are only an entering wedge. If passed and signed, they will be followed by other bills affecting all the 500 or more civil employes of the department, from the wiremen to the stenographers. It is pretty generally understood at Fire Headquarters that every group in the civil list has its own little bill up its sleeve.

What these civil employes want is admission to the promotion and pension system that has long been in force in the uniformed department. They want, after certain years of service, to receive ranks and pay like the various grades among the fire fighters themselves.

Why Fire Chiefs Object.

Commissioner Johnson, while he is of the opinion that some of their fears are exaggerated, is in sympathy with the feeling among the uniformed men that employes in the fire alarm and telegraph bureau, for instance, ought not be granted the same recognition which law and custom have hitherto reserved for the men who go out and fight fires.

The public hears little of the fireman's task except when it is thrown into sharp relief against the spectacular setting of such a fire as that which consumed the Equitable Building. The public hears less of the firemen dragged unconscious from the gas-filled cellars of burning buildings and hosts of children carried down the fire escapes of flame-swept tenements. These things are so common that they often go unchronicled.

The uniformed men object to the admission of these men to the pension fund. They object to its being enjoyed by men less hardy than themselves, men who may have entered the department much later in life and perhaps in poor physical condition. They fear, too, that such admission will entitle these civil employes to draw on a fund to which they, through the various penalty and leave of absence deductions, have contributed.

May Protest to Mayor.

Attachés of the department more in sympathy with the efforts of the civil employes to enter the graded pension system insisted yesterday that the bills would not admit the non-uniformed men to competition in civil service examinations for higher posts or make them amenable to fire duty.

The chiefs, however, were not at all sure that when these questions arose later, despite the apparent purport of the bills, the courts would not hold that the division employes were eligible to such competition, and not a few of the chiefs foresaw the possibility that one day one of these men might become Chief of the Fire Department.

Commissioner Johnson made this statement last night:

"A committee of Deputy Chiefs visited me to-day, asking permission to appear before the Mayor in opposition to various bills which they conceived affect the uniformed force in the Fire Department. I gave them permission to present their arguments. I am opposed to any measure affecting the promotion and pension system of the uniformed force. However, I reminded the delegation that in my opinion faithful and efficient division employes had the same right as they to a proper promotion and pension system, if it would not injure the uniformed branch."

FIRE DEPARTMENT BILLS.

Legislative Measures Which Tammany Members Are Pushing.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 28.—A bill now before Mayor Gaynor for approval would make the 375 workers in the telegraph bureau of the New York Fire Department members of the uniformed force, and as such entitled to participation in the pension fund. It wsa introduced by Senator Herrick and Assemblyman Carver of New York. The bill was passed despite vigorous opposition.

It was stated here to-night that in all probability Mayor Gaynor would veto the measure as being contrary to the policy of the city administration. It is only one of several measures contemplating the swelling of the city's pension rolls by civilian employes.

There are pending a number of other bills which, were they to become law, would have the effect of draining the pension fund of the Fire Department. One of these, introduced by Senator Christy Sullivan, provides that the Chief Inspector, Foreman of Cable Splicers and laborers engaged in construction and repairs work for the telegraph bureau of the department be made members of the uniformed force and given a share in the pension fund of the department, which was originated for the relief of the uniformed members who risk their lives and health in fighting fire and saving human lives. This bill was reported to-night by the Committee on Rules and pushed through the Assembly as a special order on second and third reading.

EARTHQUAKE SHOCK ALONG ST. LAWRENCE

Street Cars Bumped, Houses Shaken, and Dishes Rattled, but No Damage.

Special to The New York Times.

OTTAWA, Ont., April 28.—An earthquake shook the capital city to-night. The shock was generally perceptible throughout the city, but was most pronounced in the residential district of Sandy Hill, to the east, overlooking the Rideau River. Many of Ottawa's finest homes are situated in this section. The disturbance caused consternation. People ran from their homes into the streets. Little actual damage was done and the excitement soon subsided.

The tremor was felt at 7:29 o'clock, and lasted fifteen seconds. People traveling on the street railway noticed that something was wrong when the cars began bumping about on the rails. A report that the big dome of the Dominion Observatory at the Experimental Farm had collapsed proved unfounded. The instruments at the observatory recorded the quake. Loose stones were shaken down from the cliff back of Parliament Hill.

MONTREAL, April 28.—A slight earthquake shock was felt here shortly after 7:30 P. M. No damage is reported. The inmates of a hospital in the west end of the city, where the movement was most pronounced, were considerably excited.

The shock was particularly violent in the northwestern part of the city and Westmount, where houses swayed and furniture rattled several seconds, though little damage was done.

The Tunnel engineers are making a survey of the tunnel works. Up to a late hour to-night no damage had been reported.

Special to The New York Times.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., April 28.—An earthquake shook Northern New York along the St. Lawrence River this evening, affecting villages from Clayton to Ogdensburg. The earthquake was felt a considerable distance inland. No serious damage was reported.

The earthquake was felt about 7:45 and its duration was a half minute or less. Points from which it was reported include Clayton, Alexandria Bay, Ogdensburg, Bangor, Potsdam, Gouverneur, and Philadelphia, N. Y. In nearly all of these places the shock was sufficient to cause houses to shake and dishes to rattle. At Alexandria Bay, it was said, the shock broke dishes.

The earthquake was accompanied by a storm along the river, a high wind being reported at Clayton. The river rose also and waves dashed over the wharves at various points. The shock was not felt in this city.

OGDENSBURG, April 28.—The heaviest earthquake ever experienced in Ogdensburg occurred at 7:30 this evening. It lasted half a minute and was followed by a loud rumbling sound. Buildings throughout the city shook so that the people ran into the streets in fear that they would collapse. The shock was felt in many towns of Franklin and St. Lawrence Counties.

SYRACUSE, April 28.—At Canton, St. Lawrence County, the earthquake shock continued a minute. Houses were jarred and dishes rattled, but no damage was done.

SHERIFF BY SULZER'S SLAP.

Governor Empowers Brown and Breaks Suffolk Deadlock.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 28.—Under very unusual circumstances, Gov. Sulzer this afternoon appointed D. H. Brown of Riverhead Sheriff of Suffolk County. Gov. Sulzer was talking with a number of friends in the Executive Chamber about the case of Sheriff Melville E. Brush, whom he to-day formally removed from office.

"Whom will you appoint to succeed Mr. Brush?" Gov. Sulzer was asked.

"I told the men here from Suffolk County that I would give them until 4 o'clock to agree on a man, and that if they did not agree I would choose a man for them," the Governor replied.

Gov. Sulzer then called about him the Suffolk County Democrats who were in the Executive Chamber. He found that they had not agreed. Ex-Senator Bailey is regarded as the organization leader, and he favored the selection of Bernard Conklin.

"Has this man ever held office?" Gov. Sulzer asked, pointing to Mr. Brown. Somebody said that Mr. Brown had never held office.

"Here's your next Sheriff," the Governor said, slapping Mr. Brown on the back.

Mr. Brown is a Democrat. His predecessor, Mr. Brush, is a Republican. In removing Sheriff Brush, Gov. Sulzer disregarded the report of W. B. Dowd of New York, who said that the charges against Mr. Brush had not been sustained.

PERKINS SEES ROOSEVELT.

City Politics Suggested as Cause of Oyster Bay Visit.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., April 28.—George W. Perkins made a flying trip to Sagamore Hill in his automobile tonight and had a conference with Col. Roosevelt. Mr. Perkins stayed about an hour and when he left refused to tell what had been discussed by himself and the Colonel.

Mr. Perkins was asked if the trip had been made to discuss the Progressive Mayoralty candidate, but he was uncommunicative. Col. Roosevelt would say nothing.

It was rumored here that Mr. Perkins made his trip to acquaint the Colonel with the political outlook in Greater New York. It is supposed that Mr. Perkins sought the advice of the Colonel on rumors that Tammany Hall was trying to nominate a fusion ticket this Fall, with John Purroy Mitchel, President of the Board of Aldermen, as the candidate for Mayor. It is said that it had been the intention of the Progressives to nominate Mr. Mitchel as their candidate.

He left after 10 o'clock, to return in his machine to Manhattan.

MISS BORDEN TO GO WEST WITH MOTHER

Mrs. Borden Arrives in City and Father Brings Daughter Here to Meet Her.

WILL LIVE IN LOS ANGELES

Girl Wired Mother When She Left Sanitarium—Mrs. White in Chicago, Says Ellison.

Mrs. Helen Valk Borden arrived in this city early yesterday afternoon from her home in Los Angeles, Cal., and at 4:30 o'clock met her daughter, Ramona, who last Wednesday ran away from the Adams Sanitarius in Pompton, N. J., with Mrs. William J. White, wife of the chewing gum manufacturer, and another woman.

Last night mother and daughter were together in the Hotel Belmont. In a few days Mrs. Borden will return to Los Angeles with Miss Borden. Gail Borden, father of the girl, has voluntarily relinquished possession and will place no obstacle in the way of his wife's plans. Mr. and Mrs. Borden are not on speaking terms, but by negotiations carried on between Mrs. Borden and the brother and sister of her husband it was agreed yesterday that the guardianship in the future should be joint. Until the stir caused by the flight of the girl has subsided, however, she will remain with her mother.

It was learned yesterday that Ramona had telegraphed to her mother on the day that she fled from the sanitarium. Mrs. Borden at once started on her way East. On the way she exchanged telegrams with the girl and with the brother and sister of Mr. Borden. When she arrived here, Mrs. Borden at once telephoned to the relatives of Mr. Borden, announcing her arrival. In her telegrams she had proposed that the girl be given to her. After talking over the telephone to the brother of Mr. Borden she was confident that he would agree to her suggestion.

Mrs. Borden then visited the office of her lawyer, Moses H. Grossman, at 115 Broadway. Mr. Grossman was ill in bed at his home, 210 Riverside Drive, and she visited him there in the middle of the afternoon. She was anxious that there should be no legal difficulty in the way of her plan. In order to get her husband's approval, she was willing to agree that the girl's time should be divided between them.

Grossman Advises.

Mr. Grossmanu told her that, if her husband's consent was obtained, no legal steps would be necessary. Miss Borden is now 17 years old, and the lawyer said that, if the girl chose to live with her mother, no court would be likely to interfere with that arrangement.

Mrs. Borden left her lawyer at 4 o'clock, and at 6 o'clock she telephoned to him that her daughter was with her. Mr. Borden and his daughter, anticipating the arrival of Mrs. Borden, came down from Boston yesterday. Mr. Borden escorted his daughter to the Belmont.

Mr. and Mrs. Borden both have a home in Los Angeles. For some years, however, they have lived apart. Mrs. Borden is willing that her daughter shall live with her father when he is in Los Angeles. At other times, however, she will live with Mrs. Borden and Mrs. Borden's parents. Mrs. Borden told her lawyer that she would send her daughter to a school in Los Angeles.

Until Mrs. Borden notified Mr. Grossman, only the members of the family knew that this settlement had been decided upon. Grenville Clark, counsel for Mr. Borden, had received no word that Mrs. Borden had arrived here and had the daughter. He said last night:

"This is the first I have heard that Mrs. Borden is in the city and in possession of her daughter. I have received no word from Mr. Borden since I left him at Boston after he had recovered his child. At that time he had no intention of giving her up, so far as I know. However, Mr. Borden knows what he is doing and is perfectly capable of acting for himself."

Raymond J. Burns, son of William J. Burns, who found the missing girl, said that he understood Mr. Borden was to stay in Boston till to-day, and that he was surprised to learn that he had come to this city and given up his daughter. Though Mr. Borden was in the city, he did not return to the Hotel Manhattan.

According to Mr. Grossman, Mrs. Borden was no party to the plan for the girl's flight and had no thought of crossing the continent to take charge of her daughter, till she received the telegram from her daughter, pleading for her to come East.

Mrs. White in Chicago.

Mrs. White, according to her lawyer, William B. Ellison, ex-Corporation Counsel, was in Chicago yesterday. Mr. Ellison was notified by Mrs. White that Mrs. Borden was on her way East. It was learned from Mrs. Borden's lawyer that she had not met Mrs. White at Chicago on her way East.

"When Miss Borden ran away from her father in March," said Mr. Ellison, "she went to Mrs. White, who was in Savannah, Ga. Mrs. White at once telegraphed to Mr. Borden for instructions. He sent a representative after the girl, but he arrived after Mrs. White and Miss Borden had gone to Washington. In Washington she returned to her father. That was in the middle of April. The girl was then placed in the sanitarium."

Mrs. Borden attempted unsuccessfully to get a decree of divorce from her husband in the Los Angeles courts in 1911. She brought suit on the ground of desertion. Mr. Borden was himself so much in favor of divorce that he presented no defense.

Mrs. Borden told the court that she had been deserted in July, 1909. Previously she and her husband, she said, had signed separation papers, Mr. Borden giving his wife $75,000 worth of real estate and agreeing to pay her $500 a month during her life.

She guarded the family secrets, however, saying only that she and her husband had disagreed over the bringing up of their daughter, her schooling, and her social life. When Mrs. Borden expected a decree by default Judge Hauser surprised her by insisting that her husband should be interrogated.

Mr. Borden took the stand as a reluctant witness, although it was supposed that the Judge simply wished to ascertain if collusion existed. The Judge, however, soon gave him to understand that he suspected that there was some more serious cause for their disagreement.

"There are no secret divorce proceedings in my court," said Judge Hauser. "It is optional with you whether you wish to tell all or have the case thrown out of court."

Mr. Borden said that he had no statements to make in addition to the testimony he had already given. Judge Hauser thereupon denied the application for a divorce.

FAMILY BLOWN UP; 2 DEAD.

Mysterious Explosion in Home of Colorado Assemblyman Bacon.

Special to The New York Times.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Col., April 28.—Mrs. Ida Bacon, wife of James Bacon, Representative from Teller County in the General Assembly, and her six-year-old daughter, Josephine, were instantly killed, while the life of Bacon hangs in the balance, as the result of a mysterious explosion, which wrecked the Bacon home this morning. The force of the explosion was terrific, and is ascribed to dynamite or nitroglycerine.

It was while a fire was being started in the kitchen stove preparatory to getting breakfast that the explosion occurred. Mrs. Bacon and the little daughter were, it is believed, arranging the breakfast table, while the head of the family was building the fire.

Mrs. Bacon was 26 years old and a daughter of the Rev. A. B. Meming of New York. She was divorced several years ago from W. J. Davidson, a letter carrier of Brooklyn. The little girl was the stepdaughter of Bacon.

NO REMOVALS BY MARSHALL

New U. S. District Attorney Has Only Two Vacancies to Fill.

H. Snowden Marshall, who will assume the office of Federal District Attorney on Thursday, announced last night that he had no intention of making any changes in the personnel of the District Attorney's office. He has twenty assistants, and has had 250 applications for the jobs, but he will not ask any of the present incumbents to resign.

Assistant District Attorneys Levy and Smith, however, have decided to resign for their own convenience in order to resume private practice. Mr. Marshall will have these vacancies to fill. The Assistant District Attorneys receive salaries ranging from $1,500 to $5,000, according to their experience and the responsibility of the work intrusted to them.

THREW JEWELS INTO FIRE.

Chair-Pusher Admits Theft of Mrs. Craig Lippincott's Bag.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 28.—After an hour's ride in a roller chair on the Boardwalk here yesterday, Mrs. Craig Lippincott of Philadelphia discovered that she had left her silver mesh bag on the seat. It had contained $23 in cash and $200 worth of jewels.

When the negro chair-pusher was arrested he admitted having taken the bag and emptying the money into his pocket. Then, he said, he had thrown the bag and the jewels into the furnace of a tar boiler on the north side of the city.

Before they could be recovered the fire under the boiler had to be drawn. The mountings had been ruined, but the stones were unimpaired.

DROWNS FOR HIS DOG.

Barge Captain Plunges Overboard to Rescue a Collie.

Duty, the large collie dog of John Erickson, Captain of the lumber barge Lex, which is moored in the Passaic River at Kearny, N. J., fell from the barge last night and sank immediately. His master, when the dog did not rise to the surface, plunged in after him. Mrs. Mary Erickson, the Captain's wife, came from the cabin to see the rescue.

To the dismay of Mrs. Erickson her husband did not reappear above the surface. In terror she rushed to the side of the barge and would have jumped into the Passaic also had not men from nearby boats leaped aboard the Lex and restrained her. She was taken to the home of New York friends in a hysterical condition.

GAYLEY AUTO HITS TWO.

Steel Trust Official Rushes Boy and Girl Victims to Hospital.

While attempting to cross Fifth Avenue at Seventy-second Street last night, Joseph Devorck, 19 years old, of 1,401 Avenue A, and Rose Sturheler, 16 years old, of 427 East Seventy-second Street, were struck and knocked down by an automobile, owned by James Gayley of the United States Steel Corporation, whose home is at 5 East Fiftieth Street. The car was operated by William Frisca of 256 West 144th Street.

Mr. Gayley was riding in the car at the time, and with the aid of his chauffeur he lifted the youth and girl into the automobile and drove with them to the Presbyterian Hospital, where they were treated by Dr. Riley, the young man for laceration of the scalp and the girl for cuts about the face and hands.

They both went home after treatment. No arrests were made.

YALE SPEEDERS WERE BROKE

Special to The New York Times.

LARCHMONT, N. Y., April 28.—Harold L. Williamson and three of his classmates at Yale were hastening back to college by automobile last evening after a week-end in New York when they were taken into custody here by a policeman who saw them speeding through the village at the rate of forty miles an hour and who caught them after a chase of two miles. As driver of the car Williamson was found guilty and fined $15 by Judge Collins.

Williamson did not have that much, he said. The Judge suggested that among them they might be able to raise the sum. The four then went into Committee of the Whole and emerged sheepishly with $2.95 as the total sum left after the New York expedition. Williamson did have a gold watch, which the Judge agreed to hold as surety for the fund, but as it was a very handsome watch and very costly, Williamson objected.

"I hate like — to leave it," he said in an informal, undergraduate manner.

At that the Judge, who had been in a tolerant mood, became very indignant and offered Williamson his choice between a cash payment of the fine or jail until such payment could be made. The Judge's indignation lasted until Williamson was on the point of dissolving in tears, when he relented and accepted the watch after all.

USHER'S GREEN STRIPE SCOTCH Is Mellowed by Great Age.—Adv.

DELAY LAND BILL IS BRYAN'S PLEA

JOHNSON'S ANGER RISES

SESSIONS HELD IN SECRET

Special to The New York Times.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., April 28.—At a secret conference attended to-day by the 120 members of the California Legislature, Gov. Johnson, and Lieut. Gov. Wallace, Secretary Bryan delivered the views of President Wilson on the proposed alien land legislation. The Secretary said California might exercise the fullness of her right as a State and enact a rigid law barring Orientals from land ownership, but such action would be against the wishes of the National Administration.

The Secretary of State counseled delay, and as various alternatives suggested that a new treaty with Japan might be sought; that a commission might be appointed to investigate the alien situation with the aid of the President, and finally that if an alien land law seemed imperative its terms should not be such as to give offense.

Two conferences were held, and in both the deliberations were secret. The Secretary was guarded in his remarks and the members of the Assembly were much impressed.

But it is feared that Gov. Johnson spoiled all chance of the Administration's suggestions being carried out by rising in a rage at the afternoon conference and asserting that the majority in the Legislature would jam through an anti-alien bill that would prevent any alien ineligible to citizenship from owning land or carrying on any corporation.

The Governor's wrath was due to the fact that several of his lieutenants expressed themselves as favorable to Mr. Bryan's plan to postpone action until a commission of investigation should decide whether such legislation was urgent.

The Governor's anger was also stirred by Mr. Bryan's inquiry as to why, if alien land legislation was urgent, Mr. Johnson's own party, as well as the Republicans, had failed to include any reference to the subject in their platform, leaving the Democrats, who were only one-fourth of the legislative strength, as the only party to use such a plank.

The conference will be resumed to-morrow.

Behind Locked Doors.

Secretary Bryan arrived in Sacramento at 6 o'clock this morning, and arrangements were made for an immediate hearing of the Administration's attitude on the alien land bill question.

Until the doors of the Assembly Chamber were closed and locked at 11 o'clock Secretary Bryan refused to give any inkling of his message, and even at the conference he spoke only after the legislators had fully explained the public demand for alien land legislation.

Those who expected Secretary Bryan to expound a new theory of State's rights were disappointed, as were those who expected predictions of war. Advice in the name of President Wilson was all that Mr. Bryan had to offer, and the paramount question here to-night is whether such advice will overcome the previously announced determination of the Progressive Republican majority to enact an anti-alien land holding law along lines already agreed upon.

Secretary Bryan reaffirmed the State's right to act, but suggested several alternatives to a bill restricting aliens "ineligible to citizenship," basing his reasons on the broad foundation of public policy. Briefly these alternatives, in the order in which they were suggested, are as follows:

First—Delay immediate action and allow the State Department to try to accomplish the ends desired by means of a new treaty with Japan.

Second—Delay immediate action and appoint a commission to investigate the subject of alien land ownership, and act in conjunction with the President in obtaining relief.

Third—Enact a law similar to the statute in Illinois, which permits aliens to hold land for a period not exceeding six years, and applies alike to all aliens.

Fourth—Enact a law similar to the Federal statute governing land ownership in the District of Columbia, which is a general law applying to all aliens.

Of these alternatives leaders in the Legislature assert that the last two are out of the question. Many Democrats favor turning the matter over to the State Department, while the Progressive Republican majority apparently remains unchanged in its support of a bill that would apply its restrictions to Orientals alone.

Says People Will Act.

The conference with Secretary Bryan served to show the breadth of the sentiment in favor of an alien land law that shall be effective in checking the Japanese and Chinese immigration. A dozen or more Senators and Assemblymen declared the people of the State were almost a unit in demanding such a law, and it was asserted that if the Legislature failed to act at this time the matter would be taken up through the initiative and passed by the people themselves.

The conference opened with Lieut. Gov. Wallace in the chair, and Secretary Bryan seated with Gov. Johnson and Speaker C. C. Young of the Assembly on the platform. Secretary Bryan was introduced and asked the conference to tell him the exact situation.

"I was sent to Sacramento at the request of President Wilson," said Mr. Bryan, "to consult with the Governor and the members of the Legislature on the pending alien land legislation. I am more interested in the methods to be employed than in the end to be attained, and I would be pleased to hear suggestions from any of you before speaking further."

Senator Boynton, administration floor leader, thanked Mr. Bryan on behalf of the Legislature for his visit. He then outlined the situation, saying in part:

"At the time President Wilson's telegram was received announcing his wish to send Secretary Bryan to confer with the Legislature there were two bills on this subject before the Senate. It was apparent that the people of the State were strongly in favor of the enactment of an alien land law, and such a law probably would have been passed before this time if it had not been for the telegram from the President. At his request we postponed further consideration of the matter until Mr. Bryan could present his views."

Senator Boynton then requested Mr. Bryan to point out specifically the obections of the National Government and those of Japan to the pending measures and to give his reasons from a diplomatic standpoint why California should not enact such a law. When Mr. Bryan remained silent, other members of the majority party urged him to comply with the request. Senator Caminetti, a Democrat, suggested that a small group of members from both houses be selected to hear Mr. Bryan's arguments, but Senator Boynton protested and carried his point.

Speaks Only for President.

After several others had spoken, many of them quoting statistics to show the increase in land holdings by Japanese in recent years, Secretary Bryan arose. His first statement was concerning the secret conference which he said he had favored with the support of Gov. Johnson and the presiding officers of both houses. He said he could speak with more frankness to the members than he could to a "promiscuous audience."

"As the representative of the President," he began, "I feel keenly the responsibility that is placed upon me. I would have preferred to have him come himself as the head of the Nation, but that seemed impossible, and he delegated me to speak for him. I do not pretend to do other than express his views. I am simply his spokesman, and I will say to you only that which he would have me say.

"As to the constitutionality of our treaty with Japan, you will pardon me if I decline to act as the Supreme Court. Further, as to the question of immigration, I think we can consider that question as independent of the land question, with which we are here concerned."

Questions concerning the treaty and the immigration of Japanese to the United States had been asked during the debate.

Continuing, Mr. Bryan said:

"I have listened to what you have said, and I assume everything to be true; that you have not overdrawn nor exaggerated the feeling of the people of California in the matter. I can assume that the people demand that something be done.

"In that case, the first question is whether the legislation is demanded at this time. If it can be delayed, then the first suggestion that the President would have me make is that you permit an effort to be made to deal with the question diplomatically, with a view of reaching the same results without legislation.

"If the demand is so immediate that this cannot be done, can action be deferred for two years, and in the meantime have a commission appointed to investigate conditions and act with the Executive? Would it not be worth while to try this plan before you adopt the plan that might result in unfriendliness from a foreign nation?

Makes No Prophesies.

"I am not going to indulge in any speculations as to what may happen if you do anything now, but I am here to advise against the use of any language that would offend any people that have dealings with us."

In case immediate action was demanded, Secretary Bryan said, he would be in favor of a law framed along the lines of the Illinois law and the Federal statute in the District of Columbia, both of which were general in character.

"Either of these measures is preferable to language that includes the words 'ineligible to citizenship,'" said Mr. Bryan. "President Wilson believes that if you use these words, you might as well make a law declaring specifically against Japanese and Chinese ownership.

"This expresses the views of the President. He desires me to say that if such a law is passed, he will recognize his duty as President to do all in his power to minimize the illfeeling that might be aroused. At the same time, he believes it his duty as President to urge earnest consideration of his advice, which is given here with no desire to interfere with what you may regard as necessary. And, further, he urges that, if you proceed at once, you consider the advisability of using language that cannot be justly criticized as offending those nations with whom we are friendly."

Signs of Discord.

At the late afternoon conference the first sign of discord came when Senator Curtin said: "If we could have some assurance from the Federal Government that either by treaty or otherwise it would proceed to curb alien ownership we might defer legislative action now. What assurances of this nature can we take home to our people?"

Mr. Bryan replied: "I have no definite proposition to submit or offer. The President and I have conferred with the Japanese representative, and all I can say is that we feel that it is worth while to make an effort. Your Governor, if he believes an emergency exists, can call a special session. What we suggest is that you wait and let us try to arrange this through diplomatic effort rather than by legislation. I have telegraphed to the President stating that I have offered these suggestions."

"What will be the result if we do pass this bill?" asked Senator Brown.

"It is impossible to state what the result will be," answered Mr. Bryan "Who can look into the future?"

"Would the passage of a bill similar to the Illinois law embarrass the Federal Government?" Senator Kehoe asked.

Secretary Bryan's reply to this queston was: "It would be easier for the President to defend the position under that law than under any other."

Indicating that he had somewhat changed his opinion since the morning session, Senator Curtin then said:

"If we could be assured that we could meet this situation by diplomacy, I for one would be willing to wait."

"I feel more free," said Mr. Bryan, "to ask you to wait till we can make such an effort for the reason that we do not take any right away from the State by such an agreement for delay."

"Why would the Government assume that such an act would be unfriendly?" asked Senator Thompson. "Such a point was not raised with regar dto the Washington law in 1909, and the Arizona law in 1912."

"I have no information in regard to the position taken by the Federal Government at those times," replied Secretary Bryan.

Gov. Johnson Angry.

The statements of Secretary Bryan appeared to have a remarked effect upon the members of the Legislature, especially when it was suggested that if the Japanese Ambassador would give assurance that no more land would be acquired by his people in this country pending the outcome of the diplomatic negotiations. no alien land legislation would be enacted by the California Legislature.

Teh fact that the suggestion came from the Administration camp aroused the anger of Gov. Johnson, and immediately he proceeded to threaten that a land bill directed to aliens inelegible to citizenship would be enacted.

"It is not a question whether Japan will be offended, but have we given just cause for that offense?" shouted Gov. Johnson, arising and addressing the assembled members of the Legislature.

The Governor was trembling with wrath. He shook his fist and emphasized his statements with oratorical effect.

"There is no discrimination here," he exclaimed, "but it is a fact that whenever Japanese have applied for citizenship the Circuit Court has decided they are ineligible. Arizona and Washington have these laws on their statute books. I insist that we are within our rights in enacting this law in California."

The Governor declared that the State could not give just offense to Japan by enacting an alien land law prohibiting ineligible aliens from acquiring land. Any offense that might be given to Japan occurred when the Federal Government enacted the present naturalization laws.

To prevent a conflict between the Democrats allied with the Regular Republicans and the Progressives, some one made a motion to adjourn at the call of the Chair.

Senator Caminetti was not satisfied to let the argument end there.

"This same Governor did not make these same threatening statements two years ago," shouted the Democratic war-horse. "A similar situation confronted the State then."

"A point of order," shouted Senator Bohnett, the Governor's adjutant. His point was that the motion to adjourn had been regularly made. Senator Caminetti fumed and shouted, but the motion to adjourn was put and carried.

The next secret session will be called to-morrow, probably as soon as Bryan receives a reply to the telegrams he has sent to President Wilson.

The general comment in Sacramento to-night was that the postponement of all anti-alien legislation would have been approved if Gov. Johnson had not lost his temper.

JAPANESE TO INVESTIGATE.

Two Political Parties Sending Representatives to California.

TOKIO, April 28.—The report that Viscount Kentaro Kaneko, privy councillor, is going to Sacramento in connection with the alien land ownership legislation is untrue, but the Seiyukai (Constitutional) and Kokuminto (Opposition) parties are sending representatives to California to make a personal investigation of the situation.

The Japanese Government has no present intention of sending a representative to Sacramento. Special dispatches from New York report that Viscount Chinda, the Ambassador to the United States, has been ordered to Tokio, but the Foreign Office emphatically denies this.

The official view is more hopeful owing to Secretary Bryan's mission, but the public takes the view that the present is the most suitable time to settle the whole American-Japanese question, and thus prevent a recurrence of similar disputes.

An inspired article in the newspaper, Asahi, explains that the delay in putting in force the Japanese foreign land Ownership bill of 1910 is due to the discovery of imperfections. The long list of these indicates that probably years will elapse before the amendments are approved.

WAR SPEECH IN HOUSE.

Mississippian Hotly Defends California Land Bills.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Representative Silsson of Mississippi to-day made the first "war speech" that has been heard in Congress in many a day when he attacked the Administration's policy toward California's alien land bills.

"If we must have war or submit to this indignity, I am for war," cried Mr. Sisson. "I am with the people of California in their efforts to prevent these aliens from acquiring land.

"The President and Secretary of State should only assure an alien Government that the people of that alien Nation would be dealt with fairly in accordance with the law of the State. Any other position would lead to the Federal Government taking out from under the laws of the States the citizens of another Nation. But all citizens or aliens resident in a State must be held subject to its laws, and to exempt the alien would give him privileges over and above those accorded to American citizens."

Representative Mann, the Republican leader, suggested that the United States had the constitutional right to treat with foreign powers to obtain for American citizens property rights abroad, and that Mr. Sisson was contending that the foreign Government did not have a similar right.

Mr. Sisson contended that the people of California had the right to pass laws regarding alien holding of land as in their judgment seemed best, when such laws did not infringe upon the Federal Constitution.

Says Japan Seeks Exemption.

"I believe," said Mr. Sisson, "that no non-resident alien should be allowed to hold a single foot of land in the territory of the United States. What would Washington say in answer to the question, War or submission? What would Jackson say? What would Cleveland say? What would McKinley say? I resent the efforts of Japan to force us to submit to her demands."

Mr. Sisson took the position that the Japanese Government in protecting the California legislation was endeavoring to exempt its citizens from the operation of the laws of States.

"If Japan now threatens us with war what would she do when millions of her citizens have acquired land in our country?" he said. "I lay down the proposition that an alien population holding land within our borders would be a fixed and constant menace.

"We must preserve to the American farmer the right to own the soil of our country without competition which would drag down his standard of living. I would not surrender it unless we had spent the last drop of blood in American manhood, and impoverished our country for a hundred generations.

Greeted With Applause.

"This Democratic administration should announce to the world the doctrine that Congress proposes to recognise the right of the people of these States to determine who shall own the land within the State, and that the United States Government will not prevent the States from making such land laws as they see fit, provided they do not discriminate against citizens of the United States."

Wearied with a week of routine tariff debate the members paid close attention to Mr. Sisson's argument and his speech was frequently interrupted by applause.

SEND APPEAL TO BRYAN.

Church Federation Transmits Plea of 50,000 Japanese.

LOS ANGELES, April 28.—An appeal for assistance "in reaching a mutual understanding in regard to the matters now before the California Legislature," was favorably acted on to-day by the Los Angeles Church Federation. A copy of the appeal, which is signed by six Japanese business organizations representing 50,000 Japanese in Southern California, was forwarded to Secretary Bryan at Sacramento. It says in part:

"We feel that the friendship of half a century between our two countries is the best evidence of the singleness of our purpose, namely, the desire to draw closer together our respective countries in the ties of peace and brotherhood."

A letter drafted by the Nipponese Federation of Churches and Newspapers accompanied the appeal. It concedes "The right of America to make any laws she sees fit," and adds, "but all people, irrespective of color or religion, must stand equally before such laws."

OAKLAND, April 28.—W. E. Gibson, President of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of the Pacific Slope, today received the following telegram from Osaka, Japan:

> The Osaka Business Men's Association has intimate business relations with America, and is much concerned about the anti-Japanese legislation now before the California Assembly. Believing that such discriminative legislation seriously threatens the long-standing friendship of commercial relations between America and Japan, we held a mass meeting to consider the situation, and resolved to ask your influential and sympathetic aid to settle the question.

CANADIAN FOR ALIEN LAW.

Member of Parliament Says East Doesn't Know Situation.

PHILADELPHIA, April 28.—H. H. Stevens, member of the Canadian Parliament from British Columbia, in an address before the Poor Richard Club to-day defended the attitude of those who oppose alien ownership of land and Asiatic immigration. He said if the people in the Eastern part of the United States and the Eastern part of Canada could appreciate the real situation on the Pacific coast, they would sympathize with the viewpoint of the people out there toward the Chinese and Japanese.

Mr. Stevens laid down as a basis for his argument that "immigration is a privilege we grant, not a right for the aliens to claim."

"It may seem a small thing to let them own 13,000 acres of land. But that is an opening wedge, a beginning," he said. "Californias think they know only too well how it would end. I think any one who studies conditions out there will agree with me that it would be criminally derelict for the lawmakers to do anything that would tend to upset present standards of civilization.

"The problem of Asiatic immigration should be handled in a broad way, with the good of the whole country in view and with a due regard for the facts of the situation."

In explaining the Canadian immigration laws, Mr. Stevens said that by a secret treaty, a diplomatic arrangement with Japan, only about 400 Japanese came into Canada each year.

"We charge $500 head tax upon the Chinese, and are thinking of making the law against them even more stringent," said he.

JAPAN SOCIETY TO MEET.

California Situation to be Discussed To-morrow Evening.

William Jay Schieffelin will preside at a meeting of the Japan Society of New York, to be held at the Hotel Astor to-morrow evening, when the California situation will be discussed. An address will be made by Dr. R. B. Tousler, the American Director of St. Luke's International Hospital, Tokio, and an illustrated lecture by Dr. T. Lyonagax.

Lindsay Russell, President of the Japan Society, thinks that if all the anti-alien legislation is defeated now it will simply mean a postponement of action. He urges that the issue be met now and settled.

Mr. Russell has urged through Dr. David Starr Jordan a compromise measure, that is, a bill which would limit the acreage to be held by foreigners in California counties. Such legislation, he says, would insure equal treatment to all foreigners.

Mr. Russell gave out a copy of a telegram sent to Secretary Bryan by several residents of Florin, Cal. It reads:

> Florin has been cited in the Assembly as a reason for the alien land law. Facts, according to a pamphlet just issued by one of the signers of this dispatch, a resident of Florin and student of conditions for many years, prove that the present prosperity in Florin is due to Japanese industry. Many of the better class of landowners are not inimical to them, and regret the bill. Land owned by Japanese is largely too poor for the whites. Japanese industry makes it highly productive and profitable. Living standards are good and are growing better. They are not crowding out any whites, but are helping the community and the State. The Japanese are conceded by all fair-minded residents here as peaceable, law abiding, moral, temperate, grateful, and generous. Among so large a population of Japanese in some fourteen years there has never been a white woman molested.

MEXICAN REFUGEES HELD.

Kept on Our Soil for Safety—Crisis Near in Mexico City.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—An embarrassing situation has arisen in regard to the disposal of the Mexican refugees held along the Mexican boundary by United States troops. There were originally 1,200 fed and held as prisoners. Two weeks ago the Secretary of War gave orders to release them gradually. Some were Federals and others Constitutionalists or revolutionists.

The orders were to let them cross the boundary where there respective forces were in control. This worked well until 1,000 prisoners were released, when the Mexican Federal authorities objected to any considerable number of refugees crossing to where their friends were in strength, as the refugees would immediately be used as reinforcements. The United States authorities at once decided that to release refugees under such circumstances would be in violation of the neutrality laws, and Secretary Garrison promptly issued orders that no refugees should be allowed to cross the boundary where an engagement was imminent to protect them from summary execution if they belonged to the defeated side. They will, therefore, be held indefinitely until conditions permit their release.

A serious situation in Mexico City, due to increasing friction between the Huerta and Diaz factions of the provisional Government, is reported in confidential advices. All Government forces in the Federal district have been divided into two armed camps. Huerta has added to the infantry at the National Palace, and Diaz has encamped much of the artillery on his estate, Hacienda del Cristo, about thirty miles away.

EL PASO, Texas, April 28.—Former rebel troops under Gen. José Inez Salazar mutinied to-day at Casas Grandes, refusing to proceed in the campaign against the Constitutionalists of Chihuahua State. Salazar and his staff officers are reported to be held prisoners by their men.

If the mutineers should join the Constitutionalists, Juarez, Chihuahua City, and Parral will be the only points on the border State held by the Huerta Government. The adjoining frontier States of Coahuila and Sonora are already practically in control of the revolutionists.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., April 28.—The assertion is made that American capitalists have pledged $25,000,000 for the purchase of Lower California from the Mexican Government. W. J. McGimpsey, a property owner at Punta Danda, across the bay from Ensenada, Lower California, says the deal will be consummated soon and annexation by the United States agitated immediately.

All Finleyville Mine Dead Found.

PITTSBURGH, Penn., April 28.—Final search of the Cincinnati mine of the Pittsburgh Coal Company near Finleyville, Penn., where a disastrous explosion occurred last Wednesday, was completed this morning, and the fact established that all the dead, ninety-six, had been removed. The official investigation into the disaster began today.

HAYWOOD ARRESTED, BUT IS SOON FREE

Great Crowd at Paterson While I. W. W. Leader Is Taken Off Train at Passaic.

SPEAKS TO MASS MEETING

He and Others Have Counseled Peace, He Says—Twenty-six Arrests for Small Disturbances.

William D. Haywood, known to his followers in the Industrial Workers of the World as "Big Bill," the man who has figured in many strikes and who several years ago was arrested and tried as one of the principals in the assassination of ex-Gov. Steunenberg of Idaho, was arrested at Passaic yesterday morning charged with "inciting to riot." The charge was preferred by the Paterson city authorities for his speeches to the Paterson silk strikers.

It was announced some days ago that Haywood would be arrested as soon as he returned to New Jersey, and so yesterday morning, when he boarded an Erie train in Jersey City he found that besides Miss Elizabeth Gurley Flynn and Carlo Tresca, two of his busiest lieutenants, he also had the company of Constables Watson, Jordan, and Jowett of Paterson. The Constables sat a few seats behind the big strike leader and let him read his morning newspaper without interference until the factory chimneys of Passaic came into view. The train was due at Passaic at 9:52 A. M., and about two minutes before that Constable Watson quietly got up, and, going over to where Haywood was talking to Miss Flynn and Tresca, tapped the strike leader lightly on the shoulder.

"We want you to come along with us," said Watson, "and we hope you'll understand we are only obeying orders and act accordingly."

Haywood made no protest, and when the train stopped he got up and quietly left the car with the three Constables.

At the moment when Haywood left the train, a prisoner in Passaic, a crowd of strikers, a lot of children and the usual big crowd of onlookers jammed the Paterson station of the Erie waiting to get a glimpse of him. The strikers and their friends, according to the police, numbered more than 5,000, and they were primed and ready to give their leader a reception such as Paterson never before gave a strike leader.

Reception Crowd Tricked.

But Sheriff Amos Radcliffe of Passaic County had foreseen that such a crowd would be on hand, so he told Watson, Jordan, and Jowett to take their man off the train at Passaic and bring him the rest of the way to Paterson by automobile. The automobile was waiting outside the station when the train arrived at Passaic, and less than twenty minutes later "Big Bill" Haywood was showing what an angry strike leader looks like when in jail, while the crowd waiting for him at the station was trying to figure out what had become of him.

It was not until Miss Flynn and Tresca got a chance to tell them all about it that they realized that Sheriff Radcliffe had gotten ahead of them and landed their leader in jail without so much as a Corporal's guard being on hand to cheer him as he passed to the cheerless corridors of the prison.

"I know whom you want," shouted Miss Flynn, "but he isn't with us. They took him off the train at Passaic, but he won't be there long."

Then she asked that everybody go to Turn Hall, and there wait the coming of "Big Bill," who she assured them would soon be out of jail.

"We have the bail bond all ready," she explained.

The disappointed crowd was mad, there was no doubt about that. With long faces and snapping eyes they took that advice of the girlish looking strike leader, and headed for Turn Hall. Had the hall been four times as big as it is it could not have held more than half of those who scrambled, pushed, and even fought to get within.

With the arrest of Haywood the Passaic County authorities had taken into custody all the leaders against whom indictments were returned on Friday. Besides Haywood, those indicted and out on bail are Miss Flynn, Tresca, Patrick Quinlan, and Adolph Lessig.

The local leaders of the strike had arranged for the bailing out of Haywood in advance. The men who put up the $2,000 each handing over $1,000 in bills, were Pasquale Santoro, a tailor, and Rafael Nuzzo, a junk dealer. But the bondsmen were not on hand when the automobile conveying the prisoner reached the jail, and the result was that "Big Bill" was in custody longer than he had anticipated.

Haywood Out on Bail.

When the bail papers were handed to him to sign, Haywood was so wrought up that he could hardly hold the pen. The bondsmen begged him to be calm, and assured him that the strike would be won and that the charges against him amounted to very little after all. Finally he sank into a chair that had been placed at the table, and, taking a good grip on the pen, he got his name on the paper, and was then informed that he was at liberty to go.

While Haywood's bail was being arranged, Miss Flynn, Tresca, and other strike leaders were addressing the great crowd of strikers. Miss Flynn said that the indicted strike leaders had been indicted by a jury a majority of whom were either manufacturers or sympathizers with the mill owners.

"Why don't they try us before you men and women?" she exclaimed. "That would be only fair, but, ah me, it would be putting the shoe on the other foot."

Miss Flynn was in the midst of her speech when somebody shouted that Haywood was coming. Then pandemonium broke. Haywood was, in fact, on the way. He was on foot, and before him and about him and behind him came scores of shouting strikers, who "booed" the American Federation of Labor and shouted themselves hoarse trying to make all Paterson understand that "Big Bill's all right."

As soon as he got a chance to be heard Haywood proceeded to tell how mad he was. He said he might have been madder in his life, but if so he did not remember the occasion.

"We advised you to keep your hands down and the strike up, didn't we?" Haywood shouted, and back in mighty chorus came the answer: "You did."

"And now," Haywood continued, "the authorities come along and say we have been inciting to riot, and they accuse us of anarchy. The Grand Jury that indicted us doesn't know the difference between anarchy and arnica."

Then Haywood began a fervid plea to the strikers to remain firm and not give in, assuring them that if they but held their ground and refused to return to work victory would surely be their reward.

"Stick together to the end and you'll win," was Haywood's parting advice and the noise they made seemed to indicate that they intended to follow the advice.

Prior to the meeting in Turn Hall, and after it the police were busy seeing to it that the strikers and their pickets kept within the law in the management of the big strike. During the day there were twenty-six arrests for various offenses and they will all get a hearing in court to-morrow morning. In the meantime all are out on bail.

Later in the day there was another big mass meeting in Helvetia Hall, where Haywood, Miss Flynn, Tresca and other strike leaders addressed an immense crowd. They said about the same things they did at the big Turn Hall meeting. Haywood ridiculed the county prosecutor for telling the Grand Jury "we are preaching anarchy."

Haywood, Miss Flynn, Tresca, Lessig and Quinlan will be arraigned before Judge Klenert in the Court of Special Sessions, Paterson, to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock. The date of the trial will then be set. Forty-one strikers who have been indicted by the Grand Jury for unlawful assembly, will be arraigned before Judge Klenert as soon as the leaders have made their pleas.

Mayor McBride took official notice of Miss Flynn's remarks of Sunday, when she said that on Wednesday the wives of strikers would take their children to the City Hall and give Mayor McBride a chance to prove that the city could take care of the children when their parents were unable to provide for them as a result of the strike.

Mayor McBride said yesterday that all children brought to the City Hall would be taken care of by the city authorities if it was found that they were in actual need after investigation. The Mayor added that if application was made by any persons who desired to create sympathy for the strikers they would be dealt with summarily.

Samuel J. McCollom, President of the Silk Manufacturers' Association, said this evening that the stories given out that the manufacturers were dealing with the strikers secretly were made from the whole cloth.

"The mills have always been opened for the workers to return to work," said Mr. McCollom, "and when 35 per cent. of the workers return to work the manufacturers will talk about a new wage scale and hours, and not before that time. There will be no compromise by the manufacturers, and they will not recognize any union dominated by the I. W. W. Each manufacturer will deal directly with his own employes."

WRITER SENT TO JAIL.

John Reed of the American Magazine Among Strike Victims.

John Reed, a writer and a member of the staff of the American Magazine, was arrested in Paterson yesterday on a charge of disorderly conduct in the silk workers' strike. He was arraigned before Recorder James F. Carroll, who, after hearing the evidence, sentenced Reed to twenty days' imprisonment in the Passaic County jail. Reed gave his address as 42 Washington Square, and according to some of his friends was in Paterson getting "local color" for a magazine story dealing with the silk workers' strike.

Reed was at the corner of Cross and Ellison Street yesterday in the centre of the strike zone, talking to three men strikers. Policeman McCormick came along and ordered the men to disperse. The strikers said they lived in the house in front of which they were standing.

"Well, get inside then," said McCormick.

"But I don't live in there," said Reed.

"Well, move on, then," said McCormick to the magazine writer.

Reed started to obey and then changed his mind and went back to where McCormick was and demanded his number.

An argument between the policeman and Reed followed which ended in the arrest of Reed on a charge of disorderly conduct. He was immediately taken to court and arraigned before Recorder Carroll.

"What's your business?" asked the Recorder.

"Poet," answered Reed.

"What's your business here?" the Recorder asked again.

"None; I am a bystander," Reed replied.

McCormick then testified that Reed had refused to move on when ordered to do so, and had insisted on questioning his authority.

The Recorder took McCormick's view of the case and sentenced Reed to jail.

John S. Phillips, editor of The American Magazine, was asked last night if the management of that publication would interest itself in the affairs of Mr. Reed and attempt to have him released from jail on appeal or by suing out a writ of habeas corpus. Mr. Phillips replied that he did not know of any contemplated action by the magazine management and that he did not care to discuss the matter.

BULGARS FIGHT THEIR ALLIES

are assembled near the Montenegrin frontier.

The Mail's correspondent at Gratz, Austria, says it is stated that Austria is planning for Tuesday a military advance which will not be confined to Montenegro. Troops will be sent in transports to Southern Albania. Meanwhile troop trains, crowded with riflemen from the Austrian Alps, are proceeding to the South.

The Mail's Belgrade correspondent says that the alliance among members of the Balkan League clearly provides for concentrated military action in the event of an attack by Austria, even if such an attack has the sanction of the great powers.

A Vienna dispatch to The Mail says: "Telegrams from Cattaro report that Montenegrins are making insulting demonstrations in front of the Austrian Legation. They decorated an imitation donkey with a dress coat, the breast of which was covered with fac similies of the Austrian orders, and hung it outside the legation."

Demond on Montenegro Filed.

"There is no cause for pessimism even now." This was the only official utterance that could be obtained regarding the result of the momentous conference of the Ambassadors of the powers on the Balkan situation yesterday.

The conference lasted more than three hours, and the fect that another was arranged for Thursday indicates that the diplomats still expect to find a peaceful solution of the problem created by Montenegro's defiance of the powers.

The representative of the Montenegrin Government in London has received instructions from Cettinje ordering him to protest formally against the demand of the powers of the immediate evacuation of Scutari by the Montenegrins, which is described by the Government of King Nicholas as "unjust and cruel." The demand of the powers is couched in the following terms:

> We have the honor to declare collectively to the Royal Government of Montenegro that the taking of the fortress of Scutari does not in any way modify the decision of the European powers relative to the delimitation of the frontiers of Northern and Northeastern Albania, and, consequently, the City of Scutari must be evacuated with the briefest possible delay and must be handed over to the European powers represented by the commandants of the international naval forces lying before the Montenegrin coast. The Royal Government of Montenegro is invited to give a prompt reply to this communication.

The Montenegrin representative in London, to whom this demand was cabled back from Cettinje, said yesterday:

"I have been ordered by my Government to protest formally against this unjust and cruel demand, and once more to ask the powers to examine in an equitable manner the vital question of Montenegro's future and to place that nation on an equal footing with the other Balkan allies."

VIENNA, April 28.—Crown Prince Danilo of Montenegro and his troops have marched out of Scutari toward the north, according to official dispatches received here to-day. Only five batteries of Montenegrin artillery remain in the city.

Government circles in Vienna regard the movement of the Montenegrin troops from Scutari as tantamount to the evacuation of the fortress, which has been insisted on by the Powers.

Ismail Opposes Essad.

PARIS, April 28.—Ismail Kemal Bey, the candidate favored by Austria-Hungary for the Albanian throne and the head of the provisional Government of Albania, who is now in Paris, speaking to-day on the situation in Albania, said:

"If Essad Pasha's reported deal with Montenegro be true it is treachery and folly—treachery, because without Scutari Albania would be decapitated and would become a mere annex to Servia and Montenegro; folly, because it makes the situation most difficult and imperils Albania's very existence by angering the powers at this juncture.

"I am sure the Albanians, when they realize their position, will not follow Essad Pasha. He certainly belongs to an old Albanian family, but he lacks influence, except personally with a part of his troops, and the others will desert him. As the head of the present Albanian Government, I protest. Europe cannot bow before a coup which violates its elaborated plans to conciliate all interests."

Ismail Kemal Bey intends to leave Paris at once for London.

NEW TARIFF PERIL PLAIN, SAYS PAYNE

Will Cause the Country to Drive Democrats from Power, He Tells House.

DEFENDS EXISTING RATES

Underwood Sure Bill Will Be Out of House in a Week—Five-Minute Rule Begins To-day.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Representative Sereno E. Payne defended the tariff law that bears his name and condemned the proposed Underwood revision in an elaborate speech in the House to-day. Mr. Payne spoke as the ranking Republican member of the Ways and Means Committee and its former Chairman. The debate closed to-night, and to-morrow the measure is to be considered under the five-minute rule.

Mr. Payne predicted that the Underwood revision would be a failure to such an extent that the country would drive the Democrats from power four years hence and restore Republican control.

"If this bill becomes the law as it stands," he asserted, "the next four years will be years of weary waiting. Let us hope they will not inflict too lasting injury on the American people, and, in the end, that the incompetents will be driven from power and a period of genuine prosperity will again follow.

"As a tariff-for-revenue measure it is a signal failure. If the threatened stagnation in business should materialize there will be a material falling off in customs revenue and in income tax receipts, creating a large deficit.

"The uncertainty of the Democratic mind as to what rates should be imposed is indicated in numerous ways. Take wool, for instance. The original Underwood duty was 20 per cent.; the Underwood-La Follette duty, which was sent to the President, was 29 per cent.; Underwood recommended for this bill 15 per cent., and finally the Underwood-Wilson-Garner proposition was free wool and 20 per cent. on the hair of the Angora goat, heretofore classed as wool. Just where it will land when the bill leaves the Senate is something which no prophet can foretell.

Taft's Veto Vindicated.

"President Taft was roundly criticised on every stump for his veto of the Underwood metal schedule something over a year ago. Mr. Taft put it on the ground that the rates in that bill would destroy many industries, having in mind the manufacture of goods where the labor necessarily is done, not by machine, but by the human hand. But the committee was evidently learned something since the original metal bill was sent to President Taft. That bill provided for a 35 per cent. duty on all cutlery. The present proposition is for a duty of 35 per cent on all cutlery, including both knives and razors in excess of $1 a dozen, and 55 per cent. on all above that value. That bill provided for a duty of 25 per cent. on kitchen knives. The present bill increases that duty by 20 per cent. I might multiply examples. After abusing President Taft on the stump they vindicate him by adopting the views expressed in his veto of the metal bill."

Mr. Payne asserted that the Underwood bill was not without its amusing features.

"Its framers," he said, "evidently think to fool the average farmer. They put a duty of 10 cents a bushel on wheat and put flour on the free list. Yielding to the pressure of the millers they seek to fool them with a fake provision of 10 per cent. on flour coming from any country which levies a duty on our flour. No one knew better than the millers, unless it is the members of the committee, that Canada would not hesitate a moment to take off their duty on our flour, while we retain the duty on wheat in order to put into operation their new mills, which have a capacity now of 50 per cent. more than their present market.

Mr. Payne charged that under the word "competitive" the Underwood bill is "protective" in spots. He asserted that the Underwood committee carefully copied the Canadian dumping clause, putting a duty on imported articles sold at a lower price than they were generally sold in the home market.

Protection in Dumping Clause.

"This," said Mr. Payne, "is an attempt at protection pure and simple. That it will prove abortive is apparent to any one familiar with the difficulty of establishing foreign markets. The committee has evidently finally discovered that manufacturers in foreign countries dump their goods at lower prices into this country. They have been claiming all along that this was something peculiar to the United States."

Mr. Payne also contended that the Underwood bill offered "a straight subsidy to the importer," and so indirectly to the ship master who brought in imported articles in American bottoms of an amount equal to 5 per cent.

"That this provision will probably prove abortive," said Mr. Payne, "is evident from the fact that in another section they have carefully preserved treaty rights with other countries, while this provision would be a direct contravention of those rights. Even if it were legally effective, it still would not accomplish its apparent purpose, because the subsidy is far less than that paid by every foreign commercial nation under similar circumstances."

Underwood on Foreign Protests.

Chairman Underwood has not changed his view that the bill should be disposed of in the House within a week from today, and that the sugar schedule was not likely to offer much real trouble. He hoped that unless the fight of the anti-free wool advocates spreads the bill would emerge from the Senate substantially in the form in which it stands.

Mr. Underwood contends that the United States is entirely within its rights in the provisions of the bill against which foreign nations have protested. The clause which would grant a 5 per cent. tariff preference on goods imported in American vessels, Mr. Underwood says, is to encourage the building of American ships, and he believes it violates no treaty.

The French protest is against the provision requiring foreign manufacturers and exporters to submit their books to United States agents on demand. This clause, Mr. Underwood says, does not mean that the United States is going to try to learn the secrets of foreign manufacturers, as it will be used only in cases where there is reason to suspect that goods have been undervalued.

Chairman Simmons has divided the Senate Finance Committee into three sub-committees to consider the tariff bill. Senators Stone, Thomas and James have been assigned to the metal, earthenware, wool and silk schedues and the free list; Senators Williams, Shively and Gore to sugar, agricultural and flax schedules, the income tax section and administrative features of the bill, and Senators Johnson, Smith of Georgia, and Hughes to the chemical, cotton, wood, pulp, and paper, and sundries schedules.

OPPOSE LABOR EXEMPTION.

Flood of Telegrams to Wilson Against Bill Taft Vetoed as Vicious.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—President Wilson has received several hundred protests against the clause in the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill which exempts labor unions and agricultural associations from the operations of the Sherman anti-trust act. The bill was vetoed by President Taft on account of the clause, which he denounced as vicious class legislation.

The clause was carefully considered recently by the President, Chairman Fitzgerald of the House Committee on Appropriations, and Chairman Martin of the Senate Committee on Appropriations. The Chairmen received the impression that while Mr. Wilson would prefer to see the clause considered in Congress in connection with other phases of trust legislation, he sympathized with the supporters of the exemption and would sign a bill embodying the clause.

A day or two after that conference Mr. Fitzgerald introduced the bill in the House in exactly the form in which Mr. Taft vetoed it. The House passed the bill, which carries an appropriation of $16,000,000 without amendment, and the Senate Committee on Appropriations has reported the bill favorably with a single amendment relating to an unimportant Government board. The measure is expected to pass the Senate and be sent to the President at an early date.

There is nothing to indicate that the protests that have steadily flowed into the White House have made any impression on Mr. Wilson. The subject of class discrimination was before Mr. Wilson at his conference on the measure with the two Chairmen. Attorney General McReynolds was called into the conference, and it was after this careful consideration that Mr. Fitzgerald, feeling sure of the President's approval, introduced the measure.

The Executive Committee of the Merchants' Association adopted a resolution yesterday against the bill.

The resolution asserts that the labor clauses are "class legislation of the most vicious type, creating discriminations and distinctions between different elements of the population."

The Merchants' Association has sent a telegram to President Wilson urging his co-operation in the fight on the proposed legislation. Telegrams also have been sent to Senators Root and O'Gorman, and to Senator Martin, as Chairman of the Appropriations Committee of the Senate.

CONFIRMS NOMINATIONS.

Fifty-two Held-Up Wilson Appointments Approved by Senate.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—The limited filibuster planned by Republican Senators against President Wilson's nominations replacing appointments made by President Taft, which were held up by the Democrats last session, did not prevent the confirmation to-day of fifty-two by the Senate in executive session. Only seven appointments were passed over because of Republican opposition.

Senators Burton of Ohio and Townsend of Michigan stated the position of the Republicans, and the Democrats received their explanation in good humor. Mr. Townsend said that Republican Senators planned no captious opposition to the nominations of the party in power, but that they felt careful scrutiny should be given to appointments made apparently for purely political reasons. He explained, however, that nominations made for the first time since March 4 would not be opposed unless it appeared that the nominee was unfit for the post or that the incumbent was being unjustly removed.

To-day's confirmations included the nomination of H. S. Breckenridge of Kentucky to be Assistant Secretary of War, James P. McNeir to be Postmaster in Senator Hughes's home town of Paterson, N. J.; E. T. Lauterman to be Postmaster at East Orange, N. J., and W. W. Roper to be Appraiser of Customs at Philadelphia.

There is no indication that there will be any opposition to the nomination of William H. Berry to be Collector of Customs at the Port of Philadelphia.

INSURANCE HELD EXEMPT.

Only Cash Surrender Value Goes to Creditors of Bankrupts.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—The United States Supreme Court to-day held that only the cash surrender value of insurance policies goes to the trustee in bankruptcy for creditors, the remainder going to the widows or other beneficiaries of deceased bankrupts. Upon the outcome depended the disposition of the insurance on the life of the late Thomas A. McIntyre of New York, on Alfred M. Judson, also of New York, and on Benjamin D. Andrews of New Jersey.

The decision changed what was held to be the law in New Jersey and Pennsylvania and removed doubt on the same point in all other States. Justice Day rendered the court's opinion, which turned upon the interpretation of the intention of Congress in passing the Bankruptcy act.

"In passing this statute," said he, "Congress intended, while exacting this much, (the value of the policy at the time of the beginning of the bankruptcy proceeding,) that the bankrupt should be permitted to retain the insurance, which, because of advancing years or declining health, it might be impossible for him to replace. It is the twofold purpose of the Bankruptcy act to convert the estate of the bankrupt into cash and distribute it among creditors, and then to give the bankrupt a fresh start with such exemptions and rights as the statute left untouched."

WILSON PREPARING FOR BUSINESS BOOM

Wants New Currency Law to Meet Conditions Expected Under New Tariff.

MAY BE TEMPORARY SLUMP

And That Will Call for More Elastic Currency — Bill Being Drawn Under President's Direction.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—A currency reform measure is to be drafted at the instance of President Wilson. Senator Owen and Representative Glass, Chairmen, respectively, of the Senate and the House Committees on Banking and Currency, will work out the general idea of the President on the subject, and differences as to detail will be adjusted at conferences between them and President Wilson and Secretary McAdoo of the Treasury. From what is known the bill will be President Wilson's own measure.

It is doubtful if the opportunity will be afforded for the enactment of currency legislation at the present session of Congress, though President Wilson would like to see a new currency law passed at the earliest moment. His view of the situation, according to all accounts, is that the enactment of a tariff law may be followed by temporary financial troubles, or a period of unexampled industrial expansion, and in either event the ability of the Government to give greater elasticity to the circulating medium will be desirable, even necessary.

It has been asserted that President Wilson would not be surprised if the enactment of the pending tariff measure would mark the beginning of almost unexampled expansion in the industrial and business world.

The necessity for new machinery in old established plants to enable manufacturers to compete with the conditions that the incentive to more importations from abroad will produce might create a demand for more money, it is asserted, while the general stimulus of foreign competition might be another factor in that direction. At any rate, whether the new tariff means depression or expansion, the situation will be better met, it is contended, if an up-to-date currency reform law is on the statute books in place of the Aldrich-Vreeland emergency currency act, which even its authors regarded as a mere stop-gap.

In spite of these considerations, however, it is not likely there will be any currency legislation at the present session of Congress. All signs point to unwillingness on the part of the great majority of Congressmen to remain in Washington after the Underwood bill has been enacted into law, even should it obtain the President's approval by July 15.

The chances are that the President's currency reform measure will be introduced before adjournment with the idea of taking it up for consideration when the Congress reconvenes in December.

THE TIMES'S DAILY SPECIAL CABLE DISPATCHES

READY TO FIGHT FOR MRS. PANKHURST

PRISON LEAVE EXTENDED

Women's Social and Political Union Announces She Will Refuse to Recognize Limited Leave.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 28.—Mrs. Pankhurst has not complied with the terms of her license, which provided that she was to return to prison before 4:30 o'clock this afternoon. The police have not yet taken any action and have left her unmolested in her temporary home in Norfolk Square, Paddington.

In expectation of Mrs. Pankhurst's rearrest, a curious crowd began to collect in Norfolk Square at midday. Many members of the militants' union visited the house in the afternoon. The only person to leave the house at 4:30 was Sylvia Pankhurst, looking none the worse for her recent forcible feeding. She was received with a storm of "booing."

Mrs. Pankhurst's solicitor says she is not fit to be removed and that the consequences would be most serious if an attempt were made to take her back to jail.

A meeting to-day at Tunbridge Wells, where recently a cricket pavilion was burned down by suffragists, passed a resolution condemning the outrages of the militants.

Sir A. Conan Doyle referred to the militants as "female hooligans" and said those who supplied them with money but did not do anything were, if possible, even more contemptible.

LONDON, April 28.—The expiration of the limited license under which Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the militant suffragette leader, was released on April 12 from Holloway Jail, where she was serving a term of three years' imprisonment, caused a great crowd to assemble to-day around the house in which she is staying to recover from the effects of her "hunger strike."

The expectation of the crowd of seeing Mrs. Pankhurst taken back to Holloway Jail was, however, disappointed, as the authorities had decided to extend her license owing to the unsatisfactory state of her health.

In the meantime the occupants of the house in which Mrs. Pankhurst is staying had placed it in a state of siege. It had been stocked with provisions before Mrs. Pankhurst arrived there from jail. The members of her family and some militant adherents were quartered on the two upper floors, leaving only the bare furniture on the two floors below, and this was plainly visible through the uncurtained windows. The heavy street door was barricaded, only holders of the password of the day being admitted.

When Mrs. Pankhurst's female motorcar driver started from the house with Sylvia Pankhurst in the afternoon a hooting crowd tried to rush the car. The private square which the house faces was then cleared by a strong force of police, only householders and their friends being allowed to pass the line. When many militants arrived after their weekly meeting only a few succeeded in penetrating the cordon and getting to the house.

One of the militants who had been inside the house said afterward that it would have been necessary for the police to pass three barricades before they could reach Mrs. Pankhurst, who was surrounded with what the suffragette described as "our gunwomen." She continued:

"The only thing we fear is that the water may be cut off. We are provisioned for a siege of a fortnight or longer, and the police may meet with a reception which may remind them of Sydney Street"—the street in Whitechapel where the Houndsditch Anarchist murderers held the police and troops at bay for some hours in January, 1911.

The police Inspector in charge of the squad of seventy policemen on duty in the square said: "It is uncertain whether Mrs. Pankhurst is in the house. She has a number of friends who occupy neighboring houses, and she may have escaped over the roofs to one of those."

At the weekly conclave of the militant union this afternoon it was announced that Mrs. Pankhurst had no intention of recognizing the limited license anyway.

Hugh Franklin, a nephew of Postmaster-General Samuel, was released from jail to-day, and the Chairman of the meeting exhibited his license, torn to bits, to the exultant Suffragettes. Mr. Franklin, she said, had been forcibly fed 114 times.

SCOTT'S GREATEST HEROISM

It Was His Determination to Save Heavy Fossils, Says Markham.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 28.—Sir Clements Markham, in a paper on the discovery of the Pacific by Balboa read before the Royal Geographical Society to-night, paid a fine tribute to Capt. Scott. In advocating polar research, said Sir Clements, he always deprecated merely the reaching of either pole as the main object of an expedition. Unless some scientific end were also to be gained, such journeys brought the work of explorers down to a lower plane. When such a wonderful journey as Scott and his gallant comrades made was intended to combine, and did combine, important scientific results with an unparalleled feat of traveling, there could be nothing but praise and admiration, Sir Clements added.

"To plant the Union Jack on the south pole by the unaided efforts of men dragging a loaded sledge was a grand achievement, but to my mind there was, if possible, even greater heroism when our countrymen, nearly at the last gasp of exhaustion, continued to drag that precious load of stones which was to reveal the past history of the vast region.

"The whole story, opening with the launch of the Discovery, culminating with the Union Jack flying at the south pole, and closing with the memorial service in St. Paul's, is an epic which will live in the hearts of Englishmen for all time."

TO FIGHT A SAVAGE DUEL.

Parisians Arrange a Combat Likely to Cause One's Death.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 28.—What will, it is expected, be a sanguinary duel is to be fought here on Wednesday between Georges Breittmeyer and H. G. Berger. Both are brilliant swordsmen and well-known Parisian personalities. They were once bosom friends, but recently quarreled, and attempts at a reconciliation were fruitless.

Berger as the party challenged stipulates the following conditions: The combatants are to fight with fencing swords and wear leather gloves reaching to the elbow. Each is to have fifteen feet of ground behind him, and ground gained by a combatant is to remain to his advantage. The encounter is to continue until one man demands its cessation on account of wounds.

Not since 1867 has a duel been fought in Paris under such harsh conditions. Then, under the Second Empire, a Colonel crossed swords with a manufacturer. The Colonel killed the manufacturer and blew out his own brains the same evening.

WOODS'S GERMAN THEATRES

He Seeks American Talent for His Eighteen Vaudeville Houses.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 28.—Al Woods will sail on Wednesday on the Kronprinzessin Cecilie. He has completed his vaudeville circuit in Germany, and now has eighteen theatres, including six in Berlin, one each in Hamburg, Leipsic, Dresden, Cologne, Hanover, Bremen, Frankfort, Munich, Düsseldorf, Essen, Elberfeld, and Aachen. In each he will run a show of five vaudeville acts and four moving picture attractions.

He is going home to get American talent. He will take up his permanent abode in Berlin in November. He says he will produce "Within the Law" here at the Haymarket Theatre, in conjunction with Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree, four weeks from to-day.

TREE TO PRODUCE 'ARIADNE'

He and Beecham Obtain British Rights for Strauss's Latest Opera.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 28.—Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree and Thomas Beecham have obtained the exclusive British rights to Richard Strauss's latest opera, "Ariadne auf Naxos." They will give eight performances at His Majesty's Theater, beginning on May 27. The part of Jourdain in the comedy will be played by Sir Herbert, who will personally produce the dramatic portion of the work, while Mr. Beecham will be responsible for the operatic side of the production.

AMNESTY BILL PASSES.

As Adopted by Cuban House It Will Have Our Approval.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, April 28.—The Amnesty bill passed the House to-day. Several attempts made to amend it so as to include other offenses than rebellion, electoral fraud, or libel were voted down.

The bill has passed in such a form that it is certain to have the approval of the United States.

TWO MORE AIRMEN DEAD.

English Officer Killed and German Dies from Injuries.

LONDON, April 28.— Lieut. Roger Harrison of the British Army Aviation Corps was killed while flying at Farnborough early to-day. He was attempting a rapid descent from a height of 400 feet when the elevator of his biplane collapsed under the strain, and his machine crashed to earth. Lieut. Harrison was killed instantly.

MUNICH, April 28.—Lieut. von Germersheim, an officer of the Bavarian Army Flying Corps, died to-day as the result of injuries that he suffered when his aeroplane collided with a tree while he was landing after a flight here on April 23. He never regained consciousness.

His passenger, Lieut. Schinnerer, was also hurt, but is recovering.

The two aviation fatalities yesterday make the total so far this month 17, which is the largest number in a month since September, 1912, when 18 men lost their lives in aeroplane falls.

Since the beginning of this year 42 men have been killed. The deaths yesterday bring the total up to 257 since 1908.

KOLLUM, Holland, April 28.—A distance of nearly 1,000 miles in an air line was flown in an aeroplane yesterday and to-day by the French aviator, Ernest François Guillanx. He made only two stops in the course of his flight.

He started from Biarritz, in the extreme southwest of France, yesterday morning at 4:42 A. M., and arrived here early to-day, having descended twice to replenish his fuel, at Bordeaux and at Villacoublay, outside Paris.

CRITICISES MGR. SCHREMBS.

Rome Newspaper Says His Speech on Saturday Was in Bad Taste.

ROME, April 28.—The Tribuna, commenting on the address of the Right Rev. Joseph Schrembs, Bishop of Toledo, on the occasion of the reception of the American pilgrimage by Cardinal Merry del Val on Saturday, expresses the opinion that it was in bad taste to raise the Roman question in such violent form. One passage in Bishop Schrembs's address dealt with the "unbearable situation" created for the head of the Church of Rome after the fall of the temporal power.

The Tribuna points out that all those attached to the Vatican, and even the Osservatore Romano, the official organ of the Vatican, had been at pains to eulogize the unanimity with which Italians, regardless of party or creed, showed their sympathy for the Pope during his illness.

Free Trader Praises Wilson.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 28.—Lord Welby, speaking to-night at the annual dinner of the Cobden Club on the prospects of free trade, said he thought the members might congratulate themselves on President Wilson's measure, which was the first rift in those dense clouds and fogs of protection which had so long hung over foreign countries.

Royal Courtesy to Mrs. Vanderbilt.

BAD NAUHEIM, April 28.—Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt arrived here to-day to take the cure. Emperor William's sister, Princess Charlotte of Saxe-Meiningen, brought her from Frankfort in her automobile. Her royal highness remained to dinner with Mrs. Vanderbilt to-night.

A LAWRENCE BRINGS $34,200 IN PARIS

$331,518 Realized at First Day of the Sale of the Great Kraemer Collection.

PRICES A DISAPPOINTMENT

Ten Per Cent. Below Valuations—Death of Mr. Morgan Believed to Have Caused Slump in Art Values.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 28.—The first day of the sale by auction at the Georges Petit Gallery of the great Eugène Kraemer art collection realized a total of $331,518. The prices averaged about 10 per cent. less than the values placed upon the pictures by the official experts.

François Boucher's "River Scamander," a charming oval picture representing the metamorphosis of the son of Jupiter and Doris, was sold for $5,800. The same painter's "Dovecot," a landscape in his best style, brought $3,300, while his "Bathers," a pleasing landscape with nude figures, was knocked down for $9,200.

Eighty-two hundred dollars was paid for Coypel's celebrated portrait of Mme. Dupille and her daughter, and $5,400 for his portrait of M. Dupille.

Drouais's delightful portrait of Mlle. de Romans, painted in 1761, was bought by Wildestein for $25,000. It is one of the artist's best known works, and was shown at the Exhibition of One Hundred Portraits here in 1909. The subject of the picture is mentioned by Casanova, who went into raptures over her beauty.

Hodgkins of London purchased for $12,000 the next item, Drouais's portrait of Mme. Sophie, dated 1763. The picture is mentioned in a number of eighteenth century memoirs.

A portrait, supposed to be of Mme. Chardin of the French school of the eighteenth century, went for $4,400, and another anonymous work of the same school and period, "The Bath," a picture strangely prophetic of the style of Corot, with its tender tones, dark masses of trees, and nude bathers, brought $3,100.

Fragonard's "Le Lever," a celebrated work, was sold for $17,400, and "La Nuit" and "Le Jour," companion works by the same master, brought $5,820 each. They are pretty studies of children executed with the delicacy for which Fragonard was famous.

The prices realized for the Greuzes were, on the whole, rather disappointing. A portrait of a young girl, a charming brunette, went for $7,800.

Kleinberger gave $14,000 for Goya's portrait of Don Tadeo Bravo de Rivero, a fine though not very interesting work. A portrait, supposed to be of the Duchess d'Aiguillon, by Guiard, brought $5,100.

Much interest was displayed in a fine canvas by Hoppner, a portrait of Miss Fanny Bouverie. It was purchased by Hodgkins for $12,200.

A characteristic Lancret, a hunting scéne, went for $8,800. A Largillière, a portrait of the Marquise de la Frizelière, was knocked down for $3,800.

Then came the highest price of the day's sale—$34,200, given by Hodgkins for Sir Thomas Lawrence's portrait of Lady Owen, a three-quarter length in the artist's best style. Lawrence's portraits of women almost invariably bring more than his portraits of men, and even such an interesting work as the portrait of a Pope, Pius VII., by this great English master failed to obtain a higher bid than $13,100.

"Mme. de Chatenay," by Vigée-Lebrun, brought $6,400, and a fine Nattier, the Baronne de Fontettes, went to Lowengard for $8,400. A pretty work by Pater, a dancing scene, brought $5,400.

Robert's elaborate and interesting "Fête at the Villa Medici" was sold for $10,020, and a similar sum was given for a companion piece, 'The Torrent." There were several Roberts in the collection, but the prices obtained for the others were not remarkable.

A very attractive portrait by Alexandre Roslin, of the Baronne de Neubourg-Cromière, went to Feral for $9,500. It is dated 1756 and shows a typical grande dame of that period, in a gorgeous costume covered with embroidered flowers. It was shown at the Fashion Exhibition two years ago, when it attracted much interest.

A fine Watteau, "The Swing," was sold to Levy for $5,800, regarded as a low price for such an excellent example of a master whose works are becoming rarer every year. Another Watteau, "The Bagpipe," brought a better figure, being acquired by Jonas for $8,520, while a third work by the same artist, "The Garden of Tivoli at Lille," fetched $5,020.

Many persons in the salesroom remarked that in their opinion the low prices were to a large extent to be attributed to the death of J. Pierpont Morgan, the absence of the competition of his agents causing the bidding to be less spirited than at previous sales of similar importance.

The sale will be continued to-morrow, and on May 5 and 6 another portion of the wonderful collection acquired by the late M. Kraemer will be disposed of.

FUENTES IN HAVANA.

Mexican ex-Governor, Fleeing Assassination, Expected to Come Here.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, April 28.—Alberto Fuentes, ex-Governor of Aguas Calientes, Mexico, arrived here this morning under the assumed name of Juan Davalos, accompanied by his wife and six children. His wife sailed under the name of José Finaramos. Fuentes said he was compelled to flee from Mexico because he feared assassination. He was one of three Governors ordered to be executed by Enrique Cepeda, the Federal Governor of Belen prison, when Gabriel Hernandez was shot and then burned. Fuentes says Hernandez was really burned alive, he escaping the same fate solely through the intervention of the Warden of the prison.

Fuentes will probably sail for New York to-morrow.

The fugitive ex-Governor says he made himself so popular with the American troops on the Texan border that he was able to smuggle from the United States within eight days 145,000 cartridges, which saved Madero's cause against Porfirio Diaz, as they came at a time when the rebels' ammunition was all but exhausted.

CHURCHILL VERY ANGRY.

Calls Summons to Appear Before Marconi Committee an Insult.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 28.—The Parliamentary Marconi Inquiry Committee furnished another dramatic incident to-day, when Winston S. Churchill not only denied any association with the Marconi Company's shares in any form, but protested in vigorous language against the "insulting charge" brought against him.

Earlier in the day Mr. Powell, editor of The Financial News, had said under pressure that he had heard Mr. Churchill's name mentioned with the names of other Cabinet Ministers who had already been called before the committee, and the committee decided to give the First Lord of the Admiralty an immediate opportunity to reply.

The members of the committee were obviously unprepared for the bitter denunciation they received from Mr. Churchill. Passionately, and even fiercely, he protested against being asked to answer "a grossly insulting charge based on a rumor, which its latest circulator admitted that he believed to be false."

It was not only suggested that he had dealt in Marconis, Mr. Churchill said, but that he had "skulked in the background" while his colleagues disclosed their position. Mr. Churchill added:

"I had no dealings, direct or indirect, or any investment or interest of any kind, in Marconi shares or any other shares of that kind, in this country or any country of the inhabited globe, and if anybody at any time says so, that person is a liar and a slanderer, and if anybody has repeated that statement and stated that he had no evidence and believed it to be false, the only difference between that person and a liar and a slanderer is that he is a coward as well."

The Chairman and other members of the committee assured Mr. Churchill that their anxiety to obtain justice for him had prompted them to call him as a witness, but the First Lord remained firm in his protest against the ill-usage to which, he said, individuals were being subjected in being called before the committee upon the "merest unsupported tittle-tattle."

MISHAP ON THE IMPERATOR.

Trial Trips Postponed Owing to the Heating of a Bearing.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, April 28.—The new Hamburg-American liner Imperator returned yesterday to Cuxhaven.

A statement issued by the Hamburg-American Company explains that the trial was satisfactory as far as the speed and handling of the ship were concerned, but two of the bearings of one of the turbines became overheated, and these will have to be removed, so the trials cannot be resumed before May 15, and the official trials, when the Crown Prince will, it is expected, be on board, must be postponed till the second half of May.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Tuesday, April 29.—The Times says large insurances on the Imperator were effected by the owners in the London market at the end of last week for a period of one month. These insurances, which amounted to some £300,000, ($1,500,000,) were in addition to policies for about £400,000 effected in Hamburg some time ago.

Had the trial been satisfactory the owners would have taken possession immediately afterward.

VANDERBILT DRIVES COACH.

Trial Trip from Brighton to London —Season Opens Thursday.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 28.—Alfred G. Vanderbilt to-day made a trial trip from Brighton to London with his coach the Venture in preparation for the opening of the official season on Thursday. Mr. Vanderbilt and Charles Wilson took turns at the reins.

The Venture had a warm welcome on its reappearance from the people of the villages en route. Mr. Vanderbilt, who was accompanied by a party of friends, expressed himself as satisfied with the trip, although the weather was not altogether favorable. He has hopes of a great season.

He has between sixty and seventy horses for the coach, and will employ ten teams between London and Brighton.

BROWNING LETTERS IN SALE

Failure of the Effort to Obtain Them for the British Nation.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 28.—Sir Frederick Kenyon of the British Museum has failed in his effort to secure the Browning love letters for the nation.

It is now unlikely that they will be excluded from the sale of Browning relics, which will begin on Thursday.

PLOT AGAINST THE KAISER.

Mysterious Warnings from Abroad Received by Berlin Police.

BERLIN, April 28.—A warning that an attempt was to be made on the life of Emperor William in the course of his visit to Karlsruhe, Baden, was received yesterday by the police authorities in Berlin anonymously from abroad.

They immediately informed the police of Karlsruhe and Frankfort, and most stringent precautions were taken to prevent any outrage.

FRANKFORT-ON-MAIN, April 28.—The police of Karlsruhe were instructed from Berlin to keep special watch during Emperor William's visit there yesterday, as a number of suspected persons were reported to have departed for the capital of Baden.

According to the Karlsruhe correspondent of the Frankfort Gazette, the Emperor changed his plans at the last moment, and instead of proceeding on the special train which had been prepared for dim, drove in an automobile from Strassburg.

No incident occurred.

FOUR EX-INSPECTORS PUT ON TRIAL TO-DAY

On Eve of Second Graft Prosecution Whitman Strengthens Conspiracy Case.

SIPP "FRAME-UP" EXPOSED

Woman Confesses That She Signed Affidavit Against Informer Without Reading It—Distrust of Rouss.

Ex-Police Inspectors Dennis Sweeney, James E. Hussey, James F. Thompson, and John J. Murtha will go on trial this morning at 10:30 A. M. before Justice Seabury in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court on the charge of conspiring to defeat the ends of justice in keeping George A. Sipp, informer against the police graft system, out of the State to prevent his telling what he knew against Patrolman Eugene Fox, graft collector for Harlem police officials.

Fresh strength was added to the case yesterday through important testimony before the Grand Jury. For some time one link had been worrying Mr. Whitman. His star witness, George A. Sipp, was arrested several months ago in Atlantic City by order of Deputy Commissioner Dougherty. Sipp was charged with a serious crime.

The charge brought against him was dismissed when it was shown in the Magistrate's court that the affidavits on which the warrants for Sipp's arrest were obtained were false. The fact remained, however, that the defense would probably take advantage of the outward circumstances of Sipp's arrest and endeavor in the course of the ex-Inspectors' trial to discredit the testimony of Sipp by an attack on his character. It was this possibility that Mr. Whitman wanted to overcome.

Accordingly, he summoned before the Grand Jury yesterday a number of persons who might know something about the charges against Sipp. These included Commissioner Dougherty, Chief Inspector Schmittberger, Lieut. Richard O'Connor, formerly under Sweeney; Policemen Morris Grossman and Arthur T. Brooks, formerly attached to Sweeney's staff and now at police headquarters, and Mrs. Martha Miller, better known as "Trixie" Miller, who was one of the two women who appeared as complainants against Sipp in the affidavits.

When all the testimony had been taken it appeared that the Sipp charges were nothing but a "frame-up." Mrs. Miller told Mr. Whitman that the false affidavits had been signed without having been read and, moreover, that her participation in the case was in lieu of a promise that for her service she would be released from the Magdalene Home, in which she was confined at the time. She went so far as to involve Sweeney in the scheme to discredit Sipp, asserting that one of the men who had come to get her affidavit had represented himself as Sweeney.

The police officials called before the Grand Jury established another important fact which Mr. Whitman will use to offset a possible line of defense. They showed that the affidavits on which a warrant for Sipp's arrest was obtained were in the hands of the police as early as December 19. The order to arrest Sipp in Atlantic City, however, did not go out from Police Headquarters until December 28. This was after Commissioner Waldo made his trip to City Hall.

At the trial, of course, Mr. Whitman cannot introduce the Grand Jury minutes. What he can do, however, is to refer to these minutes in his cross-examination of witnesses who may be put on the stand to discredit Sipp. He may hold the Grand Jury minutes in his hand, shake them before the face of any witness, and virtually make him testify in conformity with the testimony before the Grand Jury. This practically precludes any possibility of perjury.

Lawyer Jacob Rouss, who recently confessed his part in the conspiracy, remains the "uncertain quantity" on the eve of the trial. It is said that Mr. Whitman does not trust Rouss, but he also feels that he does not need Rouss to clinch his case. In addition to the confessed accomplices to the conspiracy, Mr. Whitman has Mrs. Walsh, Miss Mischel, the nurse in the Walsh homestead; Mrs. Sipp, and Howard Sipp, as well as several telephone girls, all of whom can give corroborative evidence.

There will be 200 talesmen on hand when the case is called this morning. Mr. Whitman has been busy since last Thursday investigating this panel. It is believed it will prove much more satisfactory than the panel from which the jury that tried Patrolman Robinson was chosen.

ASSAILS FIXED POST PLAN.

Waldo System "Extravagant and Severe," Says Research Bureau.

In a report made yesterday by the Bureau of Municipal Research to the Curran Aldermanic Committee on Police Investigation it is recommended that the fixed post system for policemen be abolished. This is Commissioner Waldo's pet institution. The system is criticised in the report as being "extravagant and unnecessarily severe." As a substitute a circuit or traveling system of patrol is advocated. It is argued that such a system would give the side streets the protection which is not and cannot be obtained through the fixed post plan. The report contains other drastic criticisms, among which is one asserting that Commissioner Waldo's assertion in the last annual report of the department that there is an immediate need for 2,365 additional policemen, cannot be supported by facts.

Here is a summary of the recommendations by the investigator of the Bureau of Municipal Research:

That no increase in the number of patrolmen now authorized, namely, 9,387, should be made until the determination of the complement needed to patrol the city in accordance with the circuit or traveling system of patrol.

That the fixed posts as now located throughout the Borough of Manhattan and portions of the Bronx and Brooklyn should be abolished.

That the 528 members of the police force now acting as doormen, patrol wagon drivers, clerks, messengers, &c., whose annual salaries total $754,962.50, should be relieved from such duties and returned to active police work, and their work done by civilians.

That patrol posts throughout the city should be relocated.

That patrolmen available for patrol duty should be required to patrol the entire precinct during each tour of duty, making a complete circuit of the precinct before returning to the precinct headquarters.

That the distribution of the force available for patrol should be equitable between the various precincts of the city, based upon the relative requirements of each.

The precinct distribution, the report asserts, is not equitable, as it results in overpolicing Manhattan to the prejudice of the Boroughs of Brooklyn, Queens, and Richmond, particularly the Flatbush section of Brooklyn.

Regarding the fixed post, the report says:

"The fixed post system is extravagant and unnecessarily severe. It is extravagant because under present distribution there are 1,323 patrolmen stationed on fixed posts in Manhattan, the Bronx and Brooklyn. The patrol posts suffer from lack of men in order that fixed posts may be covered. The rule of the commanding officers, as reported to us, is 'always cover the fixed posts first and use what men are left for patrol posts.'

"The policemen do not understand their duty as to leaving a fixed post upon call. The investigator was told a story of a restaurant keeper on Park Row who had occasion to require the services of a policeman in his restaurant. He immediately went to the man on the fixed post, within 50 feet of his premises, but was told by the policeman to go and 'get the man on patrol.' He apparently feared his leaving the post might involve a fine. The restaurant proprietor made a diligent search for the policeman on patrol post but was unable to find him, being unacquainted with the exact location of the post, and was compelled to return to his restaurant without a policeman.

ARRESTED ON VICE WARRANT.

Mrs. Strauss in Custody as Result of Mary Goode Letter.

Detectives attached to Inspector Dwyer's staff last night arrested Mrs. Anna Strauss, 28 years old, of 120 West Sixty-fifth Street, on a warrant issued by Chief Magistrate McAdoo charging her with maintaining a disorderly resort. The warrant was obtained by Detective Leis of Inspector Dwyer's staff on Sunday.

The warrant was turned over to Lieut. Hayes and four detectives, who, previous to going to the house, armed themselves with guns in case admission was denied. When they reached the house they were met at the door by Mrs. Strauss, who submitted to arrest.

The arrest of Mrs. Strauss followed a letter written by Mary Goode a short while ago in answer to one by Mayor Gaynor.

PAUL BARTLETT TO WED.

New York Sculptor to Marry Mrs. S. F. Emmons of Washington To-day.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Washington will be surprised to-morrow to learn of the engagement and immediate marriage of Mrs. Samuel Franklin Emmons of this city and Paul Wayland Bartlett of New York. The marriage is to take place at the residence of the bride-elect, 1721 H Street, at 11 o'clock to-morrow morning, with only the nearest relatives of the contracting parties present. Rev. U. S. B. Pierce of All Souls Unitarian Church will officiate There will be no attendants.

The bride-elect is the widow of Prof. S. F. Emmons of the United States Geological Survey, who died in this city less than two years ago. The bridegroom is the well known sculptor of New Haven, Conn., and New York City. He is a Chevalier of the Legation of Honor and member of the American Academy of Arts and Letters. Among his best known pieces are "The Bear Tamer," now in the Metropolitan Museum in New York, an equestrian statue of Gen. McClellan, in Philadelphia, and the statues of Columbus and Michelangelo, in the Congressional Library.

This will be Mrs. Emmons's third marriage. At the time of her marriage to Prof. Emmons, less than ten years ago, she was Mrs. Ogden Jones of New York. She has one child by her first marriage, Miss Carolyn Ogden Jones, a débutante of the past Winter.

WILSON ON TOLLS ISSUE.

Thinks Dispute with Britain Debatable and Keeps Mind Open.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—President Wilson told callers to-day he considered the controversy with Great Britain over the exemption of American coastwise shipping from payment of tolls through the Panama Canal a very debatable one.

The President gave no intimation as to what his previous view had been, but Democratic Senators who talked with him had had the idea that he opposed the exemption and favored the Root amendment to repeal it. When Mr. Wilson discussed the question to-day he said he felt he should keep his mind absolutely open until some action was necessary, but indicated he would have a very definite opinion ready at the time for settlement.

While the President never has given his views on the subject for publication, the opinion was quite general among his advisers that he did not approve the exemption, for one reason at least, that it was a subsidy.

WILLIAM HARRIS MARRIED.

Manager Says He Wed Florence Quayle Three Years Ago.

William Harris, the veteran theatrical manager, father of Henry B. Harris, who was lost on the Titanic, is now the husband of Florence Quayle, a young actress. It was reported on Broadway that the marriage had occurred within a month, but Mr. Harris yesterday denied that this was so, saying that he had been married for about three years.

William Harris is regarded as the dean of theatrical managers, and has often been called the most popular member of the calling. He had been endeavoring to retire from active management, gradually shifting the responsibility of the firm's business to the shoulders of Henry B. Harris, but the latter's death on the Titanic has brought him back into activity as the head of his firm.

NEEDLE IN HEART, BABY LIVES A YEAR

X-Rays Showed Shred of Steel Embedded in Her Body, but Doctors Feared to Remove It.

CHILD IN CONSTANT PAIN

Parents Cannot Tell How She Came by the Needle—At Last It Sank Too Deep and Killed Her.

Living for a year with a needle cutting through her body, a little patient in the Presbyterian Hospital, Ray Zuckerbrot, 2 years and 3 months of age, whose suffering baffled medical and scientific research until an X-ray photograph at last revealed the cause, died in the hospital yesterday.

The needle had pierced her heart and relieved her from her long agony. While science disclosed the cause of his death, it was unable to save her life or give her relief, because it was deemed too dangerous to attempt an operation with the heart wounded as it was with the tiny instrument of death deeply imbedded in the organ.

Ray was the girl of Samuel and Sarah Zuckerbrot of 292 Second Street, who sought in every way in their power to save the little girl by taking her from one medical specialist to another.

"It was a year ago that the symptoms first developed in Ray," said her father last night. "It began with pains in the stomach, which we at first supposed were due to cramps. The day she became afflicted she had been in the care of the daughter of a neighbor, who rolled her along the sidewalk in her carriage. She did not take her out of our sight, and there was no way in which she could have gotten hold of a needle, so far as we know.

"As she did not improve after being treated for simple ailments, we took her to physician after physician. The baby's sufferings were almost continuous, and she appeared to be in such great pain at all times that we suffered much in sympathy for her on account of our inability to get relief for her. We took her to every one of the children's dispensaries, but no one seemed able to tell what was the trouble.

"Our grief increased when we saw that Ray was gradually wasting away, for nourishment appeared to do little to keep up her strength, and often she could not eat anything. She was very frail when we took her to the Bellevue Hospital dispensary about three months ago and begged the physicians there to do something for her. They became deeply interested in the case and advised that we take her to the Presbyterian Hospital for treatment."

When the baby reached the Presbyterian Hospital she was placed under the X-ray, and the startling discovery was made that a minute point, apparently a needle, was piercing the heart. There was a chance that the needle might work through and leave her alive—a remote chance—but, on the other hand, the physicians concluded an operation under the circumstances would surely prove fatal.

For three months the case of the little girl has been under careful study, and every treatment that promised her case from pain was tried, but the point of the needle sank deeper until her life was snuffed out.

Two weeks ago there was a slight improvement, and, believing the danger was passed, the physicians in the hospital permitted Ray to be taken to the Sea Cliff Hospital for Babies, on Long Island. Friday she became worse, and was hurriedly taken back to the Presbyterian Hospital.

Coroner Feinberg has directed Dr Weston to make an autopsy of Ray's body to-day, to determine, if possible, whether the girl swallowed the needle or whether it entered her body from some part of her clothing.

BOMB EXPLODED AT HANOI.

Two French Officers Killed and Several Persons Injured.

HANOI, French Indo-China, April 28.—A bomb hurled by a native adherent of the pretender to the Annamite throne exploded among a large group of French officers, Government officials, and foreign residents seated on the terrace of the principal café here last evening, killing Capt. Mongrand of the Ninth Colonial Infantry and Capt. Chapuis of the Annamite Rifles. Fragments of the bomb wounded eight other persons, among them three civilian officers.

The promenades in the vicinity were crowded at the time, and all trace of the bomb thrower was lost.

The police have discovered in various places a number of bombs with which, it is believed, the followers of the pretender, Prince Kwong-te, intended to carry out a plot to put him on the throne.

TAKE 30 TONS OF FLOUR.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 28.—Nearly thirty tons of Minnesota flour will be taken by Captain Roald Amundsen, discoverer of the south pole, on his expedition to the arctic regions next year.

Captain Amundsen is now in St. Paul negotiating with one of the Twin City flour mills for enough flour to last his party seven years.

L. L. BONHEUR TO RESIGN.

Progressive Nassau Chairman Has Other Party Work to Do.

Lucien L. Bonheur, Chairman of the Nassau County Committee of the Progressive Party, will resign that office in a few days, it was learned yesterday. Mr. Bonheur was asked if a report to this effect were true, but added that he would resign merely to be able to devote his time to other work in connection with the Progressive Party.

"Nassau County, which gave Col. Roosevelt a large percentage of votes than any other county in the State," said Mr. Bonhem, "has plenty of good material to take my place. I want to be able to work in other channels where I believe I can do some good. First in the raising of money in different waays. I also intend to start monthly meetings for the benefit of those who are well-to-do in our community, who ought to understand that our Party is not a party of patronage or spoils, but a party that will deal with the real needs of poor and rich alike.

"The Progressive Party, and in fact, no party, will ever win again because of a strong organization. What is wanted is the confidence of the people and the support of public opinion. That is what will win the next mayorality election here this fall. Why is Mr. Whitman to-day the strongest candidate? Because he has the confidence of all factions. He did not help build the Republican organization in his office; he did not try t obuild a Whitman organization. He worked and did his duty. He did not antagonize a large portion of the community by his attitude on the Subway question, like the two other men most often mentioned. He is not a genius and does not pretend to be one; he is just a plain every day public servant, who does his duty as he sees it, and would have been able to do more if he had not been antagonized in high spheres. He would have been nominated four years ago, if it was not for Herbert Parsons.

"After all, it does not make a particle of difference what party the next candidate for Mayor belongs to, as long as he is honest, clean, able and can unite all the factions against Tammany Hall."

PRINCE IS TWICE FINED.

Pignatelli d'Aragona Gets Time to Pay $30, but Produces $10.

Special to The New York Times.

FREEPORT, L. I., April 28.—Prince Ludovico Pignatelli d'Aragona spent to-day in two Long Island Courts, in answer to summonses served by two policemen who caught him twice on Saturday as he exceeded the speed regulations in his haste to reach the Rockaway Hunt Club in time for the race.

His first appearance was in Jamaica, where Magistrate Miller made him wait his turn while less distinguished prisoners were heard. Finally His Highness was found guilty and heard sentence pronounced to the effect that he must pay $30 or serve fifteen days. He glanced nervously at the steel cage to which he had already seen several untitled prisoners consigned, but had to admit that he did not have the money. Magistrate Miller saw his distress and paroled him until to-morrow, when he must pay the fine or go behind the bars.

His haste to be off was due to the fact that he was under summons to appear before Justice Neu in the Lynnbrook Court, but for all his haste he took the precaution to go by train.

The painful thing about this second arrest, he explained in court, was not the arrest itself, but the fact that Patrolman Payne had carelessly called him "Jack." He expressed the hope that, when he settled in his Summer house at Merrick, the local police would understand that Princes were not to be called "Jack."

Justice Neu was more lenient in his fine and fixed the sum at $10. His Highness had that much in the royal pocket, from which it was then and there extracted and paid over to the awed court clerk.

DUCHESS IS WORSE.

Duke of Connaught's Wife Must Undergo Another Operation.

LONDON, April 28.—A bulletin issued this evening by the surgeons in attendance on the Duchess of Connaught, wife of the Governor General of Canada, who underwent an operation for intestinal trouble on April 10, states that intestinal obstructions have recurred and that another operation is necessary.

The Man in the Tower Looks at Both Sides

EVERY controversy has two sides. So has every suit.

The outside of a suit or overcoat depends very much on the work inside.

Weber and Heilbroner clothes are as near copies of New York's leading custom-made clothes as it is possible to produce.

The same patterns and qualities of woolens and the authentic models are only the beginning. The tailoring—the workmanship—the linings—all the underside must be put in faithfully as the custom tailor does it.

This is the underlying secret of the tremendous success of Weber and Heilbroner clothes.

Suits $20 to $40—overcoats and slip-ons, $25 to $40.

Spring haberdashery is a more one-sided question. This is the largest haberdashery business on the continent.

"Why Don't You Advertise These Assortments?"

¶ This question was put to us recently by one of our customers who was profoundly impressed with the extent and diversity of our assortments.

¶ He said that he had seen no such assortments elsewhere, and that it seemed to him we ought to put every weave and shade and pattern in the papers.

¶ But this would be like advertising a dictionary by saying: This dictionary contains the following words.

¶ Besides, important as fabrics are, they are only a small part of the story from our point of view.

¶ We prefer to leave to others the cataloging of cloths, and to content ourselves with exploiting the superiority of Saks styles.

¶ Our position is, that we have everything in fabrics that any shop can have, and more than most shops ever dream of carrying.

¶ And beyond that, we offer you tailoring as superior to the average as an engraved letter is to machine type—and style which is too individual to be common.

President's Eldest Daughter Guest of Honor at New Civic Centre.

ONE OF HER OWN PLANS

Schoolhouse Open for Neighborhood Meetings — "Bryan Punch" Served to 500 Guests.

Miss Margaret Woodrow Wilson, the eldest daughter of the President, made her bow to Greenwich Village last night at a reception given in her honor by the Greenwich Commonwealth at the Village Social Centre, Public School 41, 36 Greenwich Avenue. In some ways the affair was highly formal, admission being by card only with invitations strictly limited to 500, and there was a Receiving Committee, too, with plenty of white silk badges and boutonnières of white narcissus and pink sweet peas.

Promptly at 9 o'clock Miss Wilson rolled up to the Civic Centre in a limousine, accompanied by Mrs. McDonald Sheridan, amid the cheers of several score school children. As she jumped out she put Boyd Fisher, the local master of ceremonies, at his ease by cheerily calling out:

"Hello, how are you?"

Miss Wilson then ran the gantlet of the reception committee, after which the guests were presented to her. For half an hour the President's daughter shook all comers' hands with the finished technique of a practical politician, and did not seem a bit tired by the ordeal.

"I am so glad we have a dignified person in the White House at last," one effusive young matron said to her, and was rewarded with an eloquent smile.

Miss Wilson wore a dress of electric blue charmeuse with a yoke of blue chiffon, a sash of gold embroidery and a string of purple roses at her corsage, black satin slippers, with oval rhinestone buckles, and two tortoise shell hairpins set with rhinestones. Her only jewelry was a blue enameled watch suspended from a slender gold chain about her neck.

When she saw a reporter in the offing she appealed to the nearest committeeman to be "saved," but, finding salvation impossible, she admitted that she believed in American fashions for American women.

"At least my dress was made by an American dressmaker," she laughed.

When asked her views on woman suffrage, Miss Wilson was non-committal, but denied that she was opposed to it, saying that she had been misquoted to that effect recently in certain papers.

After the handshaking there was a breathing spell for the guest of honor, while a musical programme was rendered by amateur talent from the Women's Council of the Church of the Ascension, Mrs. John A. Flagler, Mrs. Arnold Furst, and Miss Mabel Beddoe being among those who donated their musical services to the cause of civic uplift. And then the Rev. Dr. Percy Stickney Grant of the Church of the Ascension made an address of fifteen minutes in praise of Greenwich village's newly established civic centre.

A large placard at the back of the reception room announced that "Bryan punch" was on tap in the gymnasium, and many present, including Miss Wilson, went to sample the now famous unfermented grape juice brew. Following the musical numbers and the speaking there was general dancing on the cement floor, with the "turkey trot," the "grapevine," and other animal and vegetable dances strictly barred, until taps sounded shortly before midnight.

The Greenwich Village Social Centre in the public schoolhouse, in the organization of which Miss Wilson herself took an active part, has proved to be a successful experiment since its inception last February. The Board of Education gave permission for the use of the schoolhouse for civic purposes and is keeping its hands off. A volunteer committee is in charge, with Mrs. J. Gilmore Drayton as supervisor.

The Commonwealth, as it is called, meets every Thursday evening for free and open discussion of public questions. On next Thursday evening, for example, Alderman H. H. Curran is to spak on "Breaking the System," and heckling in good faith will be permitted. There are women's sewing and millinery clubs, a Woman's Suffrage Club, dramatic clubs, basket ball classes for women and girls, young women's gymnasium classes, a Choral Club for men and women, club dances for young people and every Tuesday night a dance and social for householders. This last is for married people chiefly. Charles A. Bohlen is Acting Chairman of the Greenwich Commonwealth and Alvin G. West is Secretary.

HATCH ESTATE IN COURT.

E. P. Hatch Disputes Its Indebtedness to Lord & Taylor.

Edward P. Hatch will apply to-day in the Surrogates' Court to have $126,404.21 set aside from the estate of his father, Edward P. Hatch, formerly President of Lord & Taylor, to cover part of a judgment awarded against him to that firm. The judgment was rendered on March 14 and is for $111,795.48 and costs, a total of $141,454.74.

In February, 1911, suit was brought in the Supreme Court by Lord & Taylor against the Hatch estate and a judgment for $141,454.74, including costs, was entered. Mr. Hatch asserts that he intends to take this decision to the Court of Appeals, if necessary. He asks the Surrogate to order the executors of the estate to deposit $97,226.32, with five years' interest, a total of $126,404.21, in a trust company to await the final determination of the action.

On Feb. 6, 1912, Surrogate Fowler appointed Robert E. Deyo, 111 Broadway, to take testimony in the matter of the accounting of the Hatch executors, Edward H. Titus, Wilson H. Tucker, and Samuel H. Ordway, and he investigated the allegation that the executors had not sold certain securities to the best advantage. The accounting showed the estate had a balance of $2,608,700.

Tea for Suffrage Speakers.

Ellen Glasgow, the novelist, with Miss Picton-Tubervill, an English suffragist, will be the guests of the Queens Borough suffragists at tea on Wednesday afternoon at the headquarters of the Woman Suffrage Party, 48 East Thirty-fourth Street. Both guests will speak on suffrage. The cake and sandwiches for the tea will be made on the premises by good suffrage cooks.

OPPOSE ALBANY BILL TO END HORSE CARS

Service Board Members See a Joker Aimed at Them in Pending Measure.

NO BOND ISSUE CONTROL

Would Permit, Without Board Approval, Creation of Securities for Changing Old Lines.

Members of the Public Service Commission are much concerned about a bill introduced by Assemblyman Silverstein at Albany for the prohibition of the operation of horse cars in cities of the first class after Jan. 1. The ostensible object of the measure is, of course, in line with the general policy of the commission, but its second clause seems to have been conceived in the nature of a joker to deprive the commission of one of its most important functions.

This reads, "Any such corporation is hereby authorized to issue its stock, bonds, notes, or other evidences of indebtedness sufficient to cover the complete cost of the new cars and other changes in plant and equipment made necessary by the provisions of this act."

This, it was maintained yesterday at the offices of the Public Service Commission, would nullify that part of the Public Service Comissions law which gives the commission authority to regulate the issue of securities by a street railway company. It would open the way for the creation of a great many securities over which the commission would have no control, and it is understood that the clause was added through corporation influence after the bill had been introduced.

At the offices of the New York Railways Company, however, knowledge of the Silverstein bill and its provisions was denied yesterday. It was suggested that it had been introduced as the result of one of the not infrequent agitations against horse cars and that the provision with regard to securities had been put in in order to sweeten the bill for the company.

The New York Railways Company has at present under order forty-five storage battery cars, which it intends to test in practical working on the Spring Street-Delancey Street line. It was pointed out yesterday that in asking permission to change the motive power on this line Frank Hedley, Vice President and General Manager of the company, discussed the conditions which the commission would exact before it would authorize the company to issue bonds to cover the cost of new equipment, so that he, at any rate, expected the commission to have authority over such an issue still.

The attitude of the commission toward the Silverstein bill is the result largely of the attitude taken by the New York Railways Company in regard to the issue of bonds to cover the cost of the new stepless cars. It desired to capitalize the cost of the new equipment and to deduct from it only the present value of the old cars to be discarded. Commissioner Maltbie, however, insisted that the cost of production of the old cars must be deducted, and so the commission authorized the issue for stepless cars of only $640,000 in bonds and not the $1,050,000 which the company asked.

The Silverstein bill is now before the Senate, having been passed by the Assembly. Its supporters at Albany said that Dr. Henry Moscowitz, head worker of Madison House and President of the East Side Neighborhood Association, had requested its adoption, but Dr. Moskowitz at once disclaimed such action.

LE COMPTE SUIT BEGUN.

Wife Charges Husband with Illegally Committing Her to Asylum.

Mrs. Madelon Le Compte, who charges that her husband, Edward Le Compte, an electrical engineer, had her illegally committed to the Kings County Insane Asylum in February to compel her to reconvey to him their handsome home at 109 Woolsey Street, Astoria, was the principal witness in her action for a separation before Justice Scudder in the Queens County Supreme Court, Long Island City, yesterday. Le Compte is also suing his wife for the Astoria property, which he alleges was bought with his money and simply deeded to her in trust.

A big crowd of spectators and witnesses filled the courtroom. Mrs. Le Compte started to describe her husband's alleged attention to women who were among the spectators. Mrs. Le Compte testified to finding her husband in the home of one woman named by her, when a voice from the back of the courtroom cried out:

"That's a lie."

Mrs. Le Compte said that she had been drugged to make her appear insane, and that on the afternoon of Feb. 21 she was dragged from her home, placed in an ambulance, and taken to the Kings County Insane Asylum on an affidavit made by her husband, charging that she was an insane pauper, whereas she had property worth $25,000. While in the asylum undergoing observation, she said, her husband called on her and offered to have her released at once if she would sign the deed, whereupon she said she did sign a paper he presented to her. Through her attorney she was released a day or so later on a writ of habeas corpus by Justice Blackmar, who denounced the proceeding as an outrage and told her she could leave without an order, as she had been illegally committed.

The case will be continued to-day.

JESUITS TO TEST HIS CURE.

Will Establish a Tuberculosis Laboratory for Dr. Peter Duket.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Believing that a cure for tuberculosis has been discovered, aside from that announced by Dr. Friedrich F. Friedmann, the Jesuits have decided to establish a research laboratory in Loyola University, Chicago, in which tests looking to the establishment of the claims of the discoverer of the cure will be made. No report as to the supposed efficacy of the alleged cure accompanies the announcement made to-day.

The serum, it is said, is the discovery of Dr. Peter Duket, a physician of Chicago, who says that he has cured advanced cases of consumption through its use. The Jesuits will investigate these claims and will also test other serums and supposed cures in the new laboratory. Dr. Maximilian Herzog, formerly a pathologist in the United States Public Health Service, will be in charge of the tests.

FRIEDMANN ADMITS SALE OF HIS CURE

Free Treatment of Poor Made a Condition, but He Won't Discuss Financial End.

EISNER TO HEAD SYNDICATE

Wealthy Individuals to Join Him in Establishing Friedmann Institutes in the States.

Following a conference in the apartment of Dr. Friedrich Franz Friedmann in the Ansonia Hotel, it was formally announced late yesterday that the contract for the sale of the American rights to his turtle vaccine consumption remedy had been signed. This information was conveyed in a statement issued with Dr. Friedmann's approval by I. H. Lehman of the law firm of Leventritt, Cook & Nathan, counsel for Moritz Eisner, President of the Eisner-Mendelson Company, who will represent the men who are to operate a system of institutes to be established in various States.

Mr. Eisner, it was stated, was interested in the project as an individual only, and his company had played no part in the negotiations. As associates, it was said, he had several wealthy men, but their names were not made public. It was learned, however, that Charles E. Finlay, Vice President of the Aetna National Bank, who offered to pay $1,000,000 to Dr. Friedmann if his "cure" met certain requirements, was not among the number.

In the brief statement, which had nothing to say about the financial features of the transaction, emphasis was laid on the fact that provision had been made in the contract for treatment of poor patients without charge. When Mr. Lehman was pressed for details about the amount Dr. Friedmann had received, he said that was considered a private matter. He was asked if he would comment on the statement in THE TIMES on Sunday that Dr. Friedmann would receive $125,000 when the contract was signed and $1,800,000 in stock of 36 institutes, he replied that he did not care to discuss the matter at all. Other information obtained yesterday, however, was in confirmation of the figures given in THE TIMES article.

Provides for State Institutes.

Here is the formal statement:

An arrangement has been definitely arrived at between Dr. Friedrich Franz Friedmann and Moritz Eisner of this city providing for the preparation and use of the Friedmann vaccine in the United States. The plan which has been formulated provides for the establishment of institutes in the various States in order that fresh vaccine may at all times be available to those afflicted with tubercular diseases; that under reasonable regulations persons requiring treatment but who are unable to pay for the same shall be treated free of charge, and that all duly licensed physicians shall without cost to them be entitled to receive at the respective institutes proper instructions in the method of applications.

Dr. Friedrich Franz Friedmann will return to the United States after his visit to Canada for the purpose of instructing a number of doctors in the method of handling of the vaccine for treatment in the various institutions.

No one in the United States at present, with the exception of Dr. Friedrich Franz Friedmann and Moritz Eisner, has any of the vaccine in his possession or knows the preparation of the same, and this will be given to the Friedmann institutes to be formed. The application of the vaccine made in accordance with the instructions given by Dr. Friedmann will be applied by physicians who will be instructed to treat patients at the Friedmann institutes in the different States. This is all done on account of the nature of the article and the nature of the treatment and for no other purpose.

Dr. Friedmann from the start has made it an absolute condition that the poor in every State shall be treated free of charge.

During the conference in Dr. Friedmann's apartment it was stated by counsel for Mr. Eisner that he had made a thorough investigation of the vaccine and had consulted eminent authorities who had watched the Friedmann treatment. At the conference were Dr. Friedmann and his counsel, Carl L. Schurz, Jr.; Mr. Eisner, Mr. Lehman and Dr. Maurice A. Sturm, who has been closely associated with Dr. Friedmann. Reporters were admitted when the statements had been prepared.

Mr. Lehman acted as spokesman for the conferrees. He said that all of the details of the contract had not been worked out. No States had been excluded from the list of those in which institutes were to be opened, he said, but it had not been decided definitely whether one company would control the institutes in all of the States or sell the rights to others. It was expected that the first institute would be opened in New York City within a few weeks. Reports that a building in Seventy-second Street had been selected were incorrect, he said.

Among the many details which had not been decided upon, Mr. Lehman said, was whether the vaccine would be sold to physicians with permission to make applications outside of the State institutes. If it was decided to sell the vaccine, he said, the price charged would not be prohibitive. The price had not even been discussed. Patients would be treated as rapidly as possible, and the number would be restricted only by the facilities which were provided and the size of the corps of physicians instructed in the method of application.

Another question which remained unanswered was whether the concern which is to control the American rights would be a stock company. That was listed with the details which had not been worked out.

Not Trying to Evade Law, He Says.

It is probable that arrangements will be made to manufacture the vaccine at the institutes in the various States, and when this point was reached in the interview, Dr. Friedmann, who had been listening closely to all that was said, interrupted. It was no fear of the inter-State commerce laws, he said, that resulted in this decision, but the fact, which he had often made clear, that the vaccine had to be fresh to be effective and therefore must be manufactured on the spot.

It was said that the last $50,000 of the $125,000 in cash to be received by Dr. Friedmann was paid yesterday. He is also to receive $1,800,000 in stock.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—The arrangement of Dr. Friedmann for the distribution of his remedy in this country is being studied by Federal officials. It is understood that its legal phases are being looked into by the Solicitor of the Treasury. Public health surgeons believe that the arrangement by which the remedy is to be dispensed in thirty-six institutes in thirty-six States is not amenable to the Federal health law as it will not be carried in inter-State commerce.

Collier's can now be bought at news-stands—formerly sold by subscription only.

New Story Editor
Collier's has engaged Miss Viola Roseboro', whose ability to choose stories needs no mention to the story-loving public.

Miss Roseboro's First Selections:

The Girl Who Proposed
By Marianne Gauss
This, the opening story of the first five-cent Collier's, is especially a sincere and touching love story, but it is also a character story and, in a very human way, it touches a very human problem.

Paddy the Gander
By Ruth Sawyer
This is the first story by an American girl—of whom Seumas MacManus has said that she is the only outsider of the day who understands the "Old Country."

Honor of the Station
By Magda Leigh
Love, duty, sacrifice—of these high qualities is honor made. And as the greatest of these is sacrifice, so the most human is love—in this case a woman's love, a young mother's love, a young wife's love. "Women and children first," is the old cry of the sea in her ears as she presses the key of the wireless instrument. But whose woman and whose child? And honor answers.

First of a Series on Every-Day Americans
By Peter Clark Macfarlane
"The President's Silent Partner" is the first article of a Big Series of personality sketches of every-day Americans—men and women who, all in a day's work, have done the things that fell to their hands to do, and who, by that very doing, although unconscious of the limelight, have become the dramatic figures on life's stage. The editors of Collier's are confident that these articles will make the most popular magazine series of the year. The subject of this first article is the most interesting and important unknown personage in America.

Women are the great buyers of articles for the home—especially the toilet.

But when men—America's busy men—trouble themselves to buy Pebeco Tooth Paste we can well afford to learn the "reason why." (It's a fact—Pebeco is introduced into homes chiefly by men.)

But why? Are men quicker to see the true significance and danger of "acid-mouth"—the first to understand the value of the acid-mouth test?

Wife and children are always ready "to be shown"—are quick to grasp the simple truth that the cause of nearly all tooth decay is acid-mouth—are quick to know that Pebeco Tooth Paste absolutely prevents acid-mouth.

Enjoy Pebeco? Everyone delights in the purifying, really refreshing sensation that it gives.

SWAP OLD FRONTIER TALES.

Gen. Nelson A. Miles Visits His Old Scout, Buffalo Bill.

Lieut. Gen. Nelson A. Miles, accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Reber, and her husband, Col. Reber, ex-Senator Clark of Montana, and State Senator George Beck of Wyoming, visited Buffalo Bill at the Madison Square Garden last night.

Gen. Miles heartily greeted his old scout, and many tales of old frontier life were exchanged, as the party watched the Indian display and the auto-polo combat.

Next Tuesday afternoon will be Orphans' Day at the Garden and those interested in it should write to Col. Charles Thompson, so that proper arrangements can be made to receive the youngsters.

WEALTHY MAN NEAR A PAUPER'S BURIAL

Dudley Jardine, Son of Famous Organmaker, Lived Life of Poverty in Bowery.

IDENTIFIED AFTER HIS DEATH

Had an Estate of $100,000—Estranged from Family, He Worked for Years for Missions.

Through the issuance yesterday of letters testamentary in the estate of Dudley Jardine, 65 years old, the son of the late George Jardine, a famous organ and piano manufacturer in Manhattan a half century ago, it was revealed that a scion of a wealthy family had been saved from a pauper's grave through the devotion of a humble friend on the lower east side, where Jardine had resided for a number of years. An investigation of the circumstances showed that the dead man, although possessed of a fortune of more than $100,000, had led a life of abject poverty in the lodging houses of the Bowery.

The records of the Board of Health show that on Feb. 9, 1913, a patient, known as William Smith, died in Gouverneur Hospital, and that the body, being unclaimed, was sent to the Morgue. The Morgue records disclose that the body was later delivered to Undertaker James F. Fallon of 368 West Fiftieth Street. Through affidavits submitted by Mr. Fallon, who is a Notary Public, the name of the deceased on the records of the Board of Health was later altered to Dudley Jardine.

Mr. Fallon told last night of his connection with the case.

"One rainy night," he said, "an old fellow came into my establishment and informed me that the body of a friend of his was lying unclaimed in the Morgue. He told me that he did not have sufficient money to insure a decent burial, but that he was convinced that if I would interest myself that I would be repaid. He gave his name as Peter Shouinard of 455 Pearl Street, and told me that he was employed as a librarian in a mission on the Bowery. He stated that he had known the dead man for twelve years; that he was an omniverous reader and well educated, and always appeared to have plenty of money. The librarian knew him as William Smith, but was convinced that this was an assumed name.

"I obtained permission to remove the body from the Morgue, intending to inter it in a plot which I own in Linden Cemetery. After the body had been brought to my rooms I went to the Germania Hotel at 81 Bowery, where the dead man had lived for nine years, and obtained the consent of the proprietor to examine his effects. I found a lot of old papers, among them a will disposing of some property, across the face of which had been written: 'I hereby cancel this will.' Another paper was an old letter dated 1889, which he had received from a relative notifying him of a death in the family. The will was signed Dudley Jardine, and the letter was addressed to one of the same name. The writer of the letter had lived in Montgomery Street, Jersey City, and I visited the address only to discover that the writer was dead.

"I learned, however, that the body lying in my rooms was that of a son of George Jardine, who at one time had a large organ factory in East Thirty-ninth Street, between First and Second Avenues. Further inquiry revealed to me that a nephew of Dudley Jardine was living at 202 Loraine Street, Montclair, and that his name was Frederick R. Jardine. I notified him that I believed that I had the body of his uncle, and he called at my establishment and identified it. I took his affidavit establishing the identity in order to have the records of the Board of Health changed, and at his direction a notice of the funeral was published. The body was interred in the family plot owned by the dead man's father in Trinity Cemetery, 155th Street and Broadway.

Mrs. Charles Jardine of 18 Stratford Court, Flatbush, a cousin of the eccentric old recluse, said last night that Dudley Jardine had been interested for a number of years in east side missions and on the infrequent occasions upon which he saw any members of his family always spoke of the good work which was being accomplished by the mission workers.

Mrs. Margaret Jardine of 461 Tompkins Avenue, Brooklyn, widow of Edward G. Jardine, a brother of the dead man, said that Dudley had never been associated with his father in the organ factory as a partner, but had worked for the latter until his death in 1882.

The will of Dudley Jardine, which has been probated, divides his estate into eight equal parts. One-half is to be divided equally among these charitable organizations: The Prison Association of New York, the Woman's Branch of the New York City Mission and Tract Society, the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church, and the New York Protestant Episcopal City Mission Society. The other half is devised to Mrs. Thomas F. Devoe of Elmhurst, L. I., daughter of Joseph P. Jardine, a brother of the testator; Robert Jardine, a grand-nephew, who resides in California; George Hogg of Manhattan, a nephew, and Frederick R. Jardine, also a nephew, of Montclair, N. J.

George Jardine & Sons, the firm founded in 1830 by the father of Dudley Jardine, built the three Talmage organs in this city, and installed the handsome organ in St. Patrick's Cathedral and the one in St. George's Church.

WEDDING GIFTS IN BOND.

Sir Wilfred Peek Wouldn't Pay Duty on Silver Worth $10,000.

Among the passengers arriving yesterday from Dover on the Red Star liner Lapland was Sir Wilfred Peek, 29 years old, of Devonshire, England, who is to be married on May 7 to Miss Edwina Thornburgh of St. Louis. He was accompanied by his mother, Lady Peek; two sisters, Sir John Shelley, a cousin, and H. A. Benjamin, who is to be best man.

When he declared his baggage to the customs official there was $10,000 worth of silver wedding presents, liable to 45 per cent. duty.

The Acting Deputy Surveyor in charge on the pier said that they could not be landed unless the duty was paid, and Sir Wilfred was equally positive that he would not pay the duty, as he and his bride were leaving the United States after the wedding to live in England.

After a long debate it was decided that the gifts should be sent in bond to the Public Stores to remain there until Sir Wilfred and his bride sail for Europe.

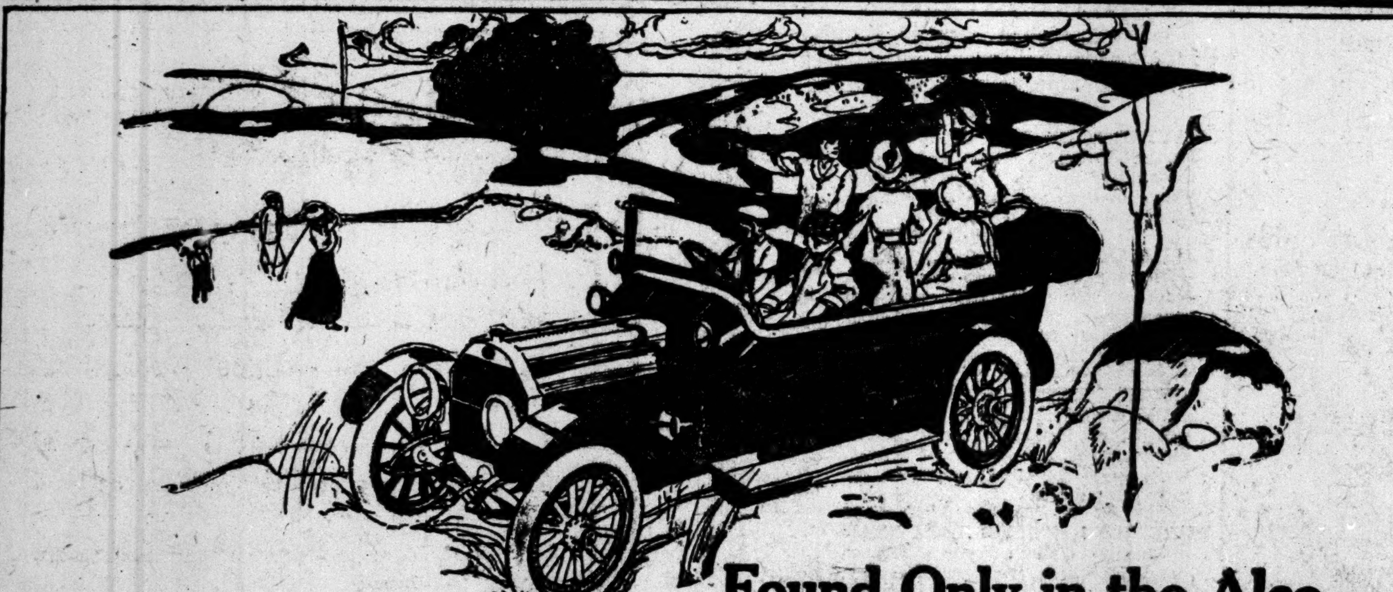
NEWARK BRANCH, 299 CENTRAL AVENUE

No other car, no matter what you pay for it, has all these necessary features



Found Only in the Alco

THE biggest thing to find in any car is its "road capacity"—its ability on the open road. Some engineers call it "road ability", but they all know where to look for it. They push down the accelerator and speed up the motor. They listen. They seek to find the point where the motor "labors". They call this the "point of vibration".

In some cars it is manifested at 28 miles per hour; others at 35; some at 44; and so on. It is more pronounced in some than in others. Seldom is found a car without a point of vibration at some speed. A motor without it is the ambition of every engineer young and old; (for vibration means wear, shortening of life, loss of power, loss of speed, discomfort to the passenger.)

A number of engineers decisively tell us they have found no vibration in the motor of the Alco Six. They have sped up the motor, dropped it, sped it up again, in the shops, on the open road; have worked every little trick known to the engineer; and each time it has responded—absolutely effortless. They tell us this is the best six cylinder motor they have ever driven. We have long felt so. Let us tell you why.

This motor was first built in Lyons, France, in the shops of the Berliet. It is today largely the old Berliet six cylinder motor—designed and developed by French engineers.

We put this motor in the first six cylinder car we ever built and we have never changed. In 1909 it won for us the race for the Vanderbilt cup. In 1910 it repeated. This is a big reason why anyone buying a car this Spring should examine the Alco.

CUBS ROUT PIRATE PITCHERS IN EIGHTH

Hendrix and Adams So Wabbly Evers's Team Bags Sensational Victory.

CHICAGO, April 28.—Johnny Evers's Cubs went into the lead of the National League race to-day with a surprising eighth inning victory over Pittsburgh, Chicago winning by a score of 8 to 5 in a loosely played game. The Cubs' victory, coming on top of the Giant-Brooklyn postponement, sent the Cubs to the front. So President Charley Murphy is laughing up his sleeve to-night, as he sees his team in the lead with the season less than three weeks old.

It was a see-saw battle. The Cubs took the lead in the first inning, only to be passed by Pittsburgh in the third. Chicago came back with two more runs and took the lead in the sixth, while in the eighth Pittsburgh apparently had the game clinched when they sent three runs over. Then Chicago made a spectacular finish, and, through Claude Hendrix's wildness and by hitting Adams hard, harvested five runs and the victory.

Toney did the pitching for Chicago and went to pieces in the eighth inning. He was effective with the bat, however, and in the sixth sent the Cubs in front with a triple. He also got two singles. Hendrix got so wild in the last half of the eighth inning that he couldn't find the plate, and was displaced by Adams, who then was batted for two doubles and a single.

The Cubs were without the services of Third Baseman Heinie Zimmerman, the league's premier batsman, Phelan playing in his place. Zimmerman injured a leg sliding in Sunday's game and will not be able to play for several days.

Chicago counted in the first inning, when Clymer beat out a grounder to Viox and went to second on the shortstop's wild throw. The runner went to third when Schulte grounded out to Miller, and scored while Mitchell was being tossed out by Butler. Pittsburgh took the lead in the third inning. After Hendrix flied to Clymer, Carey and Hofman walked, both players scoring on Byrne's double to left field.

In the sixth inning Chicago went to the front again when Hendrix lost control. Saier drew a pass and Evers sacrificed, Hendrix to Miller, and Saier was out trying to stretch to third. Bridwell walked and stole second base and Archer got a pass. Toney then tripled to the left field fence, scoring both runners.

It surely looked like a Pittsburgh victory in the first half of the eighth. Byrne singled to left and was forced by Miller. Wilson singled to right and scored on Butler's two-base drive to left. Viox singled, scoring Butler, and went to third on Mitchell's wild throw to the plate. Kelly shot a single to centre, scoring Viox.

Chicago was undismayed at this sudden turn of affairs, when it found Hendrix again unable to find the plate. Saier and Evers both walked, and then Adams succeeded Hendrix on the mound. He walked Bridwell, filling the bases. Saier scored on Archer's sacrifice fly to Wilson. Miller, batting for Toney, flied to Butler. Clymer doubled to right, scoring Evers and Bridwell. Schulte sent another double to right, scoring Clymer. Schulte scored on Mitchell's single to left.

Cheney pitched the first part of the ninth inning for Chicago and held the Pirates from doing further damage. The score:

Cardinals Beat Reds Again.

ST. LOUIS, April 28.—St. Louis won today, 7 to 5, taking three out of four games from Cincinnati. Cincinnati started off well, scoring three runs in the first inning on Bescher's double, Becker's safe bunt, Tinker's triple, and Marsans's sacrifice fly. In St. Louis's half of the first inning the Cardinals bunched hits with bases on balls off Powell and Works, scoring four runs. In the second session at bat Huggins walked, took second on Smith's balk, and scored on Konetchy's single. Cincinnati scored in the fifth on Becker's single, Tinker's double, and Hoblitzell's sacrifice fly. In the eighth Sallee's third single, a sacrifice hit, a base on balls, a wild pitch, and two singles scored two runs for St. Louis. With two out in the ninth, Cincinnati scored on Bescher's single, a steal to second, and Becker's third single. The score:

HOME RUN BEATS CORNELL.

Dartmouth Hit Stretched When Outfielder Misjudges It.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., April 28.—Dartmouth defeated Cornell in a hard fought game of baseball here to-day by the score of 1 to 0. Kimball's home run in the sixth inning gave the Hanover team its victory. It would have counted for only a single had not Butler misjudged the drive and then fell down on the slippery ground in an effort to get it, allowing the Dartmouth runner to cross the plate.

Johnson, Cornell's youthful pitcher, performed with much credit, but Hallett of Dartmouth eclipsed him for honors by allowing the Ithacans only four hits. Grossman of Cornell tripled in the second inning, but his team mates could not bring him home. The Ithacans had a good chance to score in the fifth, which they threw away by weakness at the bat. The score:

Princeton Gymnastic Captain.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., April 28.—Walter J. Wolf of New York City was this afternoon elected Captain of the Princeton University gymnastic team for next Winter. Wolf is a member of the junior class. Two years ago he was intercollegiate champion on the flying rings, and this year he won second place in that event.

TENNIS MATCHES FOR AUSTRALIANS

Davis Cup Defenders to Limber Up in East for International Contests.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., April 28.—Horace Rice and A. B. Jones, members of the Australian Davis Cup tennis team, will leave to-morrow for New York, stopping at Los Angeles, Chicago, and Niagara Falls. Whatever the outcome of the Davis Cup contests in New York, the team will go on to England to compete in the British championship tourneys at Wimbledon. They will return home by way of the Suez Canal.

In practice play here the Australians have won the admiration of local experts by their accurate placing. They have not taken kindly, however, to asphalt courts.

Comment to-day on the form shown by Rice and Jones pronounces them both strong tennis players, despite the fact that they have been five weeks without practice and played for the first time on asphalt courts, which are much faster than the turf courts to which they have been accustomed, and are hard on the feet to the unaccustomed.

Champion McLoughlin was especially impressed with the sound ground strokes shown by both men as well as their accurate, swift, forehand drives. Rice, who is left-handed, uses a short swing with plenty of lift to it and gets tremendous pace. Jones shows a longer swing with a better follow through.

Neither player uses a chop stroke, but both show finished solid backhand work. Rice's backhand shot is between a drive and a cut with all the speed of the drive. Jones uses a graceful overhand back stroke with hardly speed enough to be called a drive in championship company.

Both hit the ball hard all the time and are fast on their feet. Their weak spots seem to be volleying and service. Rice has just the delivery that McLoughlin is accustomed to devour. Jones's service is deep and fast, but not killing.

It is realized that both men are nowhere near the top of their game, and will not be for weeks.

The team that will represent Australia here in June in the international matches for the Davis Lawn Tennis Cup will reach New York on May 7 or 8. A. B. Jones and Horace Rice, the two Australians who arrived in San Francisco last Friday, have decided not to play any exhibiton matches on their way across the continent. They will play in Philadelphia in the exhibition series of May 22, 23, and 24, and also in the invitation tournament of the Rockaway Hunting Club at Cedarhurst, L. I., on May 30. Exhibition matches may be arranged for them also in Pittsburgh.

P. D. Wrenn, President of the United States National Lawn Tennis Association, received this information yesterday from San Francisco in a telegram from Dr. Sumner Hardy, Executive Committeeman of the association. Dr. Hardy said that, according to E. W. Hicks, the manager, Stanley Doust, the third member of the team, will reach New York from England May 7.

"In my estimation," said Dr. Hardy, "the Australians will prove stronger than expected. Both are men of wide experience, Jones being 30 years of age and Rice 40."

The telegram said that both visitors were in excellent condition. They began practice immediately upon their arrival in San Francisco. The Australians, said Dr. Hardy, had not yet decided who sould represent them in the doubles.

COVERED COURTS TENNIS.

Wilding and Doust Beat Challengers, Gore and Lamb.

LONDON, April 28.—The challenge round of the covered courts lawn tennis championship was played at Queen's Club to-day, when the holders, A. F. Wilding and Stanley N. Doust, (Australasia,) beat the challengers, A. W. Gore and E. W. Lamb, (England,) by 6—4, 6—2, 6—3.

ALBERTS OUTPOINTS JARVIS.

Harvey Kelly and Richie Ryan in Fast Draw at Olympic A. C.

Johnny (Kid) Alberts of Newark easily outpointed Jimmy Jarvis of Long Island City in ten rounds, Harvey Kelly of Harlem and Richie Ryan of the west side went over the same route to a draw, and Johnny Harvey stopped Harry Cutch in three rounds at the Olympic A. C. of Harlem last night. Jarvis was a substitute for Harry Conway of Brooklyn, who came to the clubhouse and notified the management that he was unable to box because of an injured hand.

Alberts was far too clever a boxer for the Long Island City boy and he held a safe lead from the first round to the finish. Jarvis was strong enough to take all kinds of wallops that Alberts showered on him without showing any signs of weakness, but there was not a round in the ten when he was entitled to the honors. Alberts weigher 141 pounds ringside, and Jarvis tipped the beam five pounds under this figure.

The ten-round semi-final, which brought together Richie Ryan and Harvey Kelly, was easily the best bout on the programme. Kelly weighed 136 pounds and Ryan was two pounds under this mark. In the early rounds Kelly had the better of the going, but as the bout progressed Ryan's aggressive tactics gradually tired the Harlem boy and enabled the west sider to even matters.

New Entrances to Ebbets Field.

President Ebbets of the Brooklyn Baseball Club, realizing that the marble rotunda at Ebbets Field was the cause of all the confusion last Saturday, has decided to open four new entrances on days when the attendance is expected to be large. Mr. Ebbets says the rotunda idea is a good and modern one, but that the baseball public is not accustomed to it.

He has decided that on big days at his new park all 75-cent tickets will be sold at four new entrances, two of which are on Cedar Place and two on Sullivan Street. At the ticket offices within the rotunda only reserved seats and general admission to the upper stand will be sold. With these new entrances, it is expected that the patrons can be kept in line and confusion avoided. Special exits will also be made immediately for the lower-tier patrons through the rotunda. The new entrances at the park will be ready for use at to-day's game against the Giants.

BOWLERS AFTER TITLES.

Tenpin Players Begin Metropolitan Championships.

Aspirants for Metropolitan bowling championships, individual, two men, and five men events, gathered in force last night at the White Elephant Alleys and began a series which will continue until May 21, inclusive. Although not as many entries were made for this season's tournament, which marks the third under the auspices of the New York Bowling Association, the entry of 495 individual, 309 two men, and 105 five men teams was received.

The customary banquet prefaced the competitive proceedings, and before play was started the tournament chairman, Patrick A. Moynahan, made the contestants aware of the conditions and the high totals they were expected to reach if they wanted to keep abreast of the performances of previous years. It developed that at present there is a registration among bowlers of the metropolitan district of 1,200, but W. E. Valentine, the President of the association, argued that it should be 12,000.

Last night's play brought to the alleys Hudson A and First Bohemian, and Hudson B and Oxford of Passaic, N. J., all being five men teams. The two men events will begin this afternoon at 4 o'clock, while at 6 o'clock the individual contests will start. In last year's events held on the same alleys the top scores were as follows: Five men—O. K. No. 1 of Yonkers, 2,764; two men—Meyer and Buchholz, Rosedale, 1,214; individual—H. Horton, Yonkers, 664. John Koster of the Knickerbockers won the all-around with 1825.

NEW ATHLETIC TRACK.

Fifth of Mile Ellipse Inside of Brighton Beach Motordrome.

The Brighton Beach Motordrome saucer of a third of a mile in circumference, which is the fastest in the world, will soon encircle a new cinder path a fifth of a mile in length, which is to be constructed by the well-known athletic field builder, Sparrow Robertson.

Plans have been drawn for an ellipse 352 yards around, with a 200-yard straightaway, work on which will be started immediately. Situated in the heart of the Summer amusements at Brighton Beach, the new amphitheatre will be the scene of competitive sport of many kinds.

Inquiries made by the promoters of the scheme to add to the athletic plants of the metropolitan district as to what sports associations would be willing to hold contests there developed the fact that leaders in track and field athletics, soccer, baseball, Gaelic football, hurling, Marathon running, cricket, and similar sports have applied for dates on which to complete their various schedules.

The Brighton Beach Sports Club, an organization made up of some of the best-known men in sports hereabouts, will be sponsor for the events which will be held under their direction.

One of the first events carded will be a one-hour running race for the Sullivan Belt, a trophy presented by James E. Sullivan of the Amateur Athletic Union, who sees in the competition an opportunity to forward the interests of America in relation to Marathon running for the next Olympic games at Berlin.

W. H. Robertson, 1 Beekman Street, New York City, has been appointed manager of the new club.

CAMBRIDGE AND OXFORD.

May Not Compete Against Harvard and Yale in Athletics.

OXFORD, England, April 28.—The athletic authorities of the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge have not yet received a formal invitation from the Universities of Harvard and Yale to participate in a track meet at the Harvard Stadium in June or July this year. The Secretary of the Oxford University Athletic Union, however, expressed the opinion to-day that it would be impossible to send a team from the English universities in June, as the examinations would be then in progress, while the month of July would, he thought, be too hot.

No action will be taken by the English universities on the invitation to take part in the American Olympic games at Chicago, from June 28 to July 6, until the Harvard-Yale matter has been settled.

"PRO" RACQUET MATCH.

Standing and Soutar to Play Latham and Williams Here.

The local racquet season will close at the New York Racquet and Tennis Club Tuesday, May 6, when a four-handed professional match will be played between George Standing of New York and Jock Soutar of Philadelphia and Peter Latham and Charles Williams of London. This will be the first four-handed professional racquet match played in New York in several years, and probably will be the most important ever contested in this country.

It will follow the second half of the Soutar-Williams match for the world's professional championship at Philadelphia on Saturday. Should Soutar win the match the four-handed contest will bring together one world's champion and three former world's champions. Latham is in this country coaching Williams, while Standing has been a frequent visitor to Philadelphia aiding in the final preparation of Soutar.

HARLEM OARSMEN LOSE THEIR PROTEST

National Association Ignores Their Plea for No Conflicting Regatta in May.

The granting of the sanction to the American Rowing Association for its regatta on the Schuylkill May 31 by the National Association of Oarsmen of America, which fact was exploited last night at the special session of the Regatta Committee of the Harlem Regatta Association, held last night in the New York Athletic Club, despite the protest of the New York oarsmen, was the medium which caused excitement and indignation when the news was made known.

Many of the members of the clubs of the local association proposed to have a resolution drawn to be presented to the N. A. A. O. declaring their state of mind against the parent body for granting such a date to the Philadelphia oarsmen, as it will conflict with the Harlem regatta on Decoration Day and preclude any entries being made from Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington clubs.

Action to this end was deferred, however, when it was pointed out that last night's session was only a meeting of the Regatta Committee, but the matter will be brought up next Monday night at a regular meeting of the Harlem Association.

It was pointed out that the Harlem Association has in its ranks fourteen clubs, all members in good standing of the N. A. A. O., whereas the American Rowing Association is not in any way affiliated. It was further stated that the latter body was formed for the purpose of breaking the N. A. A. O., and that the notices sent out by the American Rowing Association intimated that that body did not care whether they received a sanction or not.

It was also said that the mater of sanction to the Philadelphians was won by them by a margin of one vote. As a form of reprisal the local rowing committee omitted having among its officials for Memorial Day any Philadelphia or Baltimore men, and afterward appointed Dr. William McGrath, Union Boat Club, Boston, as referee. Efforts will be made to get the Middle States regatta for the Harlem River in September, and as twenty-three of the thirty-nine clubs in the association are located in the metropolitan district the local oarsmen feel assured of success.

COLUMBIA IN NEW SHELL.

'Varsity Crew Tests Ward Boat, Which Is Very Satisfactory.

Jim Rice, coach of the Columbia crews, sent out the 'Varsity eight in their new shell yesterday, and after getting accustomed to the change the sweepswingers sent it along at a fast clip. Both the oarsmen and coach seem pleased with this new boat, which was built by Ward, the Edgewater boatbuilder, and pronounced it the best they have ever used.

The boat is modeled after the Sims shell, which was imported from the English builder. It is four feet longer than the ordinary shell, but about the same length as the English boats to which the Columbia oarsmen have become accustomed. The shell is also wider and lower than the average American boat. Jim Rice supplied Ward with the measurements that he wanted and followed carefully the entire construction of the boat, which is built especially for the eight men now composing the 'Varsity crew.

Contrary to the custom of former seasons, Coach Rice will not wait until the training at Poughkeepsie to break the men into the new boat. He plans to use it regularly from now on in the practice, in this way getting the men fully accustomed to it by the time they start up the Hudson for the final month of practice.

Brooklyn Billiard Tournament.

Harry Millwood, playing at 27 points, defeated James Cosgrove, who was handicapped at 25 points, in the opening game of the Class B amateur handicap three-cushion carom billiard tournament at Keeney's Billiard Academy in Brooklyn last night by the score of 27 to 21 in seventy-five innings. The winner made a high run of four points and Cosgrove's best run was two.

Welsh Beats Ketchell.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., April 28.—In a ten-round bout here to-night Freddie Welsh, lightweight champion of England, easily outpointed Al Ketchell of this city. At no time did Ketchell have an advantage over his opponent.

Kolehmainen's Fast Trial.

Willie Kolehmainen, the professional foot-running champion of the world, who is favorite for the fifteen-mile race to be held next Sunday afternoon under the auspices of the Monument Club at Celtic Park, did a fast bit of running yesterday afternoon on the Irish-American A. C. track, when he covered ten miles on a slow track in 53 minutes 12 seconds. The three Canadian runners who are to take part in the event—A. E. Wood, last year's winner; Tom Longboat, the Indian, and Fred Meadows of Guelph—are expected to arrive in New York to-morrow to finish their training for the race at Celtic Park.

YALE LOSES ATHLETES.

Harbison Ill, Oler Hurt, and Stewart Stops Training.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 28.—Hugh Harbison of the Yale track team feels in the worst luck of any Yale athlete recently for he has lost his chance to win intercollegiate honors for the second time in a year. Last Fall he had been picked for guard on the Yale eleven when an injury sent him to the hospital for the season. He missed both the Harvard and Princeton games.

Harbison was Yale's best weight hurdler, with one exception, and was needed for the track team in the three intercollegiate and dual meets which begin next week. He has just been attacked with rheumatic fever and will probably be unable to leave the infirmary again this season.

Wesley Oler, the Olympic champion in the high jump, has left the Yale track squad because of a slight injury to his leg. He was recently chosen captain of the freshman track team. Oler is one of the best high jumpers in America. It is not believed that he will be used in either the dual class meets of the freshmen against Harvard or Princeton.

Another Yale track athlete who is lost to the team is Jack Stewart, the middle distance runner. Because of some complication he has stopped training. Yale is in need of runners and his loss will be felt in the dual meets with Harvard and Princeton.

Athlete Weber in Form.

W. A. Weber was the all-star performer last night at the bi-monthly games of the West Side Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association, held in the gymnasium in West Fifty-seventh Street, with two firsts and a second in races which ranged from twenty yards to half a mile. The event at twenty yards was a scratch affair, and after getting away from the gun none too well, [illegible] was beaten by inches when E. McCormick breasted the tape in three seconds. The summary:

20-Yard Dash, Scratch.—Won by E. McCormick; W. A. Weber, second; E. Wiet, third. Time—0:03.

300-Yard Run, Handicap.—Won by W. A. Weber, scratch; G. Marra, 5 yards, second; J. Summers, 4 yards, third. Time—0:36 2-5.

600-Yard Run, Novice.—Won by T. Andrada; J. Grada, second; J. Summers, third. Time—1:28 2-5.

880-Yard Run, Handicap.—Won by W. A. Weber, 25 yards; A. H. Dolder, scratch, second; J. Norton, 50 yards, third. Time—2:04 1-5.

One-and-One-Half-Mile Run, Handicap.—Won by J. Franklin, 45 yards; H. F. Ives, scratch, second; H. Hendrickson, 90 yards, third. Time—7:18 2-5.

Half-Mile Relay, Scratch.—Won by J. Andrada, C. Spangenberg, G. Marra, H. F. Ives, and A. H. Dolder. Time—1:48.

23d Street Y. M. C. A. Gymnastics.

The Twenty-third Street Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association last night held its annual Spring gymnastic exhibition. The all-around gymnastic championship was won by A. Paret, whose work was admirably performed. The results:

[illegible] work.—D. White, 51 points, first; A. Paret, 47¾ points, second; M. Brunel, 42 points, third.

Parallel Bars.—D. White, 51½ points, first; A. Paret, 50¾ points, second; A. Wiaceh, 49 points, third.

Horizontal Bar.—A. Paret, 51½ points, first; M. Brunel, 51 points, second; A. Wiaceh, 48 points, third.

All-Around Championship.—A. Paret, 150½ points, first; D. White, 142¼ points, second; M. Brunel, 141¼ points, third.

Meadow Brook Handicap Weights.

Weights for the handicaps to be run on the first day of the meeting of the Meadow Brook Steeplechase Association at Belmont Park Terminal to-morrow, as assigned by the handicapper, Frank J. Bryan, are as follows:

Mytton Handicap for Hacks and Hunters, One and a Quarter Miles.—Eadbald, 160 pounds; Nosegay, 160; Speculator, 154; Zellwood, 153, and Varuna, 148.

Hammer-Throw in Stadium Cage.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 28.—The hammer throw in the intercollegiate track and field meet to be held here on May 30 and 31 will take place inside the Harvard Stadium instead of outside, as in former years, it was announced to-night. In order to avoid any danger to spectators the event will be held in a specially constructed cage.

PAUL JONES TO RACE KIVIAT AND TABER

Mile Run in Cambridge Expected to be Fastest Ever Stepped by Footrunners.

Boston sportsmen are very keen over the desire on the part of some athletic enthusiasts to stage a footrace in the Harvard Stadium which would probably result in the greatest pedestrian event ever held in the world between amateurs. Realizing that the stadium is an exceptionally fast cinder path and that almost perfect conditions exist within the inclosure in June, arrangements are being made to make the event a certainty.

It is stated that Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston, in combination with others interested in the furtherance of athletics in the Hub, has almost consummated a deal which will warrant a race of one mile between John Paul Jones of Cornell, the holder of the world's amateur record of 4:15 2-5 for the distance; Abel Kiviat, Irish-American A. C., whose mark is 4:15 3-5, and Norman S. Taber of Brown University, who almost dead-heated Kiviat in the 1,500-meter race at the Olympic games in Stockholm, in which event he incidentally beat Jones.

Still another entrant may be added to the trio named, who are probably the fastest runners in the world at the distance, in the person of A. N. S. Jackson of Oxford University, the man who showed the Americans the way in the 1,500-meter race at the world's championships, which he won in 3:56 4-5, making an Olympic record.

It may be that Jackson will be able to become a starter in the four-sided race, which is to be carded for the purpose of giving the men an opportunity to break the long existing record for the distance of 4:12¾, made by W. G. George of England in his memorable match against William Cummings for the professional championship of the world.

Overtures made to the New York Athletic Club to stage the attempt at the record by these men were rejected by the Winged Foot organization, so that the chances of New Yorkers witnessing the race of the century are practically nil. It is the idea of close followers of the game that either Jones or Kiviat, in a race such as is being arranged, will do it in 4:10.

The recent running of both men appears to be sufficient guarantee that the amateur record will be eclipsed, as several times during the Winter season each has beaten 4:20 on tracks not calculated to get the best running out of them. It was on the Cambridge track that Jones made his 4:15 2-5 in 1911, while at the Olympic tryouts last year Kiviat, after being run bang up to the tape in a 1,500-meter race by Taber, in which he hung up a world's record of 3:55 4-5, continued on to the mile, doing it in 4:15 3-5.

Both men run exceptionally fast halves, but Jones is probably better over a longer distance than the sturdy Irish-American lad, in view of his showing in several of the intercollegiate cross-country championships, in which he won the individual title for three straight years, 1910, 1911, and 1912.

Want State F. A. M. Convention.

Twelve men and one woman, including State Chairman J. A. Hall, discussed a plan last night at the Pulitzer Building to organize a New York State Convention of the Federation of American Motorists July 3, 4, and 5, and incidentally listened to a severe arraignment of the official acts of the F. A. M. officers by former State Commissioner Morton, who was deposed from his position by the present F. A. M. administration. He accused President Patterson of working for his own re-election and predicted a split in the F. A. M. ranks in the event of the election of a Western man to the Presidency at the National Convention to be held in Denver July 30 and 31 and Aug. 1. It was proposed to hold a special meet in Brooklyn on Labor Day to mark the tenth anniversary of the organization of the F. A. M. in that city.

The Last Word in Shock Absorbers

The New Automatic Truffault-Hartford Shock Absorber represents what makers have been striving for since shock absorbers became a necessity. This new type operates on the same principle of frictional absorption which has made the name Truffault-Hartford famous. It is self-adjusting and supplies the right degree of friction necessary for every change in road conditions. Easily regulated, without removing from car. Come and see it at our branch.

THE GOVERNOR'S PRIMARY BILL.

We could wish that Gov. SULZER in his fight against Tammany had a better issue than his Direct Primary bill. On general principles Tammany should be fought, and half a dozen causes of battle might be chosen which would win for the assailant the sympathy and support of all good men. But good men are not united in support of the Governor's primary bill. Many men of right impulses, sound judgment, and public spirit deplore the changes it would make in our electoral machinery.

Take the nomination of Judges by primaries, for instance. The bill provides that officers to be voted for at the general November election shall be nominated at the Fall primaries, held on the seventh Tuesday preceding the general election. The judiciary candidates to be thus named would be Judges of the Court of Appeals, Justices of the Supreme Court, and County Judges. Will Gov. SULZER or any other man of candor and information give some convincing reasons for the belief that an able, learned, and independent judiciary can be got in this fashion? What competence has a primary to pass upon the qualifications of candidates for the bench? It makes little difference how the names are originally "designated" for consideration by the primaries, for it does not require the gift of prophecy to foresee that ultimately, and very likely from the beginning, the privilege of choosing would be lodged where it is now, in the gentlemen who make politics their business. In this judicial district Tammany does sometimes have the grace to give weight to the opinion of the Bar Association. Party committees and party primaries under the Sulzer bill might or might not take the advice of persons acquainted with the leading members of the bar. We delude ourselves with the fiction that we have an elective judiciary. In truth, our Judges, in this district at least, are appointed, appointed by Mr. MURPHY. We are convinced that his power of appointment would by no means be taken from him under the provisions of Mr. SULZER's bill.

Yet the Governor almost brandishes his fist at the Legislature, and threatens it with the inconveniences of an extra session if it does not pass the primary bill before the day fixed for adjournment, Friday next. The primary issue is not a good cause for such a warfare. Besides, it is for the public interest that the Legislature should adjourn and disperse at the earliest possible moment. The record of evil bills and "fool bills" which it has passed or is in a way to pass is already very long.

THE DUAL SUBWAY STATION AT FORTY-SECOND STREET.

The Real Estate Record and Guide hears with pleasure that "certain "members of the Public Service Com-"mission, including the Chairman," favor the placing of an express station of the dual subway on Broadway at Forty-second Street, instead of Forty-eighth. An express station at the latter street, The Record thinks, would not in the least lessen the congestion at Forty-second Street, but would rather increase it. The argument is that the traffic of the city's amusement centre would go there anyway, and that placing obstructions in the way of its getting there would make matters worse. The immensity of the traffic and the difficulty of providing for it are the asserted reasons for avoiding the task. They are rather reasons for attacking it, by facilitating the flow of travel instead of obstructing it.

The Record's arguments are sound, but we have preferred to take the same position on grounds of relations between the boroughs rather than of accommodation of theatregoers. Brooklyn has responded to this appeal, but the other boroughs are allowing the question to pass as a matter of interest to Manhattan chiefly. Is there nobody in Queens who wants to "ride express" to where most passengers want to go, and who would resent being compelled to change cars and to go out of the direct way either north or south? Both the dual subway and the Forty-second Street tunnel riders are interested in being able to get an express train north or south at Forty-second Street.

The interest and convenience of the Bronxites are less direct, but not negligible. The day will come when even Richmond will feel the inconvenience of the Forty-eighth Street station, which it now is silent about. We are far from dissenting from The Record's argument and learn with pleasure that it hears of a plan for meeting the technical difficulties about placing the Forty-second Street station where it ought to be. At the same time we would prefer to see the subject treated as one of interest to every locality in any borough reached by the dual subway routes, rather than as a matter of interest to any street corner.

MURDER THEIR NEW BOAST.

Unless the British suffragists of the Pankhurst contingent are merely boasting, murder is to be one of their forms of advertising their cause in the near future. They declare that the house in which Mrs. PANKHURST is now living is barricaded and fortified, and that, if the police attempt to rearrest their leader, and take her back to Holloway Jail to serve the remainder of her sentence, they will have such a reception as the police had when they tried to arrest the Houndsditch Anarchists two years ago last January. Those Anarchists were murderers.

It will be well if the suffragist agitation is brought quickly to a crisis. The Government has been very lenient with inciters of violence and destroyers of public and private property. But the public is losing its temper. If the female Anarchists kill a policeman or two we shall be sorry for the policemen and their afflicted families, but it may turn out to be a good thing for Great Britain, and indirectly for the maintenance of law and order throughout the world. Surely even the placid Home Secretary will not countenance the silly hunger strike and forcible feeding business in the case of murderers.

THE CALIFORNIA SQUABBLE.

We hope our Japanese friends have a sufficient sense of humor to enjoy the ridiculous aspects of the question of alien ownership of land in California in the phase it has now entered. Certain political agitators in Japan have betrayed some excitement, real or simulated, over the California land bills, but the Japanese Government and its officers and agents in responsible places have shown a moderation and wisdom in their relation to the matter that have been highly commendable and now find their reward. For the contest over the land bills has degenerated into a vulgar political squabble between parties or factions having no higher motive than a desire to gain an advantage over their rivals. Of principle there is hardly a trace in the proceedings, and from such beginning it is highly unlikely that any result calling for serious consideration will emerge.

It is of fortunate augury that Representative SISSON of Mississippi, described as a radical State rights Democrat, is for war. "If we must have "war or submit to this indignity, I "am for war," he says. When SISSON is for war, it may be assumed as certain that the rest of the country is in a mood so peaceful that by comparison the sucking dove is made to seem boisterous. Public opinion, although it has been a little slow to act in this matter, is now finding expression, and there is general and severe condemnation of the spirit underlying the California Legislature's bills. There is, moreover, a strong feeling of disgust at the political manoeuvring for position in California and elsewhere by some of those who have come to the support of the measures. A good deal of unnecessary fuss has been made about them, but the ultimate effect may be salutary.

Consideration of the actual facts of Japanese ownership of land and of the Japanese population in California makes it entirely clear that the bills were uncalled for, that there was no ground of self-protection upon which their introduction into the Legislature could be based. They were brought forward to serve the interests of that part of the California public which is responsible for the recklessness of trades-union agitation in that unfortunate State, and they have deserved attention only because of the possible consequences of their enactment. From present appearances the only consequence of importance will be the discrediting of their authors and supporters.

LABOR'S IMPROVING CONDITION.

With one accord politicians are emphasizing the unrest in industrial circles, and the necessity of overturning society to meet the demands of labor, which otherwise will take what it wants with the strong hand. Yet the State Bureau of Labor gives another version of the facts. Unemployment is "decidedly less" than last year in the principal groups of trades, the exceptions being the clothing and textile industries. Except for the strike of 125,000 local garment workers the closing quarter of 1912 would have been the best of recent years, with the single exception of 1908.

So far is it from being true that either capital or labor is irreconcilable to the other that out of a dozen mediations nine resulted favorably. But wherever the professional friends of labor intervene the result is otherwise and bad is made worse. The Paterson strike at the moment is an example of this, and gives point to the remark of State Commissioner SHERMAN: "It is only to "the Industrial Workers of the "World that I look for trouble. I "am in favor of the American Fed-"eration of Labor policy and look "for trouble only where the influ-"ence of the I. W. W. is felt."

The list of trouble makers might be lengthened, but it is well to put on the record how much better is the present outlook for a quiet May Day than it was last year. There was trouble in Paterson then as now, and the Lawrence strike was in progress, with leaders ETTOR and GIOVANNETTI on trial for murder. The engineers' strike was then ahead, and now is behind. A colliers' strike was threatened by representatives of 140,000 unionists, and the United States flag was trampled on in Union Square. However politicians may hate to admit it, the fact is that conditions are better, not worse. It is a happy prospect, and both sides should be cautioned not to mar it by imprudence.

ARMY REFORMS.

The new Secretary of War has taken up his responsibilities with the idea of building upon the foundation left by his predecessor, Mr. STIMSON, and not of tearing down and starting anew. He approves of the reorganization of the army in brigades and divisions, the definite assignment of commanders to the posts they would be called upon to fill in case of war, and the better training of all the officers, even the highest. For this last-named purpose he favors provision by Congress for the assembling each year of at least one army division as a school for war training.

Secretary GARRISON also agrees with Secretary STIMSON in the matter of the ill-placed and superfluous army posts. We no longer need remote posts for protection against Indian uprisings, and too many of the existing posts are retained merely for political reasons. There is no doubt that the efficiency of the army would be greatly increased if the troops could be concentrated at a few large posts, preferably near populous cities, where the cost of their provisioning could be materially decreased. The present scattered condition, the Secretary says, "prevents that practical train-"ing of brigades and divisions and "their commanders and staffs, which "is so essential for war purposes." Of course this argument will not be effective with the people, in and out of Congress, who affect to believe that a standing army serves no practical purpose. But the army is kept up at great expense to the Nation, and there is no reason why it should not be maintained both efficiently and economically.

Secretary GARRISON obviously views the army as it is viewed by the large majority of American citizens, as an institution of which all are justly proud and one which should not be allowed to deteriorate under political influences or false ideas of economy. To illustrate the value of divisional organization and training he directs attention to the facility with which troops, in command of Gen. CARTER, were lately concentrated on the Mexican border in comparison with the clumsy concentration under the old methods two years ago.

MISSOURI AND ITS LAWLESS INSURANCE COMPANIES.

What's the matter with Missouri? Why does it not call the watch together and thank GOD it is rid of the 109 insurance knaves who are banded together in a wicked trust, and have > up to the present time grossly offended against the laws of this State and willfully and flagrantly abused and misused their rights, authority, and franchise, and have willfully and unlawfully assumed and unlawfully and willfully usurped authorities and privileges not granted to said corporations by the law of the State of Missouri.

Why does not the State wash its hands of such rascals, and why does it bring injunction proceedings to compel them to remain in the State which makes them so weary with its laws, and its repeals of laws? The reason is that Missouri imagines that the insurance companies have been making too much money, and wants the insurance companies to remain and insure for smaller premiums. The Attorney General of Missouri asserts that the insurance companies have increased their premiums 250 per cent. within two years, and he rises to champion the people of the State against the extortioners. The insurance companies say that their premiums in 1910 were $8,116,262, and in 1912 were $8,020,983. A 250 per cent. increase would have called for $20,280,655, and if the companies had that sum in their treasuries they might be willing to stay and take a risk of prosecution for felony. The companies say that their losses have increased while their premiums have diminished, and they are willing that the State should have the profits for which the companies are being prosecuted, rather than for infractions of the law.

What can Missouri imagine will be the result of its attempt to compel the insurance companies to remain within the State? The success of the attempt to send 109 Presidents to prison for contempt, or for conspiracy, seems remote, since the point was anticipated, and "each for itself" took the action described as conspiracy. However that may be, and assuming that the 109 Presidents submit to the injunction, what would the harvest be? Can Missouri expect that it can compel even one insurance company to take undesirable risks, or to charge less than profitable rates? Will Missouri pass a law that all the companies shall insure everything, either separately or together? If so, why not try the experiment with the companies which have not withdrawn? They are declining the business resulting from the withdrawal of their competitors, declining some risks altogether, and confining their business to old customers.

Laws compelling corporations to do business are so far a novelty that the experiment of Missouri will be watched with interest. If the State would allow the companies to make profits they would be willing to do business, presumably. It is not necessary that the profits should come out of the pockets of the payers of the premiums. The same result would be attained if the business of insurance were made less risky, by prosecution, not of the companies, but of those who get rich by being burned out. All eyes are on Missouri. If it shall succeed in making corporations do business against their will, there will be many imitators.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Humanity Has Its Complications.

As its next task, and one following naturally upon its previous work for the conservation of child life, the New York Milk Committee is to undertake the scientific examination of 100,000 babies. The purpose has been described, not very happily, as that of "standardizing" children, but it is that only in the sense that the hope of those carrying out the plan is ultimately to reduce as far as may be the number of children who do not come up to standard, physical and mental, and the first step toward this is to find out just the quality of body and mind possessed by the normal or average American child.

The fact that exactly such a child probably does not exist—that probably none is in all respects so endowed and trained as to rank above and below precisely the same number of other children—does not decrease the value of the proposed investigation or make it impracticable. Notwithstanding this fact, there is a possibility of discovering what congeries of characteristics fairly well fits a child for successfully encountering the conditions of American life, and so entitles him to be called a promising specimen of the race.

It has been found that the French tests about which there has been so much talk of late are better in theory than in application here, because of essential differences between French and American children. In other words, normality is a relative, not an absolute, term, and each country must have its own tests. Indeed, in a country as large as this one the chances are that no one series of tests will do for the whole of it. If the same yardstick were everywhere applied, some children might be condemned as "defective," though perfectly well adapted to their environment, while others would be classed as satisfactory or superior in spite of radical inadaptability to their surroundings.

To give an extreme case, a savage, to lead, or even to live, must have capacities without which a civilized man can get along as well as, or better than, if he had them—and it is worth noting that the savage, to be successful, must have, if not greater, at least more diversified talents than suffice in civilization. One must remember, too, that competency in one or several directions often makes up for as many inferiorities in others. Real all-around superiority, if ever to be found, must be so rare that it is far from normal and cannot be demanded by any reasonable standard.

Courtesy Isn't Useless.

A downtown business house has decided that to begin and end its letters with the usual expressions of affection and respect accomplishes no purpose and involves therefore needless expenditures of clerkly time. For these reasons it has ordered the abandonment of the old courtesy phrases, and, in order that its customers may understand the peculiarity of its correspondence, it has caused to be printed at the foot of its letter paper a line announcing the change.

Like action was taken, or at least proposed, a while ago, by the War Department, where it was found that a considerable fraction of every letter consisted of these more or less insincere and meaningless formulae.

There is, of course, an element of the absurd involved in calling people dear who are not dear at all, and professing to be their humble servants when occupancy of that position is neither intended nor expected. That such manifestation of politeness can be overdone is also true, and not improbably departmental custom had led to excess. Still, it is worth something to maintain the established amenities of life, and the pretty phrases may not be as "useless" as they seem to the innovators. They must tend to affect more or less all that goes between address and signature — to soften what might otherwise be asperity and so to keep communication within the limits of the modest and the kind.

To a "Dear Sir," "Yours Respectfully" can hardly do worse than refer to a mistake; he is not likely to call it an attempt at theft or the act of an abandoned villain. And that's something.

A Story in Need of Correction.

In spite of an inclination that is little less than a determination to believe all stories designed to illustrate the intelligence and devotion of dogs, there is difficulty in excluding the suspicion that—well, accuracy, is lacking in one that comes from Buffalo. Its heroes are Major and Spot, described as setters, variety not mentioned, though Spot was presumably a Lavarack or Gordon and Major probably the same, though he may have been Irish. The point is not without significance, since a little more courage can be expected from an Irish than from an English setter, but it must remain in doubt for the present.

Anyway, as the tale is told, the two dogs, in company with JOSEPH GREEN and his sister DOROTHY, were playing around a water-filled stone quarry when the boy fell in. Urged by the girl, the dogs both leaped into the water and went to his assistance. He seized them with the desperate grip of the drowning and so hampered their movements that all three perished.

The first obstacle to belief encountered in reading this narrative lies in the fact that setters are not water dogs, as a class or breed. Some of them, however, are by exception fond of it, and of course, once in, they are all strong swimmers. It may be, therefore, that these dogs did go to the rescue of their imperiled young master, but it is hard indeed to see why, when they found themselves being carried down, they couldn't and didn't elude his grasp. A big dog, when frightened, is an animal not easily held, even on shore, and it seems highly improbable that a drowning boy could hold two of them.

A less touching, but more plausible, theory is that the quarry had steep sides, up which the dogs, tired by previous exertions, could not climb, and so they died. At that, they fully deserve the honorable burial which the bereaved father decreed they should have, for, though they failed, they did what they could. As setters, it is much that they did anything at all in an emergency for which neither their own training nor that of their ancestors had prepared them.

Few know, by the way, that "setter" is a name that antedates the invention of gunpowder. It describes what these dogs did in the days when birds were hunted with nets, but since guns came in the setter has been practically a "pointer" as much as is his smooth-haired and not very close relative.

LETTERS OF CORRECTION.

Reporter Deprecates Squeamishness About Unimportant Details.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Does the fact that I am a reporter on THE TIMES disqualify me from writing to the editor thereof? If not, I fail to commend as a distinct advance in journalism the liberal TIMES policy of publishing letters of correction which the editor receives. Friday night at Cooper Union a mass meeting was held in which the people took a very militant spirit against private charity. Then came Robert W. Hebberd, who has a letter in this morning's TIMES. His speech was a plea to reclaim to the people what the charity worker took away from the people, and to emphasize his point he told in detail how private charity had failed. He said he would prove this by the letters which the charity organizations send out. And he pulled from his pocket a sheaf of such letters.

There is nothing so maddening to a conscientious reporter as to have the experience of working like a horse to get what is consequential, correct, and to reproduce a fair and accurate picture of an occurrence, and then to find that some trivial and wholly inconsequential detail is picked up by a "writer-in" and smeared all over the reporter's achievement. Thus Mr. Hebberd says he read only two letters, and it was reported that he read fifteen. Just as he started with his sheaf of them another man who had spoken left the hall. As he had belabored a lobbyist without naming him, I followed this man out to seek the name of the lobbyist. When I returned Mr. Hebberd was still reading letters. As they were stock, usual letters, hundreds of which are in existence, it did not occur to me carefully to examine my impression that fifteen was a fair guess at the number in his sheaf. In his reading he interpolated remarks and side lines of argument, so he consumed a long time at it, and thus I was fooled on a trivial matter. From this he has deduced careless and inaccurate work as to a consequential matter. His letter is decidedly unfair as to the facts of the meeting. ISAAC RUSSELL.

Life Sentence for Thieves.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Apropos of the Flatbush thieves I would suggest that inasmuch as any thief is a possible murderer, the best remedy is to urge our lawmakers to make housebreaking a crime punishable by a life sentence at hard labor on the State roads. This would almost certainly cure the most confirmed criminal of this class. Now they know that, even if caught, they will only get a few months in jail. REX.

New York, April 25, 1913.

Amusement Centre of the Metropolis

(From the Real Estate Record and Guide.)

It is good news that certain members of the Public Service Commission, including the Chairman, seem to favor the location of the express station of the Broadway subway at Forty-second Street. If any other action is taken a serious mistake will be made, which will be the cause eventually of an immense amount of inconvenience to the public. There is only one argument against such a location of the express station that can be considered sufficient, if true, and that is the argument originally advanced, that the situation of the station at Forty-second Street would involve insuperable difficulties of planning. We understand, however, that this argument is no longer advanced. An entirely practicable plan has been prepared that will provide for the handling of the necessities of all the passengers on the various lines without congestion or inconvenience.

The plan proposes to create an underground plaza at the lower end of Times Square, which will permit the freest possible movement of traffic in every direction, and which will be furnished with an abundance of outlets to every part of the square. An arrangement of this kind does not cause congestion. It relieves congestion by providing a really sufficient safety valve. Of course no arrangement which the subway engineers can make will diminish the concentration of traffic, which necessarily results from the fact that so many thousand people will want to reach or leave destinations in and about Times Square at the same time. A location of the express station six blocks further north will not in the long run appreciably diminish it. The fact will remain that by far the larger number of passengers on the express stations will want to get off at Forty-second Street, rather than Forty-eighth Street, and that all of these people will have to change from an express to a local in order to reach their destination.

Widowed Mother's Need.

New responsibilities and worries that seemed almost too great for her to bear came to a mother of three children at her husband's death. He had suffered from tuberculosis, and their savings had been spent in going from place to place in a vain hope of bettering his health. The expenses following his death reduced his insurance to about one hundred dollars. A place at service with the six-year-old boy was made out of the question by the lad's illness from whooping cough; and her desire to have all the boys with her led her to re-establish her home and attempt its support by sewing. Her health is not equal to the strain. She needs a chance to rest and become accustomed to the new life. One of the boys has been sent to a preventorium to build up his health. She should have $8 a week for the expenses of the home, in addition to what the relatives can give toward the rent. The Charity Organization Society asks for $208 to be spent for their benefit during the next six months.

Gifts may be sent to the office of the society, 105 East Twenty-second Street, and will be acknowledged.

The society acknowledges, with thanks, the following contributions received in response to a previous appeal in THE TIMES: "W. E. S.," $1; Mrs. I. B. Jackson, $2; "Anonymous," $15; "M. S.," $2; "M. E. M.," $2; "R. S. S.," $1; William Flanagan, $1; "M. D.," $1; "Montclair," $1; "H. B.," $1; "A. E. W.," $1; "G. K.," $1; William Elliott, $2, and A. T. Wilson, $1.

TRANSATLANTIC FLIGHT

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The present "fatal month" in aviation only emphasizes the fact that optimistic prizes for transatlantic flights by hydroaeroplanes are purely romantic. Spectacular flying has such a hold on popular fancy that we attribute to the aeroplane magic powers far beyond our present understanding of that machine. But technicians who really know the mathematics of the aeroplane realize that great size and absolute safety, inseparable from such a feat, demand reinventing the aeroplane. Its real magic—that it can go anywhere it pleases, unfettered by fences and "good roads"—loses its entire significance over the vast, free expanse of the ocean.

Count de Lambert and some experts see this. At sea, the aeroplane's only advantage is greater speed, which unfortunately is linked with short range of action in any small, fast craft, because it must carry exceedingly high power; and its operators undergo a strain far greater than on any land or water vehicle. Even birds, whose instinctive use of the winds alone enables them still far to outstrip the aeroplane's speed and endurance, could not fly across the Atlantic without getting food from the sea and rest on the water.

The notion that a hydroaeroplane can refuel from passing vessels is short-sighted. The few experts on sea navigation who comprehend the difficulties of fixing longitude and latitude in air-currents having a translocation or drift twice as rapid as sea currents understand why an aeroplane's nautical position cannot be reckoned with sufficient exactness to insure meeting vessels. For instance, a disabled hydroaeroplane, even though it could wirelessly give its exact astronomical position before it drops on the ocean, will be miles away from that reckoning when it reaches the surface of the sea. Apart from this consideration, it cannot interrupt its voyage in midocean unless the sea is as calm as a harbor. Actual experience settles that point. The German Navy's big load-carrying hydroaeroplanes have already demonstrated that in the least seaway they sink deeper and lose the poise to rise again. Ordinary rough waves wreck them. Their unwieldy "spars and sails" on a tiny boat hull are not feasible even in the North Sea. Consequently, these heavy machines will only be used near the coasts. Once down, in midocean, a hydroaeroplane is a tiny speck in immensity, with less chance of being picked up than a drifting lifeboat, since it will be wrecked if it attempts to make headway among the waves. Any ordinary ocean breeze will push it over on one side and inevitably sink it.

Prof. Alexander Graham Bell is right when he demands that the trip must be made in one spurt. But the chance that any aeroplane motor in sight will work at full speed for forty, not to mention sixty, hours is not greater than the chance of a calm sea all the way across. No motor within our ken will stand up under such a spurt. A mammoth machine, with fuel for the whole distance, several pilots taking their turn at the wheel, and others constantly reckoning her position, will have a fair chance—if the motors hold out.

With the present limit of resources, transatlantic prizes are about as logical as it would have been to induce Fulton's Clermont to attempt what only the Mauretania could have won. Let us hope that under the stimulus of Lord Northcliffe's recent prize those makers and pilots who have already "entered" their machines are more in earnest than the nature of the task permits many of us to believe. For then we will at least get, not an ocean-crossing, but a safe, practical, everyday aeroplane that can accomplish more modest yet more, infinitely more, useful work.

SOCIALISTS AND SUFFRAGE.

Said to Fear Votes for Women Would Hinder Their Cause.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The general strike which the Socialists have just engineered in Belgium was for manhood suffrage, not for manhood and womanhood suffrage. In this country the anti-suffragists, in their official organ and in their letters to the press, continually tell us that all Socialists are suffragists, and urge everybody to oppose equal suffrage on the ground that it would hasten the coming of Socialism. All Socialists are theoretical suffragists, but many of them are practical anti-suffragists, and vote against it, because they believe that equal suffrage would delay the coming of Socialism. In Belgium several years ago the Socialist Party deliberately decided not to ask votes for women, because they were convinced that the majority of women would vote against Socialism.

In this country the Socialists are divided, part of them voting for suffrage because it is just and is part of their programme, the others voting against it because they believe it would delay the triumph of their party. In Milwaukee last Fall, Socialist wards which gave a large majority for Victor Berger gave a majority of two and three to one against equal suffrage.

In this respect the Socialists are no worse than the other parties, and perhaps not quite as bad. In Pennsylvania, this year, both Republicans and Democrats who had been elected to the Legislature on platforms containing a suffrage plank voted against suffrage. So did many Democrats in Massachusetts. C. L. F.

THE NEGRO'S PROGRESS

Is in Other Fields Than Politics and Officeholding.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

THE TIMES says editorially that the colored people "of the United States are doing very well. * * * they have become a law-abiding and industrious race, and their interests are not centred in politics or office-holding."

Thanks to the wise leadership of Drs. W. E. Burghardt Du Bois, W. T. B. Williams, William A. Atkins, William C. McNeill, William S. Scarborough, Lewis B. Moore, Profs. William H. Holtzclaw, H. A. Hunt, Joseph L. Wiley, and others too numerous to mention, we are making much progress along the lines of education, sanitation, literature, finance, business of many kinds, agriculture, social and economic avenues. Our greatest men are not Federal office holders by any means, as the records of the race will attest.

Sensible and worthy colored men will ignore the great clamor of the office seekers, just as President Wilson and his Cabinet will ignore them. There are plenty of opportunities for colored artisans, physicians, barristers, agriculturists, teachers, educators, preachers, stenographers, and in business and general labor. Let us become proficient and efficient in these avenues of activity and political offices will seek us in time. W. P. M.

POST SUFFRAGE.

When the last of the Hikers has hiked it;
When the vote is quite sexless and stale;
When the last of the Hungry has striked it,
When gone are both jailer and jail;

When the militant women have melted,
When their vote has been captured and cast;
When no more they are punished nor pelted—
PERHAPS—we'll have quiet at last.

When at breakfast we pick up our papers,
And read not of bomb nor parade,
When all of your militant capers
Are gone like a passing charade—

Dear Women, with what new invention
Will you worry the public then?
And will ever the slightest attention
Be paid to long-suffering men?

FULTON CONTRACT SOLD.

$475 for Document Transferring First Steamboats—Corson Items.

At the sale of the library of the late Hiram Corson, Professor of English Literature in Cornell University, together with other properties, by the Merwin Company, yesterday, $475 was paid by Dodd & Livingston for the original manuscript agreement between the executors of Robert Fulton and Cadwalader D. Colden and others, conveying to the latter an interest in four steamboats and a proportionate share in the exclusive rights to navigate the waters of New York State. The manuscript, which is in a fine state of preservation, is neatly written on seventeen pages of a folio volume and is dated 1815.

A letter of John Wilkes Booth, Philadelphia, Aug. 3, 1862, to V. Butsch, regarding a theatrical engagement, was knocked down to Mr. Herpic for $28. Gabriel Weis paid $116 for an original edition of Sir Richard F. Burton's translation of the "Arabian Nights." Mr. Weber gave $21 for the earliest published form of Lewis Carroll's "Alice's Adventures in Wonderland," small octavo, New York, 1866. It is a greater rarity than the issue, generally misnamed the first edition, which was published in London the same year.

For an extra illustrated copy of "Samuel Taylor Coleridge and the English Romantic School," London, 1887, Mr. Dillingham paid $42. The original manuscript Record Book of the Minutes of the New England Presbyterian Synod, 1745-54 and 1760-83, was sold on order for $51. Mr. Dillingham gave $46 for a large paper copy of Daniel Defoe's "Adventures of Robinson Crusoe," extra illustrated, London, 1820.

"The Mouse Trap; or, The Battle of the Cambrians and Mice. A Poem Translated into English by R. Lewis," small octavo, Annapolis, Md., 1728, went to the Library of Congress for $31. Only one other copy is known, and that is in the Maryland Historical Society. Gabriel Weis paid $22.50 for a first edition of Pierce Egan's "Real Life in London" and Mr. Hartranft gave $27 for a first edition of the same author's "Life in London," in binding by Riviere.

Dodd & Livingston paid $16.10 for a long letter by Mary Lincoln, widow of Abraham Lincoln, Frankfort, Dec. 29, 1869, in which she says that "Taddie's dark brown eyes watching over me remind me so much of his dearly beloved father's." Another letter of Mrs. Lincoln, Frankfort, Feb. 11, 1870, was sold on order for $18.

The total was $3,168. The sale will be ended to-day.

$200,000 FOR CANCER STUDY

Henry Rutherford Leaves That Sum to Rockefeller Institute.

The Rockefeller Institute of Medical Research is to receive a bequest of $200,000 under the will of Henry Rutherford, who died at the Hotel Astor on Feb. 25. The will, which was filed for probate yesterday in the Surrogates' Court, makes specific bequests of more than $500,000.

Mr. Rutherford's home was at Grand Isle, Vt., but he spent most of his time traveling. He was a son of James Rutherford, from whom he inherited a large fortune. The petition states that he had no realty in New York State, and no indication of the value of the personalty is given.

The bequest to the Rockefeller Institute is to be used, according to the terms of the will, "to investigate into the causes and nature of cancer, and methods of its prevention and treatment." The income from $200,000 is to be used for this purpose.

Charles K. Phipard of 739 Putnam Avenue, Brooklyn, is to receive $100,000 "in kind remembrance for many services rendered me, and as a token of friendship." Lydia Pearsall Steel, wife of Dr. George D. Steel, and Elizabeth Clark Pearsall, both of whom live at 256 West Seventy-ninth Street, are to receive $50,000 each. Mary P. Nicholson of Philadelphia is to receive a life income of $1,200. Thomas W. Rutherford, whose relation to the testator is not indicated, gets $50,000.

The residue of the estate is to be divided among the children of the deceased brothers and sisters of the testator's father, James Rutherford. The petition says that "it is impossible at this time to give the names and places of residence of the legatees under this clause." The petition shows that there are fifty-eight cousins.

CROSS IN TRINITY YARD.

Mrs. Orme Wilson's Gift in Memory of Her Mother, Mrs. William Astor.

The model of the Churchyard Cross to be erected at Old Trinity is being shown this week at the offices of Thomas Nash, the architect, who designed it. The cross is presented by Mrs. Orme Wilson in memory of her mother, Mrs. William Astor, who was long a communicant of Trinity Church. The memorial will be built of limestone, with a granite base, and will be about thirty-six feet high. Work on it has already begun.

It is said that the cross compares favorably with the finest works of similar art in the older lands. In the twelve niches in the shaft are the figures of Adam and Eve, Seth, Enoch, Noah, Shem, Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, Judah, Ruth, Jesse, David, and the Virgin Mary, the whole structure culminating in the crucifix. On the base of the monument will be the text from the First Corinthians: "The first man Adam was made a living soul, the last Adam was made a quickening spirit."

Dr. Manning, rector of Old Trinity, thus describes it:

"It is especially appropriate and significant that so striking a witness to the Christian religion should be lifted up in the midst of the dense crowds and the great business interests gathered in the lower part of this city."

CLASS HONORS FOR SHIBLEY

Columbia Seniors Select Him as the Most Deserving of His Class.

Gerald Spencer Shibley was declared yesterday at Columbia "the most faithful and deserving member of the graduating class" at a meeting of the seniors, to choose from five students, nominated by the Faculty, to compete for the Alumni Association prize. This prize carried with it in addition to the honor $50, and was established in 1858.

Shibley has played for two years on the 'Varsity baseball team, and has been prominent in all undergraduate activities. In addition, his scholarship has been exceptionally high. He is now enrolled in the Medical School, although he does not get his college degree until June.

The conditions of the prize are that five members of a graduating class be selected by the Faculty for a scholarship, and from these five the class selects the one whom it deems has most faithfully represented the university. The other candidates nominated by the Faculty were G. F. Butterworth, Jr., P. Moon, H. V. Shelley, and J. B. Wilson.

KINDERGARTNERS GATHER.

International Convention to Meet in Washington To-day.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Teachers of children from the English-speaking countries of the world are arriving here for the twentieth annual convention of the International Kindergarten Union. Miss Mabel S. McKinney, of Brooklyn, President of the union, and Miss Alice Temple, of Chicago, its Vice President, are already here. President and Mrs. Wilson will receive the delegates at the White House on Wednesday afternoon.

The convention will open formally tomorrow in the National Museum, and sessions will be held each day and evening until Friday. Child teachers of National reputation, including Miss Julia C. Lathrop, head of the Federal Children's Bureau, will be among the speakers. On Saturday the delegates will visit Mount Vernon, and luncheon will be served by the Kindergarten Association of Baltimore.

ADONISES APLENTY FOR SUFFRAGE SHOW

Scores of Volunteers Write to Say They Are "Perfect Men" and Should Be in Pageant.

NAMES OF CHOSEN HIDDEN

Their Modesty Prevents Revelation of Their Identity—Applicants Revel in Their Height.

The forty-nine Adonises who are to appear in the big woman suffrage pageant at the Metropolitan Opera House on Friday evening as a setting for the maiden suffrage speech of Col. Theodore Roosevelt are all ready to stand up and be counted, yet still recruits volunteer.

"Perfect" men, it was announced, the organizers of the pageant needed, and they have been astounded by the numbers who have demanded a place in the show on the strength of their self-confessed qualifications. Only it seems they have mixed their Biblical and mythological lore and have identified Adonis with Samson.

Interest at first centred in the many beautiful women who will be seen in the tableaux, but they were so easy to find and so willing to have their names used that they soon ceased to be a problem. Even the glory of having Mme. Nordica as Columbia singing the National airs has paled before the difficulty of overcoming the diffidence of beautiful young men warranted to be able to wear classic costume without causing a tremor in the sensitive eyes of an artistic audience.

This is the way they did it. Not one of the forty-nine names of the beautiful young men is to be published—not even on the programme. They are and will remain forty-nine mysteries. Mrs. Raymond Brown, who has charge of this part of the programme, has promised it.

This is the reason: That while the forty-nine masculine adjuncts to the pageant have been secured, letters from would-be adjuncts are still flooding the Woman Suffrage Party Headquarters. Most of the applicants seem to think that as long as they are tall nothing else matters, and so they are very particular to specify their height, from 6 feet to 6 feet 6 inches in their stockings at the very least. Here is what one of them says:

> I have the honor to inform you that I am willing to attend those meetings. I am decent Dutch, 30 years, stout build, fair complexion, well educated, well mannered. * * * I am a strong advocate of the rights of the women who has the same rights as the men. I am a convinced believer in the Holy Rights of every woman. My height is rather tall—six feet, six inches, broad, in very good harmony built. I do trust you will consider.

This is from a man who has been in this country only a few weeks and is ready to help the American women.

Another man of the Samson type announces that he is six feet one and one-half inches tall, has a chest of 44, and a waist of 38 inches, and was for a long time a non-commissioned officer in the army. In conclusion, he qualifies his perfections by saying:

> Of course, as regards facial appearance I do not know whether I am the type you desire, but if you wish I could call.

This is from another:

> I am a young man, unusually well built, considered handsome among my lady friends—excuse me this flattery. I am 21 years old, 6 feet tall in stocking feet, weigh 185 pounds, complexion fair.

Another, who gets the date of the pageant a little mixed, says:

> I am a handsome, good fellow of 21; would like to fill an application to pose and march with women's suffragists on May 20. Am a great believer in women's suffragists and hope to see them win in the future.

Still another big fellow writes:

> Believing that I reach all the qualifications for the ideal man, as specified, I take the liberty to write. I am 6 feet 3 inches, weigh 212 pounds, broad shoulders, chest measurement 46, waist 35.

A young seaman, who was born in the Black Forest in Germany and spent his childhood in Switzerland, says that his outdoor life has made him fit for the contest, and adds that he needs money, as a sailor makes little. He says:

> Both water and mountain preserved my condition and health first rate, and I am quite sure I may be one of the men your committee is looking for.

Some of the letters come from as far away as Newark. One of these is from the friends of a certain "Mac," and does not hesitate to give his full name and address. But the women who sign it are more particular, and are content to call themselves "Mac's Suffragette Friends." They say:

> Let us offer a candidate for the position of an Adonis in a young man who is well known here in our city, and who is an ardent suffragist. (Then follow the name and address.) Mac claims to be the originator of the most original argument yet offered in favor of the "Cause."
>
> As to fitness for the position we are nominating him for, he is about 6 feet, very symmetrically shaped, small waist, deep chest, and is quite handsome. Some say he knows it, but that may be unkind or jealous. He is well educated, sings beautifully, is a gentleman, and, consequently, is fitted for any company.
>
> Hoping you will consider our candidate, and wishing you success in your undertaking, we remain, sympathetically,
>
> MAC'S SUFFRAGETTE FRIENDS.

The forty-nine Adonises being selected, the committee will not have to call upon any of the various Samsons to fill the bill.

SUFFRAGE COLOR SCHEME

Worked Out in Elaborate Decorations for Carnegie Hall.

Carnegie Hall seats for the Women's Political Union meeting after the parade of May 3 will all be free except the boxes. The decorations of the hall will be elaborate, and will be made under the direction of Mrs. Mary Lowell. The back of the stage will be draped with white, and on this will be a huge laurel wreath, in the centre of which in electric light bulbs will be the words: "Victory in 1915." On the fronts of the boxes will be a big flag in electric lights, ten stars on the field, one for each suffrage State, and the tenth to represent the hoped-for victory for New York State in 1915.

A row of bay trees linked with festoons of laurel will stand at the back of the stage, and primulas and daisies will complete the union's scheme of color—purple, white and green. Women from Norway, Sweden, and Finland, in national costume, will add picturesqueness.

There will be the representatives of the different suffrage organizations on the stage, besides leaders of divisions of the paraders. Miss M. Liscolm, organist of the Fourth Presbyterian Church, will play patriotic airs as the marchers enter the hall. Mrs. Harriot Stanton Blatch will preside. Miss Margaret Foley will be the first speaker. Dean Walter Taylor Sumner, head of the Chicago Vice Commission, will make the principal address.

Penalty Tax on G. H. Morgan Estate

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 28.—The executors of George H. Morgan, who died in New York on April 28, 1911, paid a transfer tax of $37,212 and a penalty of $4,465 to the State Controller to-day. The law provides that if the transfer tax is not paid within eighteen months after death a penalty of 10 per cent. per year from the date of death may be imposed. In the case of the Morgan estate the penalty was fixed by the court at 6 per cent. per annum.

'AMAZONS' IN HAPPY REVIVAL AT EMPIRE

And the Pinero Comedy Continues to be Vital with Youth and Good Humor.

BILLIE BURKE PLEASES

Ferdinand Gottschalk and Fritz Williams Repeat Their Old-Time Successes and Add Greatly to General Merriment.

THE AMAZONS, comedy, by Arthur Wing Pinero. Empire Theatre.

Barrington	Shelley Hull
Galfred	Ferdinand Gottschalk
Andre	Fritz Williams
The Rev. Roger Minchin	Morton Selten
Fitton	Thomas Reynolds
Youatt	Arthur Fitzgerald
Orts	Barrett Barker
Miriam	Annie Esmond
Lady Noeline Belturbet	Miriam Clements
Lady Wilhelmina Belturbet	Dorothy Lane
Lady Thomasin Belturbet	Billie Burke
"Sergeant" Shuter	Lorena Atwood

The abiding charm of Pinero's comedy, "The Amazons," was satisfactorily revealed at the Empire Theatre last evening in a revival which, if it invited memories, was the means also of creating a very considerable amount of immediate amusement. Prominent in the newer cast which now presents the comedy, with Miss Billie Burke as the featured member, it is particularly gratifying to find Mr. Ferdinand Gottschalk not a jot less eccentrically humorous and Mr. Fritz Williams not an iota less volatile and athletically adept than when they both appeared in the first performances of the comedy at the old Lyceum Theatre. And to these two excellent actors a large share of the success of last night's revival may be credited.

Which is by no means to say that the little Titian-haired star does not come in for her share of the glory. There was, indeed, a very natural curiosity upon the part of many people as to how Billie Burke would reveal and disport herself in knickerbockers and the accompanying manners of the more or less sterner sex. Well, to come to Hecuba, it may be said at once that Miss Burke is an eminently pleasing Tommy Belturbet, both as to manner and—ahem. She figures well in the rôle and has the sauciness and arch roguishness to reflect its essentially ingratiating qualities. And, though she will not efface the memory of the then Bessie Tyree's performance, she provides a very satisfying and appealing later substitute. She is particularly happy in the passages of petulent disdain of her older sister's weakness, and if her performance is less definitely suggestive of the effects of her peculiar bringing up it is because Miss Burke's personality seems, generally speaking, of a more soft and clinging kind. Her little song was capitally done.

The play in its entirety seems amazingly fresh and is still vibrant with youth and life. The final scene in the gymnasium, with the ridiculous antics of Tweenways, the recurrent passages of discussion between him and the Count de Grival, the incident of the poacher, the tea party in The Tangle, the intrusion of Viscount Litterly, and the subsequent developments, while they have the plausibility of a fairy tale, are filled with a richness of good humor that is most stimulating and amusing.

Last night's audience was moved to repeated and prolonged laughter, and there can be little doubt that the revival will prove highly popular with the general public. It should most certainly do so.

Such raggedness as was apparent in the general performance, notably in the first act where the tempo was much too slow, will undoubtedly be amended quickly. And the cast though not necessarily ideal is always of average good quality.

As Lady Noeline Miss Miriam Clements, obviously too much flustered to give a good account of herself in the opening scenes, played subsequently with rather good effect, and the lesser figure of Lady Wilhelmina was fairly well done by Dorothy Lane. But why ladies who aim to entertain the public should not acquire such a simple accomplishment as strumming a few chords on the guitar is always one of the mysteries.

Shelley Hull improves steadily, and he played the rôle of the Viscount with a suggested good humor which was admirable and appealing. Morton Selten, Annie Esmond, and Lorena Atwood were others in the cast who helped the general effect. And Thomas Reynolds, who staged the comedy, did good service also in the bit of the gamekeeper. But Mr. Reynolds need not be informed that illusion is increased if teacups and wine glasses are not so obviously empty when people are drinking from them.

POWDER IN SHOES AS WELL AS GUNS

Foot-Ease to Be Added to Equipment of Hospital Corps at Fort Wayne.

Under the above heading the Detroit Free Press, among other things, says: "The theory is that soldiers whose feet are in good condition can walk further and faster than soldiers who have corns and bunions incased in rawhide.

"The Government's foot powder order is regarded as the last word in the scientific outfitting of the defenders of the flag."

Foot powder has long been in use in the German army, and Uncle Sam's adoption of this form of treating and easing the feet is in line with the expressions heard daily for more than twenty years, in all parts of the world, from those who are shaking Allen's Foot-Ease, the antiseptic powder for the feet, into their shoes, as the only practical and lasting treatment for easing and preventing sore feet. It can be obtained from dealers everywhere for 25c. or a trial package will be sent free if you write to Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

MISS BARRYMORE'S PLAY.

Ethel Barrymore apepared yesterday at the Palace Theatre in Richard Harding Davis's "Miss Civilization." The playlet is not new, but Miss Barrymore's performance of it is the first on the professional stage, as far as is known, except when she was seen in it at a benefit. The piece tells the story of a girl alone in a suburban house with an invalid mother, whom burglars visit to their discomfiture. Just after the curtain rises she appears on the stage, and telephones to the yard master of the railroad her father is President of, telling him that burglars are trying to work their way into the house, and that she will hold them if he will rush a train crew there to capture them.

The burglars enter, ransack the house, and are about to leave when she confronts them. She serves them a meal, and carries on a conversation with the leader, succeeding in holding them until the train crew arrives.

Miss Barrymore delighted the audience with her handling of the girl heroine's rôle. It called for the comedy key, and this she supplied, with just a hint of the tense nerves that the suspense of the situation demanded. There was little to do for her supporting company, which included David Torrence, William Horan, Frank McCoy, and Frank Palmer.

Another novelty on the same bill was the appearance of Bessie Clayton in a series of dances, assisted by a company of ten singers and dancers. Miss Clayton's offering was well liked.

MR. HEARST'S TIN WEDDING.

Tenth Anniversary Celebrated at Home on Riverside Drive.

Mr. and Mrs. William Randolph Hearst gave a dance last evening at their home, 137 Riverside Drive, in celebration of their tenth wedding anniversary. The dance was followed by supper served at twelve round tables, in the centre of each of which was a miniature Maypole. The menus were engraved on a thin scroll of tin, with a photograph of Mr. and Mrs. Hearst at the top of the scroll. The entire service for the supper was in tin. The drawing rooms were decorated with orchids and Spring flowers.

Among those present were Speaker and Mrs. Champ Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Elbert H. Gary, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Nixon, Mr. and Mrs. Price McKinney, Mr. and Mrs. George Leary, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Littleton, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Letts, Mr. and Mrs. John Purroy Mitchel, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Clark, Justice James W. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Symington and Miss Hazel Symington will open their cottage at Monmouth Beach on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Fish will spend most of the Summer abroad. Miss Helena Fish, who spent the Winter with her father and stepmother at 8 Fifth Avenue, will spend the Summer with her sister, Mrs. John H. Cutler, on the Massachusetts coast.

Mr. and Mrs. George C. Kobbe and Miss Martha Kobbe have left town to occupy their country place at Short Hills, N. J., until the middle of June.

This afternoon in a private apartment of the Waldorf-Astoria there will be the first of the tea dances of which Mrs. Edith Parsons Morgan, Mrs. Lewis Cass Ledyard, Mrs. Charles Henry Coster, and others are the patronesses.

SIX NOVELTIES FOR OPERA NEXT YEAR

Gatti-Casazza, Sailing, Announces Plans, Which Include a Richard Strauss Opera.

MAY BE "ROSENKAVALIER"

"Madeleine," "Mme. Sans-Gene," "Eugene Onegin," "Julien," and New Italian Work in the List.

Giulio Gatti-Casazza, the general manager of the Metropolitan Opera Company, will sail for Europe to-day on the Kaiser Wilhelm II. Yesterday he announced plans for the company for next season, many of which are new. Among these is mentioned the production of "a Richard Strauss opera." This can be construed to mean a revival of "Salome" or a production of "Der Rosenkavalier," which has yet to be heard on this side of the water. It is known that this work has many warm advocates at the Opera House, among them Alfred Hertz. It is not probable that a production of Strauss's newest work, "Ariadne auf Naxos," is contemplated, as that would necessitate the performance of Molière's "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme," to which it is appended.

Other interesting productions to be made include Tschaikowsky's "Eugene Onegin," which has only been given here in concert form, and the production of which at the opera may be considered as a result of the success of "Boris Godounoff"; Charpentier's "Julien," the sequel to "Louise," which has not yet been produced anywhere; Wolf-Ferrari's "The Jewels of the Madonna," which was produced here by the Chicago Opera Company, and Giordano's "Madame Sans-Gêne," which will be produced at the Metropolitan for the first time on any stage.

"Carmen," which has long been absent from the répertoire at the Metropolitan, is also announced. In the event of its being given it is likely that Geraldine Farrar will be heard for the first time in the title part. The rôle is also in the répertoire of Olive Fremstad, who has sung it here: Emmy Destinn, and Margarete Matzenauer.

There are few Metropolitan singers who are not re-engaged. The most important of those who do not come back are Leo Slezak, Umberto Macnez, and William Hinshaw. Giuseppe Sturani, the Italian conductor, also will not return.

Mr. Gatti-Casazza's statement in its entirety follows:

The general manager of the Metropolitan Opera Company takes this occasion to express his gratification at the brilliant results of the season just closed and his appreciation of the great interest manifested in the opera by the public of New York, whose attendance at the performances has been greater than ever before in the history of the institution. He desires most sincerely to thank Otto H. Kahn, Chairman, and all his associates on the Board of Directors for the unvarying confidence with which they have been pleased to honor him as well as for their moral support and the generous resources which they have placed at the disposition of the management in the interest of the public and of art. He desires further to add a word of praise for all the members of the Metropolitan Opera Company, without distinction, for their earnest and intelligent services in behalf of the institution, and to acknowledge his gratitude to the press of New York for its appreciation and courtesy.

The following artists have been re-engaged:

SOPRANOS.—Frances Alda, Bella Alten, Lucrezia Bori, Anna Case, Louise Cox, Vera Curtis, Emmy Destinn, Geraldine Farrar, Rita Fornia, Olive Fremstad, Johanna Gadski, Frieda Hempel, Alice Nielsen, Bernice de Pasquali, Marie Rappold, Lenora Sparkes, and Rosina Van Dyck.

MEZZO-SOPRANOS AND CONTRALTOS.—Emma Borniggia, Maria Duchene, Louise Homer, Helen Mapleson, Jeanne Maubourg, Marie Mattfeld, Margarete Matzenauer, and Lila Robeson.

TENORS.—Paul Althouse, Pietro Audisio, Angelo Bada, Julius Bayer, Carl Burrian, Enrico Caruso, Austin Hughes, Carl Joern, Riccardo Martin, Lambert Murphy, Albert Reiss, and Jacques Urlus.

BARITONES.—Pasquale Amato, Bernard Begue, Dinh Gilly, Otto Goritz, Antonio Scotti, Vincenzo Reschiglian, and Hermann Weil.

BASSES.—Paolo Ananian, Carl Braun, Adamo Didur, Putnam Griswold, Antonio Pini-Corsi, Marcel Reiner, Giulio Rossi, Leon Rothier, Basyl Ruysdael, Andreas de Segurola, and Herbert Witherspoon.

CONDUCTORS.—Alfred Hertz, Giorgio Polacco, and Arturo Toscanini.

CONDUCTORS AND ASSISTANT CONDUCTORS.—Richard Hageman, Hans Morgenstern, and Adolf Rothmeyer.

ASSISTANT CONDUCTORS.—Frederic Jacoby, Gennaro Papi, Francesco Romei, and Willy Tyroler.

CHORUS MASTERS.—Giulio Setti and Hans Steiner.

TECHNICAL DIRECTOR.—Edward Siedle.

STAGE MANAGER.—Jules Speck.

ASSISTANT STAGE MANAGERS.—Loomis Taylor and Lodovico Viviani.

BALLET MASTERS.—Ettore Coppini and Ottokar Bartik.

PREMIERE DANSEUSE.—Eva Swain.

New artists have been engaged as follows:

MEZZO-SOPRANOS AND CONTRALTOS.—Margarete Ober of the Royal Opera, Berlin, and Sophie Braslau and Lillian Eubank, two young Americans.

TENORS.—Rudolf Berger of the Royal Opera of Berlin and Beireuth, Giovanni Martinelli of Covent Garden, the Scala of Milan, and the Monte Carlo Opera, and Alfred Piccaver, an American, of the Royal Opera of Prague and the Imperial Opera of Vienna.

BARITONE.—Carl Schlegel, a German-American.

The management is negotiating also with several other important artists.

The répertoire of the coming season will include "Madeleine," a one-act opera in English, music by Victor Herbert, book by Grant Stuart, and Umberto Giordano's "Madame Sans-Gêne," which the composer expects to have completed by the Autumn.

Other novelties which are being considered include "L'Amore dei tre Re," a new opera by Italo Montemezzi, based on a tragedy by Sem Benelli, which has been given with success during the recent season at the Scala of Milan; Charpentier's "Julien," if, when produced in Paris and London during the Spring, it proves effective; Tschaikowsky's "Eugene Onegin," and one of Richard Strauss's operas.

Among the revivals being considered are Bizet's "Carmen," Verdi's "Un Ballo in Maschera" and "Falstaff;" Mozart's "Nozze di Figaro," Wolf-Ferrari's "I Giojelli della Madonna" and Flotow's "Marta."

Luncheon for Mrs. Wood.

Mrs. Alexander Rubel and Mrs. Samuel C. Van Dusen, the Chairman of the Auxiliary Board of Chrystie Street Home, gave a luncheon yesterday at the Colony Club for Mrs. Henry Wood and her sister, the Baroness Kretschman, who are leaving to-day for Baltimore. The guests included the members of the Auxiliary Committee, who are Mrs. Stanley W. Dexter, Mrs. Francis H. Griffin, Mrs. James R. McKee, Mrs. G. T. Seabury, Mrs. Leonard D. White, Mrs. Edward McC. Whiting, and the Misses Laura Jay Edwards, Eva Buckingham, Isabel Bicknell, Anne Deas Duane, Isabel Davison, Edna Shethar, Mary R. Jay, and Dorothy Morrison.

OPERA SUCCESS IN ATLANTA

Box Office Receipts Reach $91,000 for Seven Performances.

The Metropolitan Opera Company returned to New York yesterday, after giving a week of opera in Atlanta which 37,000 people attended and which brought into the box office $91,000. Lucrezia Bori, the new Spanish soprano of the company, appeared on the first night of the engagement in Puccini's "Manon Lescaut," and made a success. She was associated with Messrs. Caruso and Scotti.

The other operas given were "La Traviata," in which Frieda Hempel made her first appearance in Atlanta; "Cyrano," the only novelty of the week's season; "Gioconda," "Les Contes d'Hoffmann," "Lucia," and "Tosca," which, with Miss Destinn, and Mr. Caruso in the cast, drew the biggest house of the week.

The Atlanta Music Festival Association, of which Col. Wm. L. Peel is President, and the Capital City Club, of which Robert Maddox is President, entertained the singers at suppers, to which the prominent citizens of Atlanta were invited. The Piedmont Driving Club also entertained the singers.

One day Mr. Caruso sang at the Federal prison, and on another occasion he attended a ball game.

To-day a great many of the singers will sail. On the Kaiser Wilhelm II will go Frances Alda, Emmy Destinn, Geraldine Farrar, Frieda Hempel, Giulio Gatti-Casazza, Arturo Toscanini, Enrico Caruso, Antonio Scotti, Dinh Gilly, Putnam Griswold, Basil Ruysdael, and Giulio Setti. On the Koenig Albert will depart William J. Guard, Antonio Pini-Corsi, Vincenzio Reschiglian, Angelo Bada, Giulio Rossi. Mary Garden and Charles Dalmores will also sail today. Paolo Ananian departs on the Potsdam.

Maria Duchene sails on the Touraine on May 1; Marie Mattfeld on the President Lincoln on May 3; Rita Fornia on the Kaiser Wilhelm on May 6; Richard Hagemann on the Bremen, May 8; Jules Speck and Leon Rothier on the Lorraine on May 9; Jeanne Maubourg on the Kroonland on May 10; Riccardo Martin and Giuseppe Sturani on the Berlin on May 10; Lenora Sparkes on the Caronia on May 10; Johanna Gadski on the George Washington on May 17; Carl Jörn on the Vasari on May 17; Pasquale Amato and Albert Reiss on the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse on May 20; Lucia Fornaroli on the Prinzessin Irene on May 24; Frederick Jacoby on the Oceanic on June 7; Herbert Witherspoon on the Kronprinzessin Cecilie on June 10; Malvina Cavalazzi on the Kronprinzessin Cecilie on July 8, and Olive Fremstad on the George Washington on July 12.

Whether Mme. Alda will make the boat to-day or not, however, is a question. Following her appearance in "Cyrano' in Atlanta, the soprano has been making a short concert tour. Last night she was scheduled to sing in Pittsburgh. Directly after the concert she took a train for New York, which is due to arrive at the Pennsylvania station at 9 o'clock this morning. If it is on time Mme. Alda should reach the North German Lloyd pier at Hoboken a few moments before the Kaiser Wilhelm II starts. If, however, the train should be late, all sorts of complications may arise, involving even the climbing of a ladder from a tug out in the river. At any rate, she will be rushed to Hoboken from the railroad station as fast as an automobile slightly delayed by a ferry boat can carry her.

CHICAGO OPERA PLANS.

Campanini, if Released from Covent Garden, to Engage Future Artists.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., April 28.—Charles G. Dawes, President of the Central Trust Company of Illinois, and one of the Directors of the Chicago Grand Opera Company, left Chicago this afternoon. Mr. Dawes expects to obtain the resignations of all the New York Directors of the Chicago company. It is intended that all stock in the organization be held by Chicagoans, and that its financial connection with New York and Philadelphia stockholders will be closed.

It also is expected that Mr. Dawes will be able to bring back to Chicago a release from the Covent Garden management of Cleofonte Campanini's engagement there this Summer, so that the musical director may begin reorganizing the opera company at once.

It is not known just what artists the new manager may be able to secure. He has the friendship of most of the singers who fell out with former Manager Andreas Dippel, and it is believed Mary Garden, Caroline White, Maggie Teyte, and Luisa Tetrazzini will be re-engaged. Titta Ruffo's contract, it is said, is held personally by Mr. Dippel, and the Chicago company will have to pay a large price to secure his services.

MRS. MARY L. D. DEERE.

Widow of Charles H. Deere Dies at the Plaza After an Operation.

Mrs. Mary Little Dickinson Deere, widow of Charles H. Deere, President of the Deere Manufacturing Company of Moline, Ill., died at the Hotel Plaza yesterday as the result of an operation. She arrived here about ten days ago from Palm Beach, in poor health, and became so much worse that the operation was undertaken as a last resort. She failed to rally from its effects.

Mrs. Deere, who was in her seventy-second year, was the daughter of Gideon and Judith Dickinson of the famous Dickinson family of Boston, whose ancestors came over in the Mayflower. Her grandfather served as one of Washington's Generals in the Revolution. She was born in Boston, but while still a little girl moved to Illinois with her parents. There she married Mr. Deere, son of John Deere, founder of the Deere Manufacturing Company and inventor of the modern plow. He died several years ago, leaving her a fortune of many millions.

At her death Mrs. Deere still maintained a residence at Moline, Ill., with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Butterworth. She was a prominent member of the Daughters of the American Revolution and was notable in Moline for her many and varied charities. She is survived by her daughter, Mrs. Butterworth, who was Catherine Deere; her two sons-in-law, William Butterworth and William E. Wiman, son of the late Erastus Wiman, and two grandsons, Dwight and Charles Wiman. Mrs. Wiman, who was Miss Anna Deere, died several years ago.

Mrs. Deere's body will be taken to-morrow to Moline for burial.

Obituary Notes.

Col. CHARLES W. FULLER, one of the foremost corporation lawyers of New Jersey, died at his home in Bayonne yesterday. He was born in New York City on July 2, 1843. In 1862 he enlisted in the Northern army. In 1868 he was appointed Adjutant of the Fifty-fifth Regiment, N. G. N. Y. In 1869 he was promoted to the rank of Major, and in 1871 was commissioned Colonel. He held command of the regiment until 1874, when he resigned. He was attorney for the Standard Oil Company for many years and for the Central Railroad of New Jersey. He was a member of the Bayonne Board of Education for four years and City Attorney for five years.

He was born in Poland fifty-nine years ago. Mr. Gordon was one of the founders of the Immigrants' Aid Society and was a member of many charitable associations on the lower east side.

A REVOLTING PLAY.

"Countess Julia" Serves for Ill-Advised Debut of Miss Marcia Walthier

COUNTESS JULIA, a play in one act, by August Strindberg. Translated by Edith and Warner Oland. Forty-eighth Street Theatre.

August Strindberg's revolting play, "Countess Julia," was acted at the Forty-eighth Street Theatre yesterday afternoon, and will be repeated to-day and Friday. For those who are interested in seeing how queer a thing may be which is still hailed as a "masterpiece" by some people, this exhibition provides an unusual opportunity. For "Countess Julia," despite its undeniable strength in some respects, is undoubtedly a queer thing.

That it contains the results of morbid brooding upon a question of class distinction, together with some competent deductions in regard to certain phases of human nature, cannot reasonably be denied. But that it is the product of a diseased imagination, and that, as such, it reflects a disordered mental state, is equally true. One may get certain truths from it. But at what a cost! And, when all is said and done, what is its philosophy worth? It needs no ghost come from the grave or Strindberg brought from the madhouse to tell us that vicious tendencies may be resident in high places, and that what is bred in the bone may come out in the flesh. Still, it may be admitted that "Countess Julia" is strong. As much may be said of over-ripe oysters.

The matinées have been arranged primarily for the purpose of introducing Miss Marcia Walthier, at one time a concert pianist. When an accident to her hands unfitted her for a continuance of such effort a number of wealthy men, believing she had great dramatic talent, are said to have sent her abroad to study dramatic art. If this is true it would appear that some injustice was done Miss Walthier in encouraging her to pursue an art for which she seems peculiarly unsuited. She is not without magnetism, and in occasional quiet passages yesterday afternoon her playing justified and held respectful attention. But she seems wholly without the power to express great passion, her speech is not infrequently marked by affectation, her gesture is awkward and restricted, and her general organism is of a kind which in reading rôles nothing short of transcendant genius would make effective in the theatre. And "Countess Julia" provides opportunities at least for tremendously impressive and varied acting. The rôle would be beyond the powers of most of the players on our stage. And obviously a novice, even after a course of lessons in Paris, must court disaster in attempting it.

In the rôle of the valet Mr. Frank Reicher played with a sure touch and succeeded admirably in contrasting the real cynicism and mock romanticism of the despicable creature. And a competent and interesting performance of the kitchen maid was provided by Miss Adelaide Wilson. The incidental dances were not impressive and merely served to prolong the general agony.

There will be two more matinées in which persons may have an opportunity to know "what happened to Julia." In the meantime, at the same theatre, they may see at night "What Happened to Mary." But let it be understood, the two cases are not analogous in any sense.

Mrs. Mostyn's Small Dance.

Mrs. Berkeley Mostyn gave a small dance last night for her son, Oscar Egerton Stevens and Mrs. Stevens, the first entertainment she has been able to give for her daughter-in-law owing to her being in mourning. The dance took place at Mrs. Mostyn's apartment, 43 Fifth Avenue. The hostess had receiving with her her elder daughter, Mrs. Gilliat Ghequiere Schroeder. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Robert Le Roy, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Roosevelt, Mr. and Mrs. Prescott Slade, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Low, Mr. and Mrs. George Yeomans, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Gustavus Kirby, Mr. and Mrs. Amos Schermerhorn, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Turnbull, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rawle, Mr. and Mrs. Eben Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. Francis K. Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Bartol, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Slack, Mr. and Mrs. Eben Whitman, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Work, Mr. and Mrs. George C. Low, Mr. and Mrs. L. Seton Lindsay, the Misses Constance Folsom and Cornelia T. Gallatin, and also James Duane Pell, Walden Pell, W. P. Cammann, T. Chesley Richardson, Raymond Ives, Charles Stewart Butler, and Howland S. Davis.

Annie Abbott at Hammerstein's.

Annie Abbott, "the Georgia magnet," appeared at Hammerstein's Victoria Theatre yesterday in her "mystery" act, which has not been seen in New York for many years. Miss Abbott's exhibition consisted in demonstrating "the triumph of mind over matter," as the bill said, by such tricks as allowing a dozen men to grasp her and try to lift her from the floor without success until she said she willed them to be able to. Then it was easy. Her act puzzled and amused the audience. Another new appearance was that of Hazel Langenour, a girl swimmer from California. There were moving pictures of her swim across the Golden Gate at San Francisco, and then she apeared in person, swimming against an artificially generated current in a glass tank.

Miss Werdenschlag Engaged.

Mr. and Mrs. David Werdenschlag of 303 West 103d Street have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Hortense Werdenschlag, to Jerome Arnold Kohn. The wedding is to take place early in June.

THE MUSIC CRITIC'S WORK.

W. J. Henderson Lectures on It Before the School of Journalism.

W. J. Henderson of The New York Sun gave the second lecture in the course of newspaper criticism arranged by the School of Journalism of Columbia University yesterday afternoon, his subject being "Music Criticism." The lecturer said that music criticism occupied a place in a newspaper as part of the news of the day, and therefore the critic ought to begin his career as a reporter and learn the news value of the details of his stories.

The critic, first of all, ought to be able to write a clear, connected story, and to do it, when necessary, under pressure. Upon this foundation he might superimpose as much literary elegance as need be. The history of music in all its periods, phases and ramifications should be familiar to him. He should also have a working knowledge of the lives of the principal composers. He should be acquainted with the chief creations of the masters. He must know the principal standard orchestral works, operas, oratorios, piano and violin compositions, songs, &c. This stock of information naturally comes by slow acquisition.

A critic should be acquainted with German, French and Italian, because many important musical works in these tongues are not translated. He ought, also, to be able to read song texts and opera texts in these languages. He should have a wide acquaintance with literatures, because composers base so much music on them, even outside of opera.

The lecturer told how the newspaper critic actually did his work, and described how the story of the first performance of a new opera was prepared.

Miss Townsend's Play Postponed.

Margaret Townsend's play, "The Passing of the Idle Rich," did not open last night at the Garden Theatre according to schedule. There were somewhat varying explanations offered, but the one that must be accepted as official was that contained on a sign at the door of the theatre, which informed the prospective audience that the opening was postponed until Thursday evening on account of the necessity of having two more dress rehearsals.

Virginia Earl in "The Geisha."

Virginia Earl returned to Broadway last night, appearing for the first time in Arthur Hammerstein's revival of "The Geisha" at Weber & Field's Forty-fourth Street Theatre. She places Lina Abarbanell in the rôle of Molly Seamore. Miss Earl played this rôle when the piece was first produced at Daly's Theatre.

AUCHINCLOSS.—New York, April 28, 1913.—At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Bank of the Manhattan Company, held this date, the following Minute and Resolution were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, We have been called upon to mourn the death of our friend and fellow-member, Hugh Dudley Auchincloss, we desire in sadness to place upon the records of this Company our deep personal sense of the great loss we have sustained, and to offer our tribute of appreciation to his high character and ability. Elected to membership in this board March 24, 1892, the bank has lost a Director whose sound judgment, trained by long experience in mercantile and financial affairs, made his services exceptionally valuable. We have lost not merely an esteemed associate but a friend, for whom every one who knew him had a sincere affection to which his own warm heart generously responded. We shall always hold in affectionate remembrance his cheerful humor, his lovable personality, and his kindly solicitude for the welfare of those who sat with him at this board.

For the bank and its prosperity he always entertained a peculiar affection which lent zest and energy to the performance of all his official duties and entitled him to the gratitude which is due an industrious, efficient, and faithful Director.

We feel that our loss is not ours alone, but is shared in a wider degree by those with whom he was acquainted and with whom he was associated, both in social and civic life.

RESOLVED, That a copy of this Minute, suitably engrossed, be signed by the members of this board and forwarded to the family of our late associate as an expression of our sympathetic and affectionate regard.

SULZER ASKS REPEAL OF STATE BOND LAWS

Says That He Was Misled and Asks Legislators to Rush Revocation.

ASSAILED BY LEADER BROWN

Frawley Says State Controller's Office Approved—Lawson Purdy Enlightens the Governor.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 28.—Gov. Sulzer to-night summoned Senator Wagner, Speaker Smith, and Assemblyman A. J. Levy to a conference at which he requested that bills be introduced in the Legislature at once repealing two laws which became effective on Friday which were intended to create an artificial market for State bonds. Gov. Sulzer took this action after he had talked with Lawson Purdy of New York, who came to protest against the laws, which, while aiding the sale of State bonds, would discriminate against municipal bonds.

According to Senator Wagner and Speaker Smith, Gov. Sulzer said he had signed the bills under a misapprehension.

The two laws were introduced by Senator Frawley. The bills had appeared in the Legislature before. They were introduced in 1911 by Senator Grady and last year by Senator Frawley. They were vetoed by Gov. Dix last year. One of the laws exempts from the provisions of the inheritance tax law portions of estates invested in State bonds.

The other act permits a deduction by corporations paying a franchise tax to the extent of 1½ per cent. on holdings of 3 per cent. State bonds and a half of 1 per cent. on 4 per cent. bonds.

Another bill, which is one of this bond group, is now on the order of final passage in the Senate. It directs the collectors of taxes to deduct from the total amount of tax imposed on banks and banking associations an amount equal to 1½ per cent. of the holdings of State bonds bearing 3 per cent. interest and a half of 1 per cent. on 4 per cent. bonds.

While the legislative leaders were in the Executive Chamber, Senator Elon R. Brown, the Republican leader, introduced a bill repealing the new law exempting outstanding bonds from a part of the inheritance tax. He asked that it be advanced to final passage, but Senator Frawley objected.

"This is a bill," Senator Brown said, "giving an exemption to $100,000,000 of bonds already issued."

He then quoted from an editorial in THE NEW YORK TIMES explaining the effect of the law and the amount of money the State would lose.

"This bill passed the Senate without having my attention called to it," he said. "It was said to be an Administration bill, and it was rushed through and was signed by the Governor.

"Some people have said jestingly that the Governor is crazy. I am not prepared to admit that. We must differentiate between crazy acts and crazy mentalities. All I want to point out is that the act of signing this bill was unbalanced."

Senator Brown also attacked the Governor's policy of increasing salaries and the expenses of the State and his course on political and financial measures. Although he spoke under unanimous consent, no Senator offered objections.

Senator Frawley denied that the law repealed by the Brown bill was urged by the Governor. He said it came from the State Controller's office. He said it was time that the State got some standing for its bonds. He added that New York City now gave 4½ per cent. interest on its bonds. He said that it was an exaggeration to say that the State would lose $12,500,000 by the new laws. The Controller, he said, would give the exact figures to-morrow.

At this point Senator Wagner returned from the Executive Chamber and introduced the Governor's bills repealing both new bond laws.

"The Governor feels that he misunderstood the perport of the bills when he asked for their passage," Senator Wagner said. "He asked for the passage of these repeal bills and will send an emergency message to facilitate things."

Senator Frawley withdrew his objection to the advancement of the bills out of their order on condition that before they were passed the Controller should be permitted to make a statement as to the effect of the new laws.

Senator Frawley's contention that the bills were favored by the State Controller is not disputed, but it has been a matter of comment at the Capitol that the run of the Senate Chamber and the committee rooms was given to a lobbyist, whose mission at the Capitol was to promote the passage of the Frawley bond bills.

Mr. Purdy said that as soon as Gov. Sulzer understood that the Frawley bills conferred an advantage on outstanding bonds which might cost the State $500,000 a year he immediately took steps to obtain their repeal.

"The laws," Mr. Purdy said, "when they were made to apply to existing bonds would actually have made it more difficult to sell subsequent issues. The laws themselves discriminate in favor of savings banks, trust companies, and insurance companies. All other persons would be at a disadvantage, and would get only 4 per cent., while the favored institutions would get 4½ per cent.

"The proper way to make it possible for the State to sell its bonds would be by raising the rate of interest, which the Constitution permits the Legislature to do. Unfortunately, however, the referendum authorizing the bond issue limits the rate to 4 per cent. It seems probable that a proper effort on the part of the Insurance and Banking Departments might result in the purchase of a sufficient number of even the 4 per cent. bonds to tide over the period until a new referendum may withdraw the limitation on the interest rate.

"It is not surprising that in the tremendous pressure of thousands of bills the leaders in the Legislature and the Governor should have been misled concerning these measures. Whatever may be said of the outcome it may now be considered certain that no gift will be made to the holders of outstanding bonds."

Gov. Sulzer said after his conference with Mr. Purdy this evening that while he thought the rate of interest on the State bonds should be raised to make a better market for them some method other than that contemplated by the Frawley bills should be found.

"I believe," said the Governor, "that we will be able to remedy the defects in the existing law by amendment, which will obviate the objections urged against the provisions of the Frawley measures.

"It is our purpose to cause such bills to be prepared and introduced into the Legislature without delay, and, if necessary, to speed their enactment by emergency messages.

"My desire is to create a ready and quick market for State bonds, but it is not my intention, nor have I any desire, to give State bonds an undue advantage which will in any way impair the marketability or value of municipal or other corporate bonds with which they must compete. Under the law as it stands at present State bonds are placed at a disadvantage, and it is my sole purpose to make them equally attractive as an investment as the other bonds now actively sought as investments."

WARDEN BENHAM REPLIES.

Hints at Animus in Attack on Methods at Auburn.

AUBURN, N. Y., April 28.—George W. Benham, the agent and Warden of the Auburn State Prison, replied to-day to the charges of mismanagement and cruelty in the prison made to Gov. Sulzer by his investigator, George W. Blake of New York. Warden Benham said:

"The report seems to carry out the idea of the conception of the investigation, and I think that most people understand the animus of it. As for recommending my dismissal, this must appear humorous, as it is well known that my resignation has been tendered to various persons in authority during the past two and a half weeks, and only within the past two weeks I have offered to waive the legal question as to whether or not anybody was in authority to receive the resignation by agreeing to turn the prison over to Judge Potter, now in charge of the Prison Department, upon condition that he would furnish a receipt for the moneys and inventories, but this has not been accepted.

Dr. John Gerin, who has been prison physician since 1898, said to-day:

"I have neither the inclination nor desire to enter into a discussion of my treatment and management of my patients, whether in or out of prison.

"In every well conducted hospital or institution adverse criticism and fault finding is no novelty.

"It is over three years since any child was born in the women's prison. Every child born in the women's prison and every mother had proper care.

"I have served under six different Governors, three different Superintendents and three Wardens, all men of the highest character and dignity, solicitous and watchful, in close touch with prison affairs, men actuated by the highest motives to give good and proper care to those placed in the State's custody, and only now my brutality and incompetency is discovered."

MRS. FAIRCHILD LOSES CASE

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., April 28.—Justice Barrows of the Superior Court has handed down a decision in the case of George S. Bowdoin and Egerton L. Winthrop, Trustees, against Mrs. Edith H. Fairchild of Boston, which has to do with the estate of her father, Thomas F. Cushing, long a prominent Summer resident here. Mr. Bowdoin wishes to resign as Trustee under the will, and, as an account was necessary, J. P. Mahoney of Newport was appointed Master. It was against the Master's report that Mrs. Fairchild objected, but the court upholds the report.

The principal cause of dispute is 248 shares of the Great Northern Ore Company, issued as a stock dividend, which the Trustees held belonged to the principal of the estate, while Mrs. Fairchild urged that it should be a part of the income. The stock is valued at about $250,000.

The court's opinion, in part, reads: "It would be contrary to the apparent intention of the testator to treat these certificates as income."

STILWELL CASE UP HERE.

Whitman to Present Bribery Charges to Grand Jury.

District Attorney Whitman said yesterday that he had received word that Attorney General Carmody, by direction of Gov. Sulzer, had sent him the testimony taken at the Senate investigation into the bribery charge brought against Senator Stephen J. Stilwell by George H. Kendall, President of the New York Bank Note Company.

This announcement was made after Mr. Whitman had held a short conversation by telephone with Gov. Sulzer. Mr. Whitman learned that the matter had been handed over to Attorney General Carmody, who had decided to place the case in his hands.

Mr. Whitman said he would present the matter in person to the Grand Jury early next week. All the witnesses called before the Senate will appear before the Grand Jury and will tell what they know about the charges.

TAKE SEATS ON THE BENCH.

Justices Philbin and Weeks at Work —Cup for ex-Justice McCall.

Without ostentation, but in the presence of a large gathering of friends and relatives, Eugene A. Philbin and Bartow S. Weeks, appointed Justices of the Supreme Court by Gov. Sulzer to take the places made vacant by the resignation of Justice McCall and the death of Justice Bischoff, took their seats yesterday on the bench and began their duties in the Trial Term.

While the new Justices were entering upon their duties, Presiding Justice George L. Ingraham of the Appellate Division of the First Department was in another part of the Supreme Court presenting a gold loving cup to ex-Justice McCall, Chairman of the Public Service Commission, from the attachés of the Supreme Court.

ANHUT TO BE TRIED MAY 12.

His Plea of Immunity Refused, Lawyer Must Face Bribery Charge.

Justice Seabury yesterday in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court set May 12 at the date for the trial of John Nicholson Anhut, the lawyer indicted for attempting to bribe Dr. John W. Russell, formerly Superintendent of Matteawan, to testify that Harry K. Thaw, the slayer of Stanford White, was sane.

This date was set after Anhut's counsel, Arthur C. Palmer, had appeared in court and asked that the indictment be dismissed on the ground that Anhut's testimony before the Governor's Committee of Inquiry gave him immunity. This motion was denied, and counsel then moved for the empaneling of a jury to decide whether Anhut was not entitled to immunity. This also was denied.

Allows Russian Refugee to Land.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Secretary Wilson of the Department of Labor today approved the recommendation of the Immigration Bureau to permit Elie Kogan, a Russian refugee, who was sent to Siberia for a political offense, to land in this country. Kogan has been detained at Ellis Island.

FIND AN OLD SHIP FAR UNDER GROUND

Laborers Excavating Site for Building Uncover a Wreck of a Century Ago.

NOW LIES FAR INSHORE

Evidently Had Been Afire When Run Aground at Tenth Avenue and Fifteenth Street.

Workmen employed by Cannivan Brothers, contractors, who are excavating the site for a new building for the National Biscuit Company on the northwest corner of Tenth Avenue and Fifteenth Street, yesterday afternoon found themselves picking at the tops of a row of charred timbers which stood upright and stoutly resisted all efforts to uproot them. The afternoon's work exposed two curved rows of such timbers, which met at each end and formed an outline of the hull of a two-masted schooner, 120 feet long and 20 feet at the beam.

A chain 120 feet long was unearthed and lifted out of the excavation, and part of a heavy anchor was uncovered and left with a part of the bar and one of the flukes sticking out of the ground at the end of the day's work.

The charred skeleton of the old ship lies ten feet below the street level at a distance of more than 500 feet from the present water's edge. It rests upright on its keel, partly under the sidewalk and partly within the property line. Over the larboard (left) half of it a tenement house had stood for more than eighty years. It was pulled down onlu recently, when the excavating was begun.

The bones of the old craft must have been lying in their present position for a century, possibly longer. At some date when the banks of the Hudson were 600 or 700 feet wider than they are now the schooner had taken fire, her nose had been run ashore and she had been abandoned to the flames. Evidently the fire made clear work of it, or the ship was thoroughly salvaged afternoon, for nothing of her fixtures or cargo has so far been found, with the exception of the chain and anchor.

The wood is well-preserved, although charred in places, and the contractors have decided that the cheapest way to rid themselves of it is to dig the dirt from the hull and raise the craft entire.

FOUR PINNED UNDER AUTO.

Mrs. Mason Trowbridge Badly Injured—Others Escape.

Mason Trowbridge, a lawyer of 50 Pine Street; his wife, their son, Mason, Jr., 8 years old, and a friend, Mrs. J. Kilduff of Port Washington, were pinned under Mr. Trowbridge's automobile, which skidded in Broadway, Bayside, L. I., yesterday morning, and turned over into a ditch. The screams of the imprisoned party brought Mounted Policeman Edward Phillips, and a few minutes later he was assisted by I. Van Loan of the Ansonia Hotel, Manhattan.

They managed to raise the machine sufficiently to liberate the members of the party, and all escaped with slight injuries except Mrs. Trowbridge. She was pinned down by the heavy tonneau and was painfully hurt. Rain was falling while the work of rescue was under way, and Mrs. Trowbridge was carried to the side of the road, where Policeman Phillips covered her with his rubber coat to shield her until the arrival of an ambulance from the Flushing Hospital. At the hospital it was found that Mrs. Trowbridge was suffering from a dislocated hip and other injuries.

Mr. Trowbridge was one of the assistants of Deputy Attorney General Arthur C. Train in the graft inquiry before a Queens County Grand Jury, which resulted in the removal of ex-President Lawrence Gresser of Queens.

FIGHT ON ELEVATED TRAIN.

Passengers Pummel Two Men Suspected of Being Pickpockets.

Two alleged pickpockets caused a fight on a Broadway elevated train shortly after it had pulled out of the Flushing Avenue station in Williamsburg yesterday morning. Michael Mercurio of 147 Skillman Avenue, felt a hand in his pocket, but before he could catch it the hand had been withdrawn, and with it a wallet containing $50.

Alexander Goldstein, a tailor, 24 years old, of 503 Sutter Avenue, and David Brown, 22 years old, a driver, of 137 South Third Street, who were standing next to Mercurio, were suspected of being the pickpockets, and the victim turned on them and, assisted by other men passengers, punched and kicked the two men, who struggled to free themselves.

Women in the car screamed for help, and the motorman blew his alarm whistle. Policeman Pasfield of the Clymer Street Station boarded the train at the Lorimer Street Station and found the two men in the centre of a crowd. He placed them under arrest on a charge of larceny.

The men deny having robbed Mercurio, but other passengers say they saw Goldstein pass the pocketbook to Brown, who, when the fight began, threw it out of the window to the street. It was not recovered.

BOY SHOOTS LITTLE GIRL.

Gun, Playfully Pointed, Goes Off—Victim's Condition Critical.

Bessie Greenberg, 7 years old, and her twin brothers, Meyer and Barnett, 9 years old, were sitting in the candy store of Joseph Blumfelt at 218 East Ninety-ninth Street yesterday noon when two 15-year-old boys entered the store. They were Harry Kalinsky and Nathan Ruben and the former carried in his hand a revolver belonging to Ruben's father.

The two boys purchased some candy and then Kalinsky playfully pointed his revolver at Bessie. There was a report, followed by a scream, and the girl fell to the floor. Kalinsky and Ruben fled.

The wounded child was carried upstairs, and her mother, Mrs. Annie Greenberg, who lives above the candy store, took her in her arms and hurried to the Mt. Sinai Hospital. When the girl had been there two hours, the authorities recommended that she be removed to the Harlem Hospital. She was operated upon by Dr. O'Brien, but it was said last night that the physicians had little hope of her recovery.

Detectives Veale and Mancini of the East 104th Street station are looking for Kalinsky and his companion.

Can Now Sue Van Ness Estate.

Surrogate Cohalan signed an order yesterday authorizing Mrs. Deborah Van Ness to sue the estate of Cornelius H. Van Ness for $28,400 back alimony. Van Ness was married three times. His second wife, Emma Louise Van Ness, left him a large estate, which he gave by ante-mortem deed and by will to his third wife, Alice Wood Van Ness. Surrogate Fowler refused to probate his will, and the heirs of the second Mrs. Van Ness are now seeking to revoke the ante-mortem transfers to Mrs. Alice Wood Van Ness by proceedings in the Supreme Court.

City's Delegates to Peace Congress.

Mayor Gaynor designated yesterday these citizens to act as delegates representing the city at the Fourth American Peace Congress, to be held at St. Louis, Mo., on May 1, 2, and 3: Andrew B. Humphrey, Mrs. Elmer Black, Gen. James Grant Wilson, Hamilton Holt, and Marcus M. Marks.

FUNK FACTION TRIUMPHS.

John F. Bass Chosen State Chairman by Illinois Progressives.

Special to The New York Times.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 28.—The election of a new Progressive State Chairman, the elimination of Col. Chauncey Dewey of Chicago from the councils of the party, a denunciation of the Progressive members of the General Assembly who voted for L. Y. Sherman for United States Senator, and indorsement of the minimum wage law were the features of the day's session of the Progressive conference of Illinois today.

John F. Bass of Chicago, brother of ex-Gov. Bass of New Hampshire, was elected State Chairman to succeed Banker B. F. Harris of Champaign. This was interpreted as a victory for the friends of Frank H. Funk over the faction headed by Medill McCormick. Funk was the caucus choice of the Progressives for Senator. The McCormick forces prevented his election, it is said, when it could have been accomplished through a Sherman-Funk alliance. It is probable that Funk will be a candidate for Senator next year.

A militant message from Theodore Roosevelt came to the conference. It approves warmly the course of the Bull Moosers in rejecting a Lorimer alliance on the Senatorship, and urges the Progressives to stand to their guns.

Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana and ex-Gov. Stubbs of Kansas will close the conference with addresses to-morrow.

ENJOIN INSURANCE MEN.

Companies Thereby Forbidden to Cancel Existing Missouri Policies.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., April 28.—The State Supreme Court to-day issued an injunction restraining 182 fire insurance companies from terminating contracts now in force in the State. The court did not restrain the companies from ceasing to write new business in the State.

The companies were given ten days to show why they should not be fined for, by agreement, threatening to leave the State, and to show why they should not be enjoined permanently from cancelling present contracts. Judges Brown, Bond and Walker dissented.

Representatives of the insurance companies, when the injunction proceedings were filed by the Attorney General Saturday, said the companies had no intention of cancelling present contracts, but merely would write no new business or renew present contracts after April 30.

Following the ruling of the Supreme Court, Attorney General Barker said:

"The insurance companies met at Pittsburgh, and by an agreement, which we think is in violation of the anti-trust laws of this State, decided to withdraw from the State on April 30. The law about which they complained is not effective until June 22, and the fact that they agreed to leave on April 30 shows that they were acting in a retaliatory and revengeful spirit.

"The people of the State may rest assured that we are not at the mercy of these insurance companies, as they seem to think, and that every effort will be made to prevent them from carrying out their agreement, which evidently was made to cripple the industry of the State, destroy loan values, and otherwise to embarrass and harass the citizens. This decision was a complete victory for the people."

FIGHTING CENTRAL'S PLAN.

Washington Heights Body Sends Brief to Board of Estimate.

The objections of the Washington Heights Taxpayers' Association to the New York Central's proposals for the improvement of its west side tracks have been drawn up in the form of a brief and submitted to the Board of Estimate Committee. It is asserted, in the first place, that the construction of the Inwood Hill and Fort Washington Park tunnels at the cost to the city of $3,100,000 is a useless expenditure of money, and that the railroad should widen its roadbed north of 135th Street and roof it over at its own expense.

Then, it is pointed out, no provision is made for filling in the present cut through Fort Washington Park, and the fear is expressed that a common dump would be established with the result that ashes and garbage would be deposited there. The cut should be widened sufficiently to accommodate four tracks, it is suggested, and then roofed over at the expense of the railroad company, while the city should bear the expense of placing enough soil on the top of this roof to fill the cut in completely.

The association thinks that the New York Central tracks should be carried over Dyckman Street on a viaduct, and asserts that the freight station now designed for this section should be established at Marble Hill in the old bed of the Spuyten Duyvil Creek. Dyckman Street, the property owners hoped, would soon become a great business thoroughfare, but now they contend the plans of the New York Central would prevent its development, and would cut it off from access to the river.

Objection is also taken to the establishment of a freight yard and shipping station between 135th and 145th Streets, which, it is contended, would change the whole character of the neighborhood. Such yards might be placed either at Highbridge or on the Harlem River between the 145th Street and the Central bridges.

UPLIFT COLLEGE POLITICS.

Columbia Candidates Agree Not to Enter Fraternity Deals.

Political deals among fraternities and all forms of electioneering were blacklisted at Columbia yesterday by the students who are running for the Student Board of Representatives. In the past voting scandals have come to light after the ballots have been counted, and a strenuous campaign among the undergraduates was made to eliminate these.

A statement to which the candidates have subscribed reads:

> We declare that we have not entered and will not enter into any political combine for the purpose of securing votes, pledging ourselves in advance on any question of policy in the hope of receiving such votes, as we feel that any such combine would be detrimental to the best interests of Columbia, inasmuch as it would tend toward the election to the board of men other than those best qualified; that, should we be elected to the board, we shall, according to the best of our ability, decide any question which may come before the board without prejudice of any kind whatsoever and fairly and equitably on its merits alone.

The candidates who signed this statement were T. H. Barrett, D. Crampton, Jr., W. Foerster, A. H. Haaren, J. K. Lasher, Jr., G. W. Mathewson, D. Meenan, Jr., C. W. Peterson, J. H. Purdy, E. B. Slade, E. I. Williams, J. M. Blackwell, L. D. Egbert, A. L. Graham, F. Macdonald, I. Hadsell, J. S. Miller, J. S. O'Neale, F. H. Phipps, F. D. Shaw, A. F. Smithers, and S. W. Smith.

Standard Oil Dividend Disputed by Two Administrators.

Two courts, one in Cayuga County, Ohio, and the other in Ogle County, Ill., having each appointed an administrator for the estate of David H. Wilson, owner of 520 shares of Standard Oil stock, United States District Court Judge Cross, sitting in Newark yesterday, had counsel for the Standard Oil Company pay into court a $20,800 check, representing a 40 per cent. dividend on the stock.

The order was made on the return of a rule to show cause, granted by Judge Cross, following the filing of a bill of interpleader by the Standard Oil Company's counsel.

The rival administrators are Byron D. Annewalt of Cleveland and Henry A. Smith of Oregon, Ill. At the hearing yesterday counsel for Annewalt pleaded lack of jurisdiction on the part of the Federal Court of New Jersey, but Judge Cross ruled that the subject of the dispute being stock of a New Jersey corporation, the court had jurisdiction.

Taft to Lecture at Amherst.

DEBT NOT ERASED BY REORGANIZATION

U. S. Supreme Court Holds Corporations Liable for Previous Non-Assenting Claims.

AFFECTS MANY RAILROADS

Decision Rendered in Northern Pacific Case Involving $125,000, Four Justices Dissenting.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—With the bench divided, five to four, the Supreme Court of the United States this morning declared that the reorganization of a corporation or its absorption into another company does not release the original corporation from obligation to creditors not party to the reorganization. The opinion, it is said, will affect many reorganized railroad companies.

In announcing the opinion the court declared void, so far as one creditor, John H. Boyd, was concerned, the judicial sale of the property of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company to the Northern Pacific Railway Company ten years ago. The opinion, however, explicitly stated that no moral wrong was involved in the reorganization of the road.

Associate Justice Lurton read the dissenting opinion, and declared as the belief of the four Justices who signed it that the court's holding would have an "alarming" effect. The dissenting Justices argued that the sale was not a transfer from the stockholders of the old company to the identical stockholders of the new, but that the move was a legitimate and proper step to rescue the property of the old company from a receivership which was rapidly becoming disastrous to all parties concerned. Chief Justice White and Associate Justices Holmes, Van Devanter, and Lurton signed the dissenting opinion.

Associate Justice Lamar delivered the opinion of the court. The facts, as he recited them, showed that Mr. Boyd many years ago got a judgment for $125,000 against the Coeur d'Alene Railway & Navigation Company, subsequently bringing suit against the Northern Pacific Railroad Company when it purchased the Coeur d'Alene property. Still later, when the reorganization was effected, he tried to have his judgment declared a lien against the railway company. This effort succeeded to-day.

The principle as laid down by Justice Lamar was stated in this language:

"Corporations insolvent or financially embarrassed often find it necessary to scale their debts and readjust stock issues, with an agreement to conduct the same business with the same property under a reorganization. This may be done in pursuance to a private contract between bondholders and stockholders, and, though the corporation property is thereby transferred to a new company having the same shareholders, the transaction would be binding between the parties.

"But, of course, such a transfer by stockholders from themselves to themselves cannot defeat the claim of a non-assenting creditor. As against him, the sale is void in equity, regardless of the motive with which it was made. For, if such contract reorganization was consummated in good faith and ignorance of the existence of the creditor, yet, when he appeared and established his debt, the subordinate interest of the old stockholders would still be subject to his claim in the hands of the reoganized company. There is no difference in principle if the reorganization, instead of being effectuated by private sale, is consummated by a master's deed, under a consent decree.

"When Boyd found the property in the same hands after the reorganization as before he had a right to get the property for the payment of the debt, even though there had been a judicial sale," declared Justice Lamar. He held that although there had been no moral fraud, yet the decree of sale of the property from the railroad company to the railway company was void as to a non-consenting creditor. He added this was true although the reorganization occurred years ago.

The Supreme Court will hear argument on no more cases this term after May 9, and will recess from May 12 to May 26.

CARPET TRADE OPENING.

High Prices Expected at Auction of Fall Offerings To-day.

More than the usual number of buyers were present yesterday at the opening of the Fall floor coverings season in this market, but little buying was done. Only one or two of the principal houses made prices. Advances ranging from 50 cents to $1 were reported on medium-grade Axminsters, velvets, body Brussels, and Wiltons. Buyers displayed much conservatism. Stocks throughout the country are low, and especially good business is expected from Western merchants.

It is expected that prices will rule fairly high at the Alexander Smith & Sons Carpet Company auction, which begins to-day. Sellers of linoleums and floor oil cloths believe that good prices at the auction will have a strengthening effect on their trade also. No important price change is expected in this part of the market, but should one occur it probably would be a slight easing off.

LAKE SHORE SELLS NOTES.

London Takes Issue of $10,000,000 on a 5¼ Per Cent. Basis.

Morgan, Grenfell & Co., the London branch of J. P. Morgan & Co., have sold in that city £2,000,000 of Lake Shore & Michigan Southern one-year sterling notes, to be dated May 15. The notes were placed on a 5¼ per cent. basis.

With this sale, making a total of $30,000,000 in short-term securities put out by the New York Central lines in the past few weeks, it is believed that all of the cash requirements of the Vanderbilt system for this year have been provided for. The proceeds of this issue will be used for improvements and other corporate purposes.

BUSINESS NOTES.

Arnold B. Heine & Co., embroideries, formerly at 503 Broadway, have moved to new quarters at 11 East Twenty-sixth Street. They opened for business there yesterday morning.

Silk imports at New York for the week ended April 19 were as follows: For consumption, $592,285; for warehousing, $81,283; withdrawn from warehouses, $88,145.

The Ebsary Fireproofing & Gypsum Block Co., formerly at 1123 Broadway, has moved to new quarters in the Knickerbocker Annex, 140 West Forty-second Street.

SIDELIGHTS ON SELLING.

Colored goods seem most in demand in the local cotton goods market. They are sold ahead more than any other fabrics, chiefly because of the sustained demand from the cutting up trades.

Local manufacturers of balbriggan underwear are more fearful of the foreign competition that they say would follow the adoption of the proposed tariff than makers of other lines of this merchandise. Makers of certain lines of women's vests also expect to suffer from the change.

The scarcity of children's stockings is one of the principal features of the present hosiery situation. Several popular numbers of these goods are practically out of the market.

CONSULAR TRADE NOTES.

The Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce has received from Commercial Agent D. C. Alexander, Jr., a report on street railways and electric lighting in China, which deals chiefly with the financial features of concessions and enterprises. The report will be loaned to interested persons or firms making application to the bureau.

Exports of cotton velvets, cords, and fustians from England to the United States in 1912 amounted to 5,601,537 yards, compared with 6,233,449 yards in 1911. The demand continued evenly through the whole year, and there was a healthy prospect for 1913.

The report of the Compania Ferrum Industria Argentina de Metales for 1912 states that competition with importers in the same line (principally coated iron) has been very severe, but sales have increased. The profits amounted to $185,000, from which a 14 per cent. dividend was declared and $9,500 carried forward.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Velvets at Lower Duty; Also Goods of Lace and Mother-of-Pearl.

The Board of United States General Appraisers yesterday sustained a protest by Veit, Son & Co. of New York relating to the classification under the Tariff act of 1909 of wearing apparel made in part of lace and of mother-of-pearl. Collector Loeb held that lace was the component material or chief value, and returned the goods for duty as lace ornaments at 60 per cent. ad valorem, under Paragraph 349. The importers established by official analysis that mother-of-pearl was the principal value, and gained a reduction to 35 per cent. ad valorem under Paragraph 464.

Johnson & Faulkner of this city were sustained on goods returned as woven fabrics in chief value of silk and taxed at the appropriate rate, according to weight, condition, &c., under Paragraph 399 of the present law. The firm gained lower rates under the same paragraph as velvets and other pile goods according to weight per square yard.

IN THE BUSINESS WORLD

Not Scared by Anti-Veil Reports.

Little peace of mind was lost yesterday in local veiling houses because of the cable report from Paris that for the first time in many years veils were almost entirely discarded at the Longchamps races on Sunday. The news was received almost as tranquilly as the recent charge of Sir John Cockburn, the English physician, that the constant use of veils caused deterioration of the features. The tone of the local veiling market has been brighter this season than for some time, due to the improved consuming demand arising from the use of moderate-sized hats this Spring. The originality of American veilings and the gradual weaning away of American women from French styles leads to the belief that business will not be seriously injured in this country by this latest whim of the fashion makers.

Fruit to be Sold Under One Roof.

About Thursday of this week the three fruit auction houses of this city will be installed in a single building, and future sales by these firms will be conducted in a common auction room. The firms are the Connolly Auction Company, Brown & Seccomb, and the Fruit Auction Company, and the building, to be known as the Fruit Trade Building, is located at 202-208 Franklin Street. According to Victor L. Zorn of the Connolly Company, the three companies will continue to operate independently, the change being made solely for the convenience of buyers and the eduction of operating expenses on the part of the auctioneers.

Importers Want Tariff Date Set.

Copies of a petition signed by E. H. Van Ingen & Co. and a number of other importers, asking Congress to name Jan. 1 as the date when the new tariff bill shall become operative on finished materials and Nov. 1 as the date on raw products, have been taken to Washington by W. H. Sykes of the Van Ingen firm. According to information given yesterday, Mr. Sykes made the trip especially to find if the time was ripe for presenting the petition to Congress, but those in position to speak authoritatively had not been informed as to whether it had been presented.

Merchants' Association in New Home

The Merchants' Association of New York has finished moving from its former quarters on Lafayette Street, and is now on the ninth floor of the Woolworth Building. Practically all the various bureaus of the association are already in working order, but it will take a week or two for complete settlement in the new quarters.

⁂

Blue to Lead Fall Color Scheme.

Selling agents of dress fabrics here say that blue will lead the Fall color scheme. Most-wanted shades are navy and hague. Brown is in good request, with snuff, golden brown, mahogany, and seal the shades most ordered. Purple, ranging from wistaria to dark, moves well, as do various shades of red. Ruby red, which did not meet the large demand expected last year, has a strong position now. Russian green is especially wanted in lustred fabrics, while strawberry shades are well received for trimming purposes. Taupe holds its own, with the moleskin shade the favorite.

Postmaster Morgan a[illegible] that mails of the following dates—Ko[illegible]il 8, and Yokohama, April 9—which [illegible] at Seattle per steamer Awa Maru, w[illegible]atched east at 7:10 P. M. April 24. Due in New York on the morning of Tuesday, April 29.

Postmaster Morgan announces that mails of the following dates—Wellington, March 30; Auckland, March 31; Melbourne, April 4; Sydney, April 5, and Honolulu, April 19—which arrived at San Francisco per steamer Ventura, were dispatched east at 2 P. M. and 6:40 P. M. April 25. Due in New York on the morning of Wednesday, April 30.

Post Office Notice.

Information has been received from Postmaster Morgan that the supplementary mail on steamship piers for steamers which do not carry sea Post Offices will, from May 1 to 28, 1913, inclusive, be closed one-half hour before the sailing time of steamers, instead of ten minutes earlier, as at present. This extra time is needed for the preparation of the Postal Union transit statistics required to be taken during that period by the Universal Postal Convention. The supplementary mails on steamship piers for steamers carrying sea Post Offices will continue to close ten minutes before sailing time. The foreign mail schedules issued by the Post Office indicate which steamers carry sea Post Offices.

NAVY LEAGUE BARRED.

No Place for Its Delegates on Peace Congress Programme.

ST. LOUIS, April 28.—The Navy League of the United States may send delegates to the Fourth American Peace Congress, which convenes here next Thursday, but the delegates will not have a place on the programme. This was the substance of a telegram sent to the Navy League at Washington to-day by Arthur D. Call, Executive Director of the Peace Congress.

The Navy League has requested the privilege of being represented in the Congress, and news came from Washington that a delegation would come to St. Louis and demand a hearing. The dispatch said that the delegation would be headed by Herbert L. Satterlee, son-in-law of the late J. P. Morgan. Director Call telegraphed to the Navy League that its delegation would be welcome, but that the programme for the Peace Congress was complete.

"We have listened in the past to the Navy League's arguments," said Director Call to-day, "and we do not feel that they have acted quite fairly. A few years ago they were urging the need of ships until the Panama Canal should be completed. The Canal, they said, would double the effectiveness of the Navy. Now that the canal is about to be opened they tell us it will increase our coast line, and that additional battleships will be required to protect it. We now have 38 dreadnoughts, and they insist that we should have 48."

SCHOOLS TO CELEBRATE.

Arbor Day, Peace Day, and Flag Day to be Observed.

City Superintendent Maxwell has sent circulars to the Public School Principals with regard to the observance of Arbor Day, Peace Day, and Flag Day.

He says that he wishes to emphasize particularly the importance of making the actual planting of trees, shrubs and flowers, or the planting of seeds the chief feature of Arbor Day on May 2.

It has been found impossible by the Board of Education to provide funds for the cutting of sidewalks and paved surfaces or for any expenditure for any purpose in connection with the planting of trees on that occasion.

As May 18, the anniversary of the opening of the first Hague Conference, falls this year on Sunday, the school exercises will be held on Friday, May 16. Dr. Maxwell says that the exercises at the morning assembly should show the origin of the Hague Peace Conference, the work it has achieved and the great benefits that would accrue to all Nations through the adoption of the policy of arbitration.

The 136th anniversary of the adoption of the flag by Congress falls this year on Saturday, June 14. The school exercises for that reason will be held on Friday, June 13.

TO TEACH CITIZENSHIP.

New York University to Found a Centre on West Side.

It was announced at yesterday's meeting of the Council of New York University that the university had been made substitute trustee under the will of Theodore G. White, who died in July, 1901, leaving in trust an estate worth approximately $80,000, the income from which is to be used for the maintenance of a clubhouse for social or educational work among young men and boys on the west side.

The university plans through the Division of Public Affairs, of which Prof. Jeremiah W. Jenks is Director, to establish a centre on the west side where young men and boys of the city may be instructed in the rights and duties of citizenship and inspired to take an intelligent and active interest in the various problems of municipal government. All such efforts and instruction will be strictly non-partisan.

Announcement was also made of the gift of John T. Underwood of $600 for the establishment of courses in music in the University College, and Mr. Frank L. Bibb was appointed instructor in music to give the courses.

Prof. H. G. Chapin of the Fordham Law School and Prof. D. Frederick Burnett of the New Jersey Law School were appointed to the Faculty of the University Law School.

Gifts to the amount of $106,428.07 were reported as having been received since the February meeting of the council. The council adopted the budget for the year 1913-14, which provides for an expenditure of $536,000, of which $367,000 is for instruction.

The council adopted resolutions regarding the services of Frederick W. De Voe, who died on March 21, 1913, and who had been a member of the council since 1903. Resolutions were also adopted on the services of Commissioner Draper to the cause of education in the State of New York.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Rally from Trading Pressure at Opening and Then React.

If Saturday's market supplied some indication that the pressure of liquidation was lessening the opening of trading yesterday offered even clearer signs that efforts were being made to continue the market on its downward course. The day's incidents offered no other sufficient explanation for the losses of a point or more on the very first transactions in several of the stocks in which large trading operations are conducted. Nor did that mark the full extent of the break in these issues, for the opening declines in some cases were followed by further sharp recessions. Meanwhile there was considerable absorption of stocks, much of it possibly for the short account, but the unwonted activity did not last much beyond mid-morning. More than half of the day's trading was recorded during the first hour, and thereafter the market drifted into extreme dullness after a substantial upturn from the early low prices. The lack of trading initiative which was shown after prices had risen invited some fresh selling, and quotations again yielded enough to leave the market at the end of the day a substantial fraction below Saturday's final prices. In the early dealings a new low level for the year was established. Apart from the increased concern which the European markets were manifesting over the Balkan situation there was no news yesterday of major importance bearing upon the market position. Nor was Europe's uneasiness the primary explanation of the early declines here. The principal European Bourses developed some weakness, but foreign selling here was not heavy, and, in fact, London sent over higher prices for a number of the international stocks.

Upon the real character of the buying and selling in the first hour of trading yesterday depends in considerable degree the technical position of the market at the moment. If, as it seemed to some, prices were forced downward sharply to permit of extensive short covering, the technical position has to some extent been weakened. Yesterday was the sixth consecutive day of reaction. During this period there probably was considerable buying for the short account, but fresh commitments on that side of the market seemed more than to offset the short covering. But the presence of the short interest did not prevent a continuous decline. It is not clearly inferable, therefore, that a considerable volume of short covering yesterday has left the market any more subject than it previously had been to the influence of factors making for lower quotations. Prices have been suffering from the coincidence of numerous uncertainties. Some of these are clearly probabilities, but others are merely possibilities that are capable of being resolved favorably. Thus, for instance, with the concern which was felt yesterday over the Eureopean political situation. The markets abroad and sentiment here to some extent were disturbed for fear Austria might undertake alone a step which the powers unitedly are decided upon, and less the very doing by Austria of the thing which the Governments of Europe have practically agreed upon doing in concert should destroy that concert and bring serious new complications in a situation which all have lately been hoping was near a happy solution. But a solution which would belie these fears may be found at any moment and a happy aspect again put upon a political situation which has long been a cause of uneasiness. So with some of our home problems offsetting influences may be found, though the feeling that the net balance may be unfavorable, has been chilling market enthusiasm.

We might well, after all, do less trade at more profit and a contraction in the mere size of our commercial operations compared with recent maxima would not necessarily have to be regarded in the light of an unmixed evil. Some of the problems with which we are to-day confronted are very closely related with the effort which a certain number of those contributing to the country's industrial activity have made to do more business than their own position, or perhaps the position of the credit situation as a whole warranted. We cannot, perhaps, grow as slowly as we would need to grow to avoid all danger of reaction, but the very process of moving more slowly than we have been, industrially and commercially, if that, indeed, is the prospect, will bring a self cure of some of the present-day problems. With the credit situation eased and with capital again flowing more freely into investments, the fundamental upbuilding factors in the country's position would again assert themselves with vigor and assurance. What the recent stock market has been reflecting, taking it in the main, has been uncertainty over the length of time which might be required by and over the circumstances attending the readjustments leading up to such a condition.

MONEY AND EXCHANGE.

Money on call loaned on Stock Exchange collateral at 2½@3 per cent., with the last loan at 2¾ per cent. Most of the day's business was done at 2¾ per cent.

Time money rates were 4@4¼ per cent. for two to four months, 4¼@4½ per cent., for five and six months, and 5@5¼ per cent. for nine and ten months.

Commercial paper was quoted at 5½@6 per cent. for the best names.

Clearing House exchanges, $209,539,096; balances, $12,081,849; Sub-Treasury credit balances, $351,914.

The local banks have loaned $958,000 on their Sub-Treasury operations since Friday.

FOREIGN RATES.

Discount rates abroad yesterday were: London, 3¼@3 9-16 per cent. for short bills, 3 11-16@3¾ per cent. for three months; Paris, 4 per cent., and Berlin 4⅝ per cent. Money was 2¾@3 per cent. in London, and 3 per cent. in Berlin.

The Paris check rate on London was 25f. 20c., and the Berlin check rate on London was 20 marks 47 pfennigs.

Foreign exchange rates at the points noted were quoted as follows at the close of business yesterday:

CABLE AND SIGHT RATES.

London—Cable, $4.87; demand, high, $4.8675; low, $4.8665; last, $4.8670.

Paris—Cable, 5.17½; check, 5.18⅛ plus 1-32.

Berlin—Cable, 95 3-16; check, 95⅛ less 1-32.

Switzerland—Cable, 5.18¾ less 1-16; check, 5.19⅜ less 1-32.

SIXTY AND NINETY DAY BILLS.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

New Low Level for the Year.

A new low level of stock market quotations for the year was set yesterday, as indicated by the average figures of fifty railroad and industrial shares. The railroad stocks stood at 83.39 and the industrials at 57.29, twenty-five issues being counted into the total in each case. The combined average price was 70.34. This table shows a comparison of prices of the more prominent shares, with their market values a year ago, the final quotations being used:

	Yesterday.	Apr. 28, 1912.
Atchison	101	109⅛
Baltimore & Ohio	98¼	109½
Brooklyn Rapid Transit	89¼	83⅝
N. Y. Central	101⅞	120¼
Erie	27¾	37⅝
Great Northern pf	126⅛	132½
Lehigh Valley	154½	168¼
Northern Pacific	114¼	121⅝
St. Paul	107	110¾
Reading	160	174
Southern Pacific	98⅝	113¼
Union Pacific	148¾	173½
Smelters	66⅞	86
Copper	72⅝	84¾
U. S. Steel	60¼	71⅞

Brooklyn Rapid Transit alone of the fifteen issues cited, it will be seen, has maintained an advantage in the year.

⁂

Mr. Schwab's New Market.

Through the purchase of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company Charles M. Schwab has acquired a market for many of the special products turned out by the Bethlehem Steel works. The Bethlehem plants always have been noted for the manufacture of armor plate and ordnance material, and, in addition, they have devoted more attention to the manufacture of structural shapes of unusual design than any other steel company in the country. For this reason the Bethlehem Corporation's equipment is peculiarly adapted for making the steel required in building ships, whether of the naval or the merchant class. A comment made on Mr. Schwab's acquisition of another ship yard by a Boston writer was to the effect that if the steelmaker could not expect to make any money on the actual construction of vessels he was assured of a channel for disposing of considerable of his wares. The Fore River Company is reported to have contracts on its books for building twenty-three ships at a cost of about $22,000,000.

Long-Time Liquidation.

The committee in charge of the liquidation of the United States and Mexican Trust Company discovered in looking into the company's affairs that its efforts would extend over a long period of years. It was stated yesterday by an officer of the company that the most valuable asset is a tract of about 70,000 acres of agricultural land in Texas that will require the expenditure of more than $1,000,000 for development work before the best possible price can be obtained. The plan to be followed is, first, to dispose of the company's interest in the Howard real estate properties along Jamaica Bay, and use the proceeds in getting the Texas land in shape to market. In a statement to stockholders the committee announced that arrangements already had been made to reduce the expense of managing the company in the period of liquidation from a sum considerably more than $200,000 last year to approximately $48,000 a year.

More Gold to Canada.

Gold to the amount of $500,000 was withdrawn from the Sub-Treasury yesterday for shipment to Canada. The consignments of gold from New York to leading financial centres of the Dominion so far this month aggregate $1,700,000.

⁂

February Rail Earnings.

The aggregate showing of about 90 per cent. of the country's railroads for February, as made up by the Washington Bureau of Railway Economics, is unfair to the current results in that the second month contained 28 days this year and 29 days in 1912. Even with one day against them, the aggregate earnings of the roads were increased considerably this year over last. Total operating revenues were $225,376,000, an increase of nearly $14,000,000. Operating expenses increased for the same month $11,764,000. The net, after expenses, but before deductions for taxes, amounted to $57,617,000, an increase of $1,922,000 over February, 1912. The operating ratio made another advance: from 73.7 per cent. in 1911 it moved up to 74 per cent. in 1912, and to 74.4 per cent. in 1913. This is explained principally on the score of the increase granted to the engineers since last year. Next year there may be an opportunity to explain a further advance in the ratio on the ground of the higher wages paid to the firemen, and the enactment of full-crew laws by several of the State Legislatures.

Northern Pacific in March.

So far as they have come to hand the March statements have been very satisfactory. The Northern Pacific reported yesterday gross revenues for that month of $5,619,000, a gain of $690,000 over March of 1912. Operating expenses increased $556,000, but about half of this increase was due to expenditures for maintenance of way and was incurred voluntarily. One of the higher costs of railroading, which is beyond the company's control, is the regular increase in taxes; for March the Northern Pacific paid $385,000, which is $90,000 more than the assessments for the corresponding month of last year. Whereas the net earnings after expenses carried a gain of $134,000 over March of 1912, the net revenue available for interest and dividends decreased $113,000, owing to the higher taxes and decreases in miscellaneous income and hire of equipment payments.

Good Outlook for Year.

The slowing down in business, of which complaint is being heard from New England and to a less extent from other parts of the country, has not reached the Northwest yet. March business on the Northern Pacific was better than February's, and April results, so far as they are obtainable, show a lead over the corresponding period of 1912. The net earnings of the Hill roads for the current month will not show the increases that might be expected for the reason that the companies are exerting themselves to lay as much rail as possible before the first of July. Labor, which is scarce and high now, is expected to be employed on the farms by midsummer. The Northern Pacific can stand an increase in its maintenance costs for a few months. At the end of March its gross revenues lead those for the first nine months of 1912 by $7,606,000, while net was larger by $2,242,000. It is reasonably certain that the end of the year will see a substantially increased surplus for dividends.

Sells Railroad for $3,000,000.

DENVER, Colo., April 28.—The property of the Denver, Northwestern & Pacific Railway (the Moffat road) was sold at public auction to-day for $3,000,000 to the bondholders, represented by Benjamin Strong, Jr., and George H. Burr. The purchase price of $3,000,000 was the minimum prescribed by the United States District Court in the order for the sale.

The sale was conducted by George L. Hodges, Master in Chancery, and resulted from the foreclosure of a mortgage.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

Curb Trading Moderately Active —Prices Irregular— Bonds Quiet.

Transactions in unlisted securities yesterday showed a moderate volume, with prices irregular. United Cigar Stores rose to 89½ and closed at 89, an advance of ¾. Tobacco Products preferred fell to 79½ from the opening sale at 82½. A sharp rally closed the stock at 85, a net gain of 2 points. Bonds were quiet and steady.

BOURSES OF EUROPE

Albanian Developments Cause Uneasiness and Lower Prices in London, Paris, and Berlin.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Tuesday, April 29.—The Times says in its City article to-day:

"Money was again more wanted yesterday at 3 per cent., the usual charge for both day-to-day loans and weekly fixtures, at which rate the India Council again renewed a fair amount. Discount quotations were firmer.

"A line of Lake Shore & Michigan Southern one-year notes was placed at 5¼ per cent. discount.

"Out of a parcel of bar gold on offer in the open market about £900,000 is expected to go to the Bank. Paris cheque fell 2c. Berlin sight rate also moved in an adverse direction.

"New business on the Stock Exchange was on a disappointingly small scale. The tone was dull throughout, there being a disposition to reduce commitments on the latest developments of the Balkan situation. In one or two directions prices hardened slightly toward the close, but the result of the day's business was to leave prices below Saturday's closing level in nearly all departments.

"Chinese and Brazilian securities were marked down, in view of the issue of new loans. Canadian Pacific and American shares showed an appreciative decline. The most interesting event of the day was the underwriting of the new issue of £11,000,000 Brazilian Government 5 per cent. stock. The price of the issue will be 97."

PARIS, April 28.—Prices were weak on the Bourse to-day.

Three per cent rentes, 86 francs 10 centimes for the account.

BERLIN, April 28.—The Boerse was weak and nervous to-day owing to the Scutari situation.

Russian Bank shares were depressed, and prices generally declined from two to three points.

NEW ST. LOUIS BANK HEAD.

W. F. Carter Goes to the Commerce at a $25,000 Salary.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, April 28.—W. Frank Carter, Vice President of the St. Louis Mercantile Trust Company and the Mercantile National Bank of St. Louis, will be made President of the National Bank of Commerce, the largest west of the Mississippi River, at a salary of $25,000 a year.

He is 45 years old and a graduate of Washington University and the Michigan University Law School. He was active in the practice of law up to the time he entered the Mercantile Trust Company six years ago.

It is understood that the largest holders of Bank of Commerce stock view the election of Mr. Carter as an assurance of great gains in the bank.

After B. F. Edwards resigned the Presidency of the National Bank, Mr. Carter's name was brought before the Directors by financiers who had watched his work in liquidating the affairs of the Missouri Lincoln Trust Company, which was taken over by the Mercantile.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

While the market on the Consolidated Stock Exchange rallied after an early break in prices, the recovery lacked snap, and with the better range of prices it lapsed into dullness. On the early break the levels touched on the Consolidated were generally slightly above the low figures reached on the New York Stock Exchange. This reflected bidding by operators who were short and were willing to take advantage of the decline to secure profits.

INVESTMENT SECURITIES

A Standard Safe Investment

First mortgages on improved real estate have been a standard safe investment for centuries. Dividing up such a mortgage into an issue of First Mortgage Bonds does not lessen the safety of the mortgage, and makes it available for sums of any size.

We offer first mortgage real estate bonds secured by the highest class of improved city property, in denominations of $100, $500, $1,000 and $5,000, netting 5½ to 6 per cent.

NEW HAVEN'S BOOKS PUZZLE TO EXPERTS

Witness Says One Entry Made $7,500,000 Deficit Appear as $12,500,000 Surplus.

BRANDEIS UNDER HOT FIRE

Attorney's Methods Assailed by Charles F. Choate, Personal Counsel for Mr. Mellen.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, April 28.—David E. Brown, the Interstate Commerce Commission's expert, gave some more examples of the New Haven Railroad Company's bookkeeping methods when he resumed his testimony at the Federal inquiry today. He mentioned an instance where he said premiums on stock sales amounting to $20,000,000 had been credited to profit and loss instead of premium liability. A credit to premium liability in this case, he said, would have converted a surplus of $12,500,000 into a deficit of $7,500,000.

Mr. Brown testified regarding other entries included among the assets, which, he thought, should have been included among liabilities. Had these items been charged according to the witness's idea of proper accounting, they would have shown $3,696,000 additional liabilities.

There were numerous lively tilts between the lawyers.

Charles F. Choate, who appeared last week, as he said, as a private citizen, interrupted Louis D. Brandeis often in the course of the examination of Mr. Brown, and in response to a direct question, admitted that he was Charles S. Mellen's personal counsel.

Interruptions by Mr. Choate and of Vice President Buckland of the New Haven made Mr. Brandeis angry, and he finally appealed to Ward Prouty, who was presiding. Mr. Prouty said he would allow Mr. Brandeis to put in his case as he chose.

At one point, when Mr. Buckland interupted, Mr. Brandeis exclaimed: "I am examining this witness. If you want to cross-examine him, you will have ample opportunity to do so."

"Well," said Mr. Buckland, "I don't think Mr. Brandeis wants to bring out anything that is not the truth."

"This is the truth," thundered Mr. Brandeis.

"Half of it," said Mr. Choate.

Brown said that for the year ended June 30, 1903, the New Haven's gross operating revenues amounted to $47,296,077. The figures for the year ended June 30, 1912 were $67,359,218, showing an increase of approximately 42 per cent. in nine years.

The gross operating revenues for the year ended June 30, 1906, were $52,984,322. The increase from that date to June 30, 1912, was approximately 27 per cent. The New Haven's report to its stockholders in 1903 was introduced and showed that the gross revenue from rail and steamer lines was nearly $52,000,000, indicating that the $47,296,077 mentioned by the witness represented steam railway revenue.

The capital stock, funded indebtedness, bills payable, and premiums received on capital stock of the New Haven Company was about $94,000,000 in 1903, and $470,000,000 in 1912, according to the witness, an increase in nine years of $376,000,000, or about 400 per cent.

Mr. Brandeis brought out that the increase in the capitalization was about ten times as great as the increase in the revenue.

At this point Mr. Choate protested that such comparison and use of figures were improper and misleading, because no account was taken of the increase of assets and other elements entering into the matter.

Mr. Brown said the figures of aggregate capital indebtedness given by the New Haven did not include such contingent liabilities as guarrantees on the debentures and other obligations assumed by the company on account of some of its subsidiaries.

Among the contingent liabilities that he mentioned were $100,000 a month on account of the New York, Westchester & Boston road; $2,800,000 on account of the Boston Railroad Holding Company; a $4,000,000 guarrantee on outstanding stock of the New England Investment & Security Company, and $3,387,000 on account of the Springfield Railway Company.

NEW HAVEN, April 28.—At the office of Charles Mellen President of the New Haven Railroad it was announced to-day that he would not go upon the stand at the hearing of the Inter-State Commerce Commission in Boston, but would answer the charges made against him and his management, through his attorney.

GAYNOR AGAINST MONOPOLY

Urges Legislature to Pass the Stage Coach Franchise Bill.

Mayor Gaynor telegraphed yesterday to Senator Wagner, Democratic leader of the Senate, urging the adoption of the Pollock-Walker bill, which would break the practical monopoly enjoyed by the Fifth Avenue Coach Company of the streets of the city. The telegram read:

> We earnestly hope the Stage Coach Franchise bill will not be allowed to fail. The stage monopoly should be broken. Case not covered by the Home Rule bill.

The Pollock-Walker bill does not affect any of the franchises at present owned by the Fifth Avenue Coach Company, but it places that company on the same footing as any other concern in the obtaining of new franchises, and makes it impossible for a company which has obtained a franchise to a street to exclude all competitors from it forever.

TACOMA, located on Puget Sound, enjoys one of the finest natural harbors in the world and is one of the largest manufacturing centers of the Pacific Northwest. Four great trans-continental railroads furnish transportation facilities and have extensive terminals here. It enjoys a large commerce with South America, Europe, Alaska and the Orient. The city owns its own water, light and power plant, the net earnings of which for the year 1912 were $234,611.

Bonds of the City of Tacoma have within the last four years been offered to investors as high as a 4% interest basis, equivalent to the average maturity of this issue at a price of over 110 and accrued interest.

Are You Satisfied with Your Present Income?

A safe and logical method that an investor can employ at this time to make his money earn more is to purchase the preferred stocks which some of our strongest corporations have issued during the past few years.
The preferred stocks we suggest not only yield 7% or even better, but are secured by tangible assets in much the same way as mortgage bonds. These preferred stocks are as attractive to the man with $100 to invest as the one with $10,000. Let us send you circular LT.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

Wheat was active and strong yesterday, closing at a net advance of ⅝ to ¾c. Corn sold off ⅛ to ⅝c. on favorable weather reports, but steadied up later on the visible supply decrease. Oats closed ⅛ to ¼c. net higher. Cotton again reached new low figures on this movement, with the close 6 to 13 points net lower, with the exception of April, which closed at a net advance of 7 points.

⁂

WHEAT.

The wheat market started out strong and active yesterday on cable news, and after a period of reaction at midday turned stronger again in the last hour, and wound up with an advance of ⅝@¾c per bushel. The first upturn was accompanied by considerable covering of shorts and a fair commission house demand in line with the cables, which were ⅜@⅝c higher from Liverpool, ¼@⅜c better from Berlin, and ⅝c higher from Budapest. Private cables attributed this strength to less favorable conditions in the Balkans and world's shipments of only 13,136,000 bushels, compared with 14,544,000 bushels the previous week, together with a decrease of 3,504,000 bushels in the quantity on passage. Realizing developed on the early bulge, however, and most of the advance was lost around midday, owing to continued flattering crop and weather advices from all parts of the West. The second upturn in the market came as a result of export rumors, the visible supply decrease of 2,172,000 bushels and reports that chinch bugs were very numerous in Missouri. Being a little oversold, the market advanced very rapidly on this news, and closed at about top point of the day. From nearly all the crop experts now in the Southwest the messages were very optimistic, some authorities claiming, for instance, that nearly all wheat in Kansas is perfect in stand, color, and growth, and reiterating last week's predictions for a record crop in that State from present indications. The expert talk involved about five loads at Chicago and fifty loads at Montreal. In the Canadian visible there was a decrease for the week of 8,520,000 bushels, due to the eastward movement of wheat from Canadian lake ports. The forecast for both Winter and Spring wheat belts was for clear and warmer conditions, and Canadian advices claimed that over half the wheat seeding had been completed. Red wheat in the local market was still nominal, and No. 1 Northern Duluth closed at $1.03, free on board, afloat.

CORN.

On account of very favorable weather for field work, the corn market, after opening a little higher with wheat, sold off ⅛c to ⅝c per bushel, but steadied up again later on the visible supply decrease of 3,635,000 bushels and reports of higher cash markets in the West, which induced commission house buying. The interior movement was also rather light. In Liverpool cables there was a partial decline of ⅛d and world's shipments amounted to 4,139,000 bushels, compared with 3,181,000 bushels the previous week. Export corn in the local market was quoted at 62¼c, nominal, free on board, afloat.

OATS.

There was a steady opening in oats, following other markets, but the weather conditions were so favorable that commission house selling became quite a factor and prices worked off ⅛c to ¼c under the previous close. From this there was a final rally on the visible supply decrease of 952,000 bushels and a fair cash demand, the close being ⅛c to ¼c net higher. Cash oats were steady in the local market, closing as follows: Standard white, 41c nominal; No. 3, 40½c to 41c; No. 4, 39½c to 40c; natural white, 38½c to 41c; white clipped, 39c to 42c, all track.

PROVISIONS.

Heavy receipts caused an early break in provisions, but the market steadied up a little in the afternoon with grain. Commission houses were fair buyers in the afternoon, but there was little demand during the morning to absorb the liberal offerings. Receipts at Chicago aggregated 60,000 hogs, and the West had 113,000, of which 8,000 were at Kansas City and 7,000 at Omaha.

COTTON.

The feature in the cotton market yesterday was the issuance of May notices estimated at about 80,000 bales. From all accounts these notices circulated pretty well through the Street, but were gradually stopped, partly by Liverpool people, and partly, it was said, by the same interests which had previously controlled the local stock. There was a good demand for May around the ring on an opening decline, and there was rather a sharp rally during the early trading, when it became evident that the notices would not go begging, but no general or aggressive covering movement developed, nor did there appear to be any important bull support, and as soon as the scattering old crop short interest had secured cover, the market weakened, with all positions making new low records for the movement. The close was steady and a few points up from the lowest on some months, with April showing a net advance of 7 points, but with other positions from 6 to 13 points net lower. The talk was that houses with Liverpool connections had stopped notices representing between 10,000 and 18,000 bales, but that the bulk of the tenders had gone back to local spot people. Usually well informed traders said that Liverpool had been prepared to take up between 40,000 and 50,000 bales and made this the basis for predicting that there would be further tenders before the end of the month, but it was the most general idea around the ring that outside interest in May had been reduced to a minimum, and that any further adjustment in that position would be between local spot people and the possible remaining straddle interest. The failure of the development in May to start any general buying movement was undoubtedly a disappointment to more bullishly disposed local traders, and sentiment appeared to be very bearish in the late trading on a favorable view of weather and new crop conditions.

The market opened steady at a decline of 6 points to an advance of 2 points, and during the early trading sold 8 to 12 points net higher on the old crop, and 4 or 5 points above the closing figures of last week on new crop positions. The market broke sharply from this level, and October contracts sold below 11 cents for the first time this season. There was enough covering to check the decline around this level and cause moderate rallies toward the close. Liverpool was a shade lower than expected. Private cables reported Continental and spot house selling, the former of which was supposed to be influenced by adverse developments in the Balkans. Increased acreage is predicted for Louisiana, Arkansas and Tennessee, and the overflow at St. John Lake, La., attracted little attention, as the parishes flooded produced only about 26,000 bales last season. Southern spot markets officially reported were unchanged to ⅛c lower.

The range of contract prices in the local market was as follows:

COTTONSEED OIL.

There was an active trade in oil again yesterday with a sharp advance in prices notwithstanding early weakness in lard. Tenders of 2,000 barrels on May contracts were not so large as expected, and the market also had support from refiners in the afternoon. Crude was reported to be in a firm position with offerings light.

COFFEE.

Coffee ruled generally firm, with very light offerings. Foreign markets held firm in view of the unsettled political situation. Firm offers from Brazil showed continued strength, the more desirable grades being held very firmly. Deliveries for last week were on a somewhat more liberal scale.

Spot coffee firmer. Rio 7s, 11⅛c.

Total warehouse deliveries in the United States last week were 133,259 bags, against 101,175 bags last week and 155,345 bags last year. Of the former amount New York had 78,872 bags.

Receipts at Rio and Santos last week aggregated 51,000 bags, against 56,000 bags last week, 42,000 bags last year, and 35,000 bags two years ago.

ENGINEERS.

What Do We Do?

More than can be told here, but, as an example, we were designing the steel framing of the Pennsylvania Station in New York City (50,000 tons) at the same time that we were designing portions of a 50 horsepower aluminum aeroplane (1,350 lbs.)

TOWN OF SENECA FALLS,
Seneca Co., New York,
REFUNDING BONDS.

Sealed proposals will be received by the undersigned, until May 7th, 1913, at 2:30 o'clock P. M., for the purchase of $110,000 of Refunding Bonds of the Town of Seneca Falls, N. Y., to be issued to pay off, retire, and cancel a like amount of bonds of said Town maturing July 1, 1913.

The issue is to be composed of 110 bonds of $1,000 each, to be dated July 1, 1913, and to be payable $10,000 on July 1, 1915, and $10,000 on July 1 of each and every year thereafter until all are paid; with semi-annual interest, payable on January 1 and July 1 of each year from their date until paid; and said bonds to be issued in pursuance of Section 8 of the General Municipal Law and in accordance with the requirements of said General Municipal Law and of the County Law.

Intending purchasers will quote the amount offered for said bonds and the proposed rate of interest which said bonds must bear under their offer.

The entire debt of the Town is $130,000, of which $110,000 is proposed to be retired and paid off by the Refunding Bonds of this issue; and the value of the real estate of said Town, as shown by the last assessment roll, to be taxed for the payment of the said Refunding Bonds is in excess of three million dollars.

A certified check of a National bank, payable to the order of William E. Hull, Supervisor, for one per cent. of the amount of the bid, must accompany each proposal.

The right to reject any or all bids is reserved.

Dated Seneca Falls, N. Y., April 21st, 1913.

TO THE HOLDERS OF THE First Lien Refunding Five Per Cent Gold Bonds OF THE KANSAS CITY RAILWAY & LIGHT COMPANY
Maturing May 15, 1913.

In view of the approaching maturity, on May 15, 1913, of the above-mentioned Bonds and of the fact that other large issues of bonds and notes secured upon property of the Company or of some of its subsidiary corporations have matured and are about to mature, the undersigned, holding and representing a large amount of the First Lien Refunding Bonds, (certain of the undersigned being also members of the Committee representing the Company's Gold Notes or of the Committee representing the Metropolitan Street Railway Five Per Cent. Bonds, and as such already familiar with the situation of the Company's affairs and properties,) believe it of importance that the holders of the Bonds above mentioned shall be in a position for prompt and concerted action before the date of maturity of these Bonds, and, therefore, have consented to act as a committee for the protection of the interests of the holders of the First Lien Refunding Five Per Cent. Gold Bonds.

Holders of these Bonds are requested to deposit their bonds, with May 15, 1913, coupons attached, on or before MAY 1, 1913, with THE NEW YORK TRUST COMPANY, 26 Broad Street, New York City, as depositary under an agreement providing for such deposits dated April 3, 1913. Transferable certificates of deposit will be issued therefor. Deposits may also be made with the OLD COLONY TRUST COMPANY, 17 Court Street, Boston, the agent of the depositary.

The Committee will collect interest on the Bonds, if and as paid, and when received will promptly pay the same to the holders of certificates of deposit representing the Bonds in respect whereof such payments of interest shall be made. No plan of reorganization or of refinancing which does not involve realizing in cash for the benefit of the Bondholders the full amount due upon their securities will be undertaken by the Committee until the same shall have been submitted to depositors as provided in the deposit agreement. Copies of the deposit agreement may be obtained by application either to the depositary or to its agent above mentioned. More detailed information may be obtained by application to the Secretary of the Committee.

Detroit Southern Railroad Co.
OHIO SOUTHERN DIVISION
FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS

To Holders of Certificates of Deposit of Central Trust Company of New York issued under the Deposit Agreement dated November 8, 1909, and representing Ohio Southern Division First Mortgage Four Per Cent. Gold Bonds of Detroit Southern Railroad Company, and to the Holders of the said Bonds.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Committee constituted by the above mentioned Deposit Agreement has approved and adopted a certain Plan and Agreement dated April 14, 1913, for the reorganization of the property subject to the lien of the above mentioned mortgage, and that a copy of said Plan and Agreement has been filed with Central Trust Company of New York as Depositary under said agreement

Over ninety-two per cent. of the outstanding Ohio Southern Division First Mortgage Bonds have already been deposited under the Deposit Agreement. Unless within the period of twenty days from the first publication of this notice holders of outstanding certificates of deposit representing fifty per cent. in face amount of the deposited bonds shall file notice in writing with the Depositary under the Deposit Agreement that they dissent from the Plan and Agreement of reorganization, such Plan and Agreement will be binding on all holders of certificates of deposit, all of whom shall be conclusively and finally deemed for all purposes to have assented to the said Plan and Agreement and the terms thereof, whether they receive actual notice or not, and be irrevocably bound and concluded by the same.

Bondholders and holders of certificates of deposit will be permitted to share in the Reorganization only upon subscribing and paying to CENTRAL TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK, the Depositary, at its office, No. 54 Wall Street, New York City, for the purposes of the Reorganization, $500 in New York funds for each bond of the face value of $1,000 deposited by them, the first instalment of 20 per cent. of the amount so payable, viz.: $100 for each bond of the face value of $1,000, being payable on or before MAY 10, 1913, and the balance in one or more instalments as called for by the Reorganization Committee, on not less than two weeks' published notice given as provided in the Plan and Agreement of Reorganization. For such payments to be made by depositors under the Plan and Agreement and in exchange for the bonds deposited by them, depositors will be entitled to receive, upon the completion of the Reorganization, in case the Plan shall have been declared operative, for each $1,000 in cash payable by them, $1,000 in new Adjustment Mortgage Bonds, $2,000 in new preferred stock, and $1,000 in new common stock, as provided in the Plan and Agreement of Reorganization. Certificates of deposit must be presented to the Depositary at the time of the payment of the instalments payable in respect thereof for the appropriate notation thereon of such payment.

Holders of bonds who have not already deposited the same under the Deposit Agreement may become parties to the Plan and Agreement of Reorganization by depositing their bonds in negotiable form with the coupon maturing March 1, 1912, and all subsequent coupons thereto attached, with the Depositary under said Deposit Agreement, on or before MAY 10, 1913, receiving certificates of deposit therefor issued under the Deposit Agreement, with appropriate notation showing that the holders of said certificates have assented to the Plan and Agreement of Reorganization, and by paying to the Depositary the amounts payable under said Plan and Agreement as hereinbefore stated within the times limited for such payment.

Copies of the Plan and Agreement of Reorganization may be obtained from the Depositary or from the Secretary of the Committee.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—As a result of the continuance of low pressure over the Atlantic States, the weather remained unsettled, with scattered rains during the last twenty-four hours over much of the country east of the Mississippi River. West of the Mississippi the weather was fair and warm, except in the North Pacific States, where it was cloudy, with showers.

Moderately cool weather for the season is reported from the Eastern States, the Ohio Valley, and the lake region. The weather will be unsettled, with probable showers Tuesday, in the North Atlantic States, the upper Ohio Valley, and the lake region, followed by cloudy in these districts Wednesday. In all other parts of the country the weather will be fair Tuesday and Wednesday.

Temperature will rise Tuesday in the Ohio and Mississippi Valleys and the Southeast, and remain moderate elsewhere.

Winds along the New England Coast will be moderate variable; Middle Atlantic Coast, moderate variable, mostly west and northwest; South Atlantic Coast, moderate west.

Steamships departing Tuesday for European ports will have moderate variable winds and overcast, showery weather to the Grand Banks.

FORECAST FOR TO-DAY AND WEDNESDAY.

Eastern New York and New England—Unsettled, probably showers Tuesday, Wednesday, cloudy; light to moderate variable winds.

New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania—Unsettled Tuesday, Wednesday fair; light to moderate variable winds, mostly west and northwest.

Western New York—Unsettled Tuesday, Wednesday, fair; moderate northeast and north winds.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

The Levy bill amending the Greater New York Charter so as to provide school children who need them with spectacles or eyeglasses has passed the Assembly and may pass the Senate this week. Dr. C. Ward Crampton, Director of Physical Training in the Department of Education, is in favor of the bill. Associate City Supt. John H. Haaren doubts the wisdom of the legislation. He believes that the expense to the city would amount to hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The death of Dr. Andrew S. Draper, State Superintendent of Education, has led to a renewal of the rumor that City Supt. William H. Maxwell may be chosen as his successor.

THE CIVIL SERVICE

City.

Chief Examiner Ireland has notified the Municipal Civil Service Commission that the examination for promotion to clerk, second grade, held Jan. 31, was completed April 21.

The commission has approved these reports of Assistant Chief Examiner Murray:

Recommending that the commission grant the request of the Commissioner of Correction for an examination for promotion to the position of Warden, to be open to all persons employed under the titles of Deputy Warden and Head Keeper, who have served for not less than six months in the position and who are otherwise eligible; also that a careful physical examination be given to the candidates.

Saying that, in his opinion, the transfer of Charles E. Salek from playground attendant to instructor (gymnasium) may be approved. He is employed in the Public Recreation Commission.

Recommending that the commission deny the request of James J. Kiernan, an axeman employed in the Department of Public Works, Bureau of Design and Survey, for a special examination for promotion to rodman, for lack of power.

Saying that, in his opinion, the commission cannot grant the request of the Board of Inebriety for approval of the transfer of Theodore E. Hagenjos from clerk, at $900 per annum, in Bellevue and Allied Hospitals, to bookkeeper, at $1,200 per annum, in that department.

Recommending that the commission cancel the examination for promotion to Mechanical Engineer, Grade E, ordered for the Bureau of Public Works, Manhattan, on Dec. 20, 1912.

United States.

The United States Civil Service Commission announces an open competitive examination at the New York Custom House for copyist marine engine and boiler draughtsmen, for men only, on May 21, to fill a vacancy in this position in the Bureau of Steam Engineering, Navy Department, Washington, D. C., at $3.04 per diem, and vacancies as they may occur in positions requiring similar qualifications, at salaries ranging from $2.80 to $3.28 per diem. Competitors will be examined in the following subjects, which will have the relative weights indicated:

Mathematics, (covering arithmetic, algebra to quadratics, plane and solid geometry, and elements of plane trigonometry)	25
Drawing and details of construction, (covering engines, pumps, boilers, and the materials of which they are manufactured, and the making of drawings from sketches or descriptions)	45
Education, training, experience, and fitness	30

Applicants must have had a good common or high school education, including instruction in elementary mathematics and drawing. Statements as to education, training, experience, and fitness are accepted subject to verification. Competitors will be furnished the necessary drawing paper and tracing linen, but must supply themselves with a drawing board not less than 18 inches square, and all other necessary drawing materials. Age, 18 years or over on the date of the examination. Under an act of Congress an applicant for this position must be examined in the State or Territory in which he resides and show that he has been actually domiciled in that State or Territory for at least one year previous to the date of the examination. This is open to all men who are citizens or who owe allegiance to the United States and who meet the requirements.

WIRELESS NOT HAMPERED.

So Marconi Officers Say—Threat to Extend Strike to East.

Officers of the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company of America said last evening that the strike of the wireless men on the Pacific Coast had not hampered the service, and the company had had no difficulty in getting men. Vice President John Bottomley said:

"The men are well treated. They get not less than $40 a month with board and lodging. The wages are much higher than the Government offers to wireless men on the warships—from $25 a month up. Our men receive from $65 to $90 a month when working on land and have lodging besides. Our employes made no complaints, and the trouble was started by outsiders, leaders of the union. We will not listen to outsiders."

Organizer B. F. Shrimpton of the wireless branch of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union said that if the strike was not settled within a few days President Konenkamp would come here with the object of extending it to the vessels on the Atlantic. The demands of the strikers include a shorter workday and increases in wages ranging from 30 to 35 per cent.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Investors Buy Upper West Side Apartment Houses—Two Big Fifth Avenue Store Leases—New Tenant for U. S. Motor Company's Building.

Apartment deals on the upper west side and several large business leases supplied the chief features of interest in yesterday's realty market. Two of the apartment deals were made by Frederick Zittel & Sons in the west Harlem section. At 634 West 135th Street, the six-story apartment covering a plot 50 by 149.11 and irregular, about 3½ lots, was sold for the Charles Hensle Construction Company to an investor. The building is well rented.

The second deal by the same firm was in 137th Street, between Seventh and Eighth Avenues, where the six-story apartment at 263 and 265 West 137th Street, on a plot 45 by 99.11, was sold for A. H. Atterbury to an investor. The property is in the block with the row of King model houses. Title to both parcels passed yesterday. Henry Goething appearing as the buyer of the 137th Street house.

In the Washington Heights district the six-story apartment known as the Markeen, at 560 to 570 West 156th Street, on a plot 125 by 99.11, was sold by Samuel Glass to Adolph Sussman, who gave in part payment property at Edgewood, L. I. The house adjoins the Audubon Park apartment on the southeast corner of Broadway and 156th Street.

Deal on East 81st Street.

George S. Forschner has sold to Dr. F. L. Tooley the five-story flat 146 East Eighty-first Street, on a lot 22 by 104.

Buys Tenements for Loft Site.

Huberth & Huberth and William J. Gabel have sold for Mrs. Thomas J. Nealis the two four-story tenements on plot 40 by 100 at 414 and 416 East Twentieth Street. The buyer will raze the present buildings and construct a six-story loft on the site.

Big Fifth Avenue Leases.

One of the features of the realty market was two large Fifth Avenue store leases, one near Forty-second Street and the other below Thirty-fourth Street. The former involved the store recently occupied by R. M. Haan at 505 Fifth Avenue, an eighteen story building adjoining the northeast corner of Forty-second Street. This was one of the Corn buildings involved in the bankruptcy difficulties of the Improved Property Holding Company. The Haan store lease was automatically cancelled at the time of the bankruptcy proceedings and the store and basement have been taken at an advance, it is said, of $400,000 for the long term of the Haan lease by Alfred A. Kohn, the shoe dealer now at 1,231 Broadway, corner of Thirtieth Street. Douglas L. Elliman & Co. made the lease for Joseph J. O'Donohue, Jr., receiver of the property, and A. N. Gitterman represented the lessee.

The lease lower down the avenue included the store and basement of the five story building at 240 Fifth Avenue, between Twenty-seventh and Twenty-eighth Streets, made by Albert B. Ashforth for the estate of Kate C. Riggs to Charles W. Wolf, dealer in trunks, now at 22 Cortlandt Street. The rental is at the rate of $9,000 a year.

Brooklyn.

The Realty Traders' Corporations has purchased from the Parkway Realty Company two sixteen-family apartment buildings, 1,085 to 1,091 Eastern Parkway, near Utica Avenue. The buyers gave in part payment sixty-one lots at Arlington Park, North Arlington, N. J.

M. Bennett & Sons sold 383 Bergen Street, a two-story and basement brick dwelling, for Emelie Brotzmann to William O'Donnell, and 220 Seventy-ninth Street, a one-family detached cottage near Second Avenue, for J. E. Sullivan to E. Kealy.

Bulkley & Horton sold the three-story and basement dwelling 1,076 Bergen Street, lot 20 by 125, for James C. Green to a client for occupancy.

$122,000 Bronx Tenement Lease.

S. De Pasquale has leased for the Weiher Construction Company seven new law tenements, each on plot 50 by 100, at 610 to 634 East 136th Street, the Bronx, for a long term, at a total rental of about $122,000. The same broker has leased for Weil & Mayer 1,145 First Avenue, a five-story tenement, for three years, at $1,800 a year. This plot is 25 by 90.

Old U. S. Motor Co. Building Leased.

The old United States Motor Company building at 4 to 8 West Sixty-first Street, running through to 5 and 9 West Sixty-second Street, has been leased to the Jandorf Automobile Company for a term of years.

There are seven floors to the building, each having about 15,000 square feet of floor space. Fish & Marvin, in conjunction with Cross & Brown, negotiated the lease.

Theatre for Park Row.

Frederick Frisch has leased to M. Ancker 11 Park Row, an old three-story brick building on a lot 20 by 94 feet, running through to Ann Street. The lease is for a term of five years, at an aggregate rental of $85,000.

The lessee has ordered Gothelf & Zimmerman, contractors, to build a 280-seat moving picture theatre. The old building will be demolished on May 1.

Country House Rentals.

Herbert A. Sherman has leased for Richard T. Wainwright his place, Killua, at Rye, N. Y., directly on the water, with several acres of land, to John L. Cutler for the Summer.

Herman Frankfort has rented a cottage at Lawrence, L. I., for L. A. & D. A. Aasbacher to Herbert J. Carr and cottages at Far Rockaway to B. C. Levy and L. Heilbron.

Pease & Elliman have leased for George G. Entz his house on the Post Road at Rye to Gorton James.

Realty Notes.

Joseph P. Day will sell at auction today a vacant plot 135 feet front at 517 to 529 East Seventy-ninth Street, between Avenues A and B. The plot is to be sold in foreclosure proceedings brought by Joseph Hamershlag against the Wendover Bronx Company.

Heil & Stern have leased for Raymond & Raisman the store and basement at 3 and 5 East Twenty-eighth Street to the Manhattan Ribbon Company; also for Eliza Guggenheimer the westerly store at 40 to 46 West Twentieth Street to J. E. Brenner & Co.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, Southern District of New York.—In the matter of JAMES KENNEDY, Bankrupt.

Take notice that pursuant to an order of the Hon. John J. Townsend, referee in bankruptcy, the undersigned, trustee in bankruptcy, will sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, at the time and place stated below, pursuant to the rules of this court, all his right, title and interest in and to certain real property belonging to this estate, consisting of all those lots of land in the Borough of the Bronx, City of New York, designated by the lots numbers 124, 125, 126, and 127 on a certain map entitled "First Map of Westchester Heights, Westchester County, New York, the property of the Westchester and Van Nest Land Company," dated September 9, 1892, by H. H. Spindler, civil engineer, and filed in the office of the Register of the County of Westchester on September 9, 1893, as Map Number 869, bounded and described, according to said map as follows:

Beginning at a point on the northerly side of Saratoga Avenue, distant 50 feet westerly from the corner formed by the intersection of the said northerly side of Saratoga Avenue and the westerly side of Newport Street; running thence northerly along the westerly side of lot number 128, 100 feet; thence westerly along the rear of lots numbers 132, 133, 134, and 135, 100 feet; thence southerly along the easterly side of lot number 123, 100 feet to the said northerly side of Saratoga Avenue; thence easterly along the said northerly side of Saratoga Avenue, 100 feet to the point or place of beginning. Be said dimensions more or less.

Take notice that a meeting of the creditors of the bankrupt will be held at the office of the Hon. John J. Townsend, referee in bankruptcy, No. 45 Cedar Street, Borough of Manhattan, on the 12th day of May, 1913, at two o'clock on said day, at which time bids will be received and the property will be sold subject to the approval of the court and the creditors.

For further particulars apply to the undersigned, attorneys for the trustee.

Dated April 25, 1913.

The Saunterer

STYLE is like a shadow—you can point your finger at it, but you can't put your finger on it. Style is no one thing, but the lump sum of many things, each unimportant in itself, but all-important in the aggregate.

In Shoes, style betrays itself by the trim of the sole edge—by the slope of the toe—by the poise of the heel—by the span of the shank—by the trifle of a "stitched tip"—by the incidental of an eyelet—by "bagatelles" that, added up, total that rarest of attributes—distinction.

All that the "custom bootmaker" plods to give you, Regal plots and gives you, draining the world dry for pre-advanced styles and spurning cost to get them. A Regal Shoe on your foot puts the proof into your hand.

This morning—this noon—to-night, step into any Regal Shop, and try on doubles of the highest-caste "custom boots" at the lowest cost at which shoes of such concentrated "smartness" can be sold. Don't forget—to-day.

BIG BROTHERS DINE LITTLE BROTHERS

PELT JUGGLER FROM STAGE

District Attorney Asks Them to Help Others—Judge Ben Lindsay Speaks of His Denver Work.

One hundred and seventy-five Little Brothers, boys who have beeen placed on probation by the Children's Court, sitting side by side with their Big Brothers, men prominent in all professions who look after them during their probationary period, had their "big dinner" last night at the Murray Hill Lyceum, 160 East Thirty-fourth Street, interspersed with songs and tricks by jugglers and magicians.

At the end of the dinner the lads were addressed by some of their Big Brothers, including District Attorney Whitman and George Gordon Battle, who told them that association with them made life happier and better for their big brothers.

The Little Brothers were congratulated by Judge Franklin C. Hoyt, President of the Big Brothers Society, on the fact that they had so beleaguered the juggler before their Big Brother, the District Attorney, put in his appearance, and then introduced Mr. Whitman.

Addressing himself to the Little Brothers and Big Brothers, as well as to the Big Sisters and Little Sisters, who were present in the boxes around the big auditorium, District Attorney Whitman said that he was glad to see the "whole family."

"If all the Big Brothers," said Mr. Whitman, "all the men in this city who are really your Big Brothers, were to come here to-night, they could not get into this hall. Little Brothers, you have more friends than you know.

"I wish I could be a boy again, a boy of 15 years. There is only one thing better than being a boy, and that is being a real man. All that is left for men like Mr. Battle and me is to try to be real men. So, boys, you really have the advantage of us.

"Remember that you are going to be men some day, and that you are going to so conduct yourselves that when the Big Brothers relinquish their places to you, you will become Big Brothers to somebody else. Now don't abuse your advantages and don't you make the city ashamed of you, or the Big Brothers sorry they helped you."

Judge Ben Lindsay told the Little Brothers many interesting things about his Little Brothers in Denver, and George Gordon Battle and Ernest K. Coulter, formerly Chief Clerk of the Children's Court, who organized the Big Brothers' movement in 1904, also talked to the boys, and told them that their Big Brothers were proud of them.

Then the Little Brothers expressed their gratitude through their spokesmen, Harry Utley, Charles Bartlett and another lad, who preferred to be called just plain "Dutch."

Some of the Big Brothers present were Roy F. Parsons, Justices J. B. Mayo and George Duell of Special Sessions, George B. Robinson, Frank Smith, Lionel Moses, R. G. Sheldon, R. L. Gerry, Dennis A. Lambert, Lawrence Abbott, J. P. Downey, Corwin Black, C. C. Auchincloss, C. B. Booth, Dr. George N. Crary, and Franklin H. Allen.

In the boxes, some of the Big Sisters were Mrs. Ross McPherson, Miss Charlotte Baker, Miss Madeline Evans, Mrs. J. Searle Barclay, Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson, Mrs. F. Leonard Kellogg, Mrs. J. W. Ball, Mrs. R. C. Baird, Mrs. J. Nelson Borland, Miss Elizabeth Muton, and Mrs. Davis-Krouse.

CRUSHED BY PADDLE-WHEEL

Man Killed in Mohawk's Wheel When Machinery Is Tested.

While two steamfitters were at work yesterday at noon on the drain pipes in the paddle-wheel box of the excursion steamer Mohawk, as she lay at her pier at the foot of Fifty-sixth Street, Brooklyn, the engineer, Frank O. David, began to test his machinery.

The rope was slack enough to permit a few trial revolutions and, according to his story, he sent an oiler to see that eveything was all right, David started his machinery, and the men in the wheel-box suddenly found themselves clutching to revolving paddles.

The space in the box beyond reach of the blades was too small to offer shelter. Their only hope was to cling to the blades themselves, and this they found impossible. The wheel soon sloughed them off into the waters of the bay, but not before one of them, Arthur Brown of 65 James Street, Manhattan, had been crushed to death. Albert Ludgig of the same address was painfully cut and bruised, but he was alive when a deckhand pulled him out of the water. He is now in the Norwegian Hospital.

The oiler, John Fernandez, was closely questioned by the police. He said that he had taken care to look into the paddle-wheel box, but that for some reason he could not explain, he had not seen the steamfitters at work there.

High Grade Suits
$50.00 Value for $26.50
Tailored to Your Measure from a Vast Assortment of Beautiful Woolens
No Deposit Required
Complete Guarantee

President Wilson and Congressman Underwood have won their fight for reduction on wool. As a consequence the woolen market is as uncertain as a day in April. We luckily took advantage of it and have purchased 8,000 yards of woolens, domestic and importations. They are high grade summer weight cloth, and we were fortunate in our buying price.

Therefore we throw wide open our spacious made-to-measure shops and will tailor to your order any style sack or Norfolk suit you select, guaranteed, for

Here is the chance of the season to outfit yourself in a smart perfectly made, well-fitting guaranteed suit from fabrics whose value in some cases warrants a price of $50.00.

This offer includes all styles of sack suits, and also the season's popular Norfolks.

A corps of experienced tailors will take care of your commands at the nearest of our four stores.

Booklet Free

There is a constant temptation on the part of piano manufacturers to make pianos merely to sell. ¶The case is really the least important part—but it looks important because it is all you can see. ¶Therefore the maker of commercial pianos puts his best work on the exterior. ¶To enable you—whether you know anything about pianos or not—to distinguish the good from the bad, we have done two things for your protection. ¶First, we back the Sohmer with an absolute money-back life-time guarantee. ¶Second, we publish a book which tells in an interesting, understandable way how to judge a piano. ¶Follow the simple tests in this book and you will insure the best selection. We call this new book "The Pith of the Piano Problem" and will gladly mail you a copy without cost or obligation. Write today—a postal will do.
